Red 'Peace' Propaganda Is Awaited

Delegates of 30 Nations Assemble in China to Do Soviet Axis Bidding

Aimed at America

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
(AP Foreign News Analyst)

Opening barrages of a gigantic world Communist peace offensive will be fired this weekend. The thunder of the propaganda guns will mark the first phase of a new Soviet tactical assault upon the United States.

From about 30 countries—those in Asia and those such as Canada and Latin America bordering the Pacific—delegates have assembled in Peiping, capital of Communist China to do the bidding of the Moscow-Peiping axis in this latest campaign.

The countries "represented" by the Communist-inspired delegates have a population of more than a billion and a half people and cover two-thirds of the earth's surface. Some countries, such as Australia and Japan, have forbidden passports to prospective delegates.

Formulated in July

Plans for this assault were concocted in July, under Soviet guidance, at the conference of the Communist World Council of Peace in Berlin. The Peiping meeting is a curtain raiser to the mighty peace offensive which reaches its climax Dec. 5 in Vienna with a World Congress.

There is little doubt that the offensive is tied in with the decision of Moscow to summon an all-union congress of the Soviet Communist party Oct. 5, the first such congress in 13 years. The peace congresses and the Soviet Party Congress all clearly are part of the Soviet grand strategy in the cold war.

Asia Is Focal Point

The major attack is in Asia. One goal is the expulsion of American influence through damage to American prestige. The ultimate goal is Communist domination of all Asia. But the Communist appetite will not even be satisfied with that. In the future are plans for domination of the Middle East, Africa and South and Central America. This is a long-range program which is underway now, among whose aims is the engendering of economic crises in the west, and particularly in the United States. It looks toward cheap Soviet victory.

Ike Tells Throng Democrats Have No Mortgage on South

Roaring Acknowledgment Made to Statement on Dixie—Hits at Policies

Aboard Eisenhower Special, Sept. 26 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower opened a second invasion of the south today to the thunderous welcome of 43,000 cheering North Carolinians at Charlotte.

Greeted with a massed "I like Ike" chant from 18,000 persons who overflowed Charlotte Memorial Stadium, the smiling Republican presidential nominee asserted that he was going to recognize "no political mortgage" by the Democrats on Dixie.

Before he spoke, Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, got a smiling, cheering greeting as they rode through Charlotte's packed streets in the early morning sunlight.

The general told the applauding stadium crowd that when he first entered the political lists he was advised not to "waste time" in attempting to court the south.

Speaks From His Army Experience Against UMT for Nation

By JACK BELL

Aboard the Eisenhower Special, Sept. 26 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower headed for Dixie today after tumultuous acclaim in Baltimore last night for his slashing attack on the Truman administration's defense policies.

The Republican presidential nominee—speaking from his background as a general of the army—told a howling crowd of 12,000 persons who jammed Baltimore's Fifth Regiment Armory that armed services unification is a virtual failure.

Continuing his bristling indictment, Eisenhower said instead of duplication the United States has reaped "triplication" from efforts to mould its fighting forces into one.

He adopted the same line pursued by Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, with whom he recently joined forces, in opposing universal military training so long as the Korean war continues the necessity for the military draft.

.... Almost Forgotten

Almost forgotten for the moment was the political battle over the acceptance of privately-raised expense funds by his vice presidential running mate and the countering Republican attack on a Democratic salary ante raised in Illinois with the approval of Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, indicated through his campaign manager, Wilson Wyatt, that he plans a "further statement" on the fund raised to increase the compensation of Illinois state appointive officials who otherwise could not afford to take such jobs.

Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, head of Eisenhower's Advisory Campaign Committee, said yesterday if Stevenson didn't make public the names of the contributors and beneficiaries it would prove the Democratic nominee had "something to hide."

Adams said in a statement Stevenson is "going to try to brazen out the fact he had a private fund to provide Christmas bonuses and regular monthly gift payments to deserving Democrats in his state administration."

Nixon Is Secure

Eisenhower made it clear, during a day of whistle stopping in West Virginia and Maryland, that Nixon is securely on the ticket with him after the latter's explanation of his acceptance of some $18,000 in expense money raised by wealthy Californians.

At Hagerstown, Md., Eisenhower said a woman urged him to "keep Dick Nixon with you" and he replied: "That already has been done."

While GOP leaders voiced satisfaction Nixon had used none of the expense money for his personal use, there was considerable discussion about such funds.

Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) told a radio audience (MBS) last night that he believed in the future it would be better that official party organizations receive an accounting for such funds.

"I think that Nixon fully made clear that none of the funds was used for private means," Knowland said.

Eisenhower's schedule today takes him through North Carolina and Virginia, with a major speech tonight at Richmond.

One of Greatest Ovations

Eisenhower's attack on the Truman administration's defense policies was delivered against the background of one of the greatest ovations Baltimore has given a presidential candidate in many years.

Animated crowds lined the streets on his arrival. They waited before his hotel until time for him to drive to the armory for his night speech.

Wyatt Says Stevenson Will Talk When His New Drive Begins — Has Become Quiet

To Visit 17 States

Democrat's Itinerary Is Set for 11,548 Miles of Travel

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 26 (AP)—Gov. Adlai Stevenson said today he is contacting contributors to his much discussed fund, for supplementing state salaries, with a view to making their names public.

The Democratic nominee said he was having trouble with his canvass because there were "so many" donors. He did not indicate when the names might be made known.

Promises Report

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 26 (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson promised to speak up about his controversial fund for supplementing salaries of Illinois officials as he toed the line today for 11,548 miles of rugged campaigning through 17 states.

The Democratic presidential nominee, starting the semi-finals of his campaign with a dash into Indiana, also had an opportunity to open up on the political alliance between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Hoosier Senator William E. Jenner.

The word from Wilson Wyatt, Stevenson's campaign manager, was that the Illinois governor definitely "will have something further to say" about the special funds that has become a target for a heavy, daily bombardment from the Republican camp.

Is Viewed as Squirming

Wyatt wasn't going so far as to say the Democratic candidate for the White House was really worried about repeated GOP suggestions that Stevenson may have "something to hide." Yet the fact that the governor agreed to say something more indicated that Stevenson was squirming a bit under the Republican needling.

So far, Stevenson has declined to reveal how big the fund was, who contributed to it, or who got what amounts from it.

What he has said about it boils down to this:

Mossadegh Talks Roughly About Oil Dispute With Britain in Recent Note

Washington, Sept. 26 (AP) — United States officials saw some hope today—but not very much—in Premier Mossadegh's latest proposal for a settlement of his country's oil dispute with Britain.

The Iranian premier's tough-talking note—he appeared to imply his country might go Communist unless his demands were met — was received here yesterday, addressed to President Truman. It was in the form of a copy of a detailed set of counter proposals which he addressed initially to British Prime Minister Churchill.

The message to the two western leaders was considered tough in three respects:

1. Mossadegh rejected as "inequitable" a joint settlement plan which Truman and Churchill placed before him on Aug. 30;

2. He waved the apparent Communist threat.

3. He gave only 10 days from today for an answer.

Implied Threat

The implied threat to yield to communism was seen in this paragraph:

"In the present circumstances the Iranian nation may follow one of two roads; either it should endeavor to improve the social conditions and ameliorate the situation of the deprived classes, something that would be impossible without the income from oil, or, if this road should remain blocked, it should surrender itself to probable future events which

Zoning Change Applications Draw Opposition at Hearings

Acheson Says Red Attack Improper

U. S. Ambassador Termed Slanderer by Pravda, Enemy of Russia

Washington, Sept. 26 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson said today a sharp attack on Ambassador George F. Kennan by Moscow's official Communist paper Pravda is wholly unjustified and improper.

Pravda called the American envoy in Moscow a "slanderer disguised as a diplomat" who lied about the Soviet Union and is an enemy of Russia.

The criticism was based on a statement by Kennan comparing life for Americans in Moscow now to the life of internees under German Nazis in wartime.

Acheson, asked about the attack at his news conference, said Kennan's quoted remarks seemed to be a very calm and accurate description of what life is like in Moscow.

Kennan made his comments to reporters at Berlin's Templehof Airport.

During a stopover there Sept. 19, the U. S. envoy said that Russians recently have been forbidden all social contact with Americans in Moscow. Recalling his experiences while interned in Germany in 1941-42, Kennan said, "had the Nazis permitted us to walk the streets without having any right to talk to any Germans, that would be precisely how we have to live today in Moscow."

Denies Strike Connection

Los Angeles, Sept. 26 (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett is in town today to inspect southern California airplane plants but not, he says, as a mediator in the aircraft industry strike which has curtailed warplane production. "This trip was planned last July and has no relation to the strikes," he said upon arrival by air force plane last night. Lovett plans to visit both Lockheed and Douglas plants today.

Roosevelt Park Group Makes Query Based on Traffic; Shows Petition

Public hearings on two applications for zoning changes on properties that would be used for a super market drew opposition in the Common Council Chamber last night.

The application by Martin & Moran, Inc., is for a business designation on an Albany avenue property and that by Harold Halwick and John W. Evans is for a similar designation on a Madison avenue parcel.

The hearing brought out the point that the Grand Union company is interested in building a market on the two properties.

The applicants were represented by counsel, Vincent G. Connelly for Halwick and Evans and Charles Gaffney for Martin & Moran, and 11 persons who reside in the Roosevelt Park area opposed the change.

Alderman Abram D. Relyea, chairman of the council's Laws and Rules Committee conducted the hearing, and present also were Alderman John Dolan and Robbert Cullum, members of the committee.

Appears for Residents

Second Ward Alderman Benjamin Storms, although not a member of the committee, appeared in behalf of the interested persons in his ward. He said he was interested in how traffic would be affected by a market in the area, and he felt it might cause congestion.

Attorney Connelly showed a petition signed by many residents of the area, who were in favor of the zoning change. He stressed that much of the property in the area is now in the business zone.

Attorney Gaffney said that the property involved on Madison avenue was small and would be used only by shoppers driving to and from the store.

Heavy Traffic Cited

Those opposing, however, said that increased traffic would include large trailer-trucks that would drive in and out of the area at all hours. They also held that additional traffic would be hazardous to children of the neighborhood, and they argued against zoning change infringements on the rights of those who feel they are safely established in a residential area.

Opponents of the proposal were more concerned about extending a business zone on Madison avenue. Considerable of the Albany avenue section is now business property.

Admits Policy Charge

New York, Sept. 26 (Special)—David Nixon, 45, of Continental Road, Napanoch, pleaded guilty Thursday in Special Sessions Court here to a charge of illegal possession of policy slips. He was continued in $500 bail to await sentencing on October 9th. Nixon was arrested on September 6th in an apartment at 231 West 148th street here. Patrolman Rudolph Berthoud said he found a policy slip with eight numbers hidden in Nixon's left sock.

Central Will Put Beeliner on Run Kingston to Albany

Other Diesel Service Is Planned, if Enough Patrons Use Convenience

An innovation in railroad travel between Kingston and Albany is shortly to be inaugurated by the West Shore Railroad with the installation of a Beeliner Budd car on that run. The Beeliner will operate daily except Sundays between Albany and Kingston, connecting with the Diesel operated service between Kingston and Weehawken.

Should this operation prove successful additional Beeliners may be installed on the Albany run.

For the present the Beeliner will operate out of Albany as No. 618, leaving Albany at 10:05, daily except Sundays, and arrive in Kingston at 11:58 a. m. It will connect with No. 8 out of Kingston, which leaves at 12:30 p. m. and arrives in Weehawken at 3:15 p. m.

Going west again the Beeliner will leave Kingston at 12:15 p. m. and arrive in Albany at 2:05 p. m. It will be designated as No. 631.

The western trip to Albany by the Beeliner will connect at Kingston with West Shore train No. 21 which leaves Weehawken at 9 a. m. and arrives in Kingston at 11:45 a. m.

Used as Rush Express

The Beeliner cars, which have been installed on numerous short hauls where traffic is light, are a combination passenger, baggage and mail car handling important rush express packages. The cars are operated by an engineer, conductor and baggageman.

These Budd combination cars are capable to speeds up to 85 miles an hour although the nature

Seen Any Gold? Canada Seeks Half Ton Valued at $300,000

Toronto, Canada, Sept. 26 (AP)—A nation-wide alarm was out today for nearly a half ton of gold, valued at about $300,000, which vanished after it was placed in an unguarded, padlocked cargo shed at nearby Malton Airport Terminal.

Police said they believed the gold had been stolen but there appeared to be some question as to where the theft might have taken place. Officials were closed-mouthed about details of both the disappearance and the subsequent investigation.

If the bullion had been stolen, it was Canada's third major gold theft in four months.

Packed in six boxes weighing a total of 848 pounds, the gold apparently vanished late Wednesday. Police were not called in, however, until yesterday morning.

The six boxes of precious metal were part of a shipment of 10 in transit to Montreal. Only four of the 10, containing about $150,000 worth of bullion, were checked in at the final destination.

Officials of trans-Canada Air lines, which operates the air terminal, dcelined comment on the case except for a brief statement saying:

"As far as TCA is concerned, the gold is just missing. We have no official knowledge that it was stolen. Nor do we know exactly what it is worth."

These details were known:

The gold was delivered under guard to the airport by Brinks, Inc., the armored money-car firm. It was turned over to TCA cargo handlers who signed a receipt for it and placed it in a wire-net cage. The cage was locked with a small padlock but no guards were stationed near it.

An employe took some of the boxes from the shed and started to wheel them on a hand truck to the waiting plane, 120 feet away. Halfway there he left the truck alone for three or four minutes while he went 60 yards to the post office to pick up mail for the flight.

The plane scheduled to carry the gold arrived in Montreal at 10:45 p. m. Wednesday. Six boxes were reported missing the next day.

Investigators said they believed the gold had been stolen by a well-organized gang who had been given an inside tip-off.

TCA officials declined to say who owned the gold or where the shipment had come from. It was believed, however, that it had originated at the rich gold mines in northern Ontario and was en route to Britain and Switzerland.

Canada's last big gold thefts occurred in May. Three gold bricks, valued at about $80,000, were stolen from an unguarded mail cart on a railway station platform at Sudbury, Ont., May 29.

A week earlier, four bricks valued at $120,000, were taken from a vault of the East Malartic Mines in Malartic, Que. Three of the bricks were recovered shortly after and a mine mechanic admitted the theft.

Sabre Jets Down Four MIGs; Month's Total So Far Is 56

Seoul, Korea, Sept. 26 (AP)—U. S. Sabre jets today shot down four Communist MIG jets in the first air battles in four days, the U. S. Fifth Air Force said.

The blazing dogfights boosted the September toll of Russian-built jets to a record 56 destroyed. The old monthly marks of 44 was set last April.

The air force said the swift Sabres also damaged four MIGs in battles with 16 Red fighters east of Sinuiju, south of the Yalu river. One damage claim was not confirmed.

The U. S. Eighth Army said Communist troops probed allied outposts north and northeast of the Punchbowl on the eastern fronts Thursday night and early today. Six times the Reds fell back under withering UN mortar fire.

Allied fighter bombers renewed their attacks on the Communist supply system. Land-based U. S. Marine planes bombed Red military targets on the Haeju peninsula on the western front.

Pilots said they wrecked 31 troop and supply buildings.

Marine pilots from the U. S. Carrier Sicily said they knocked out seven transformers and a road bridge in 35 flights over northwest Korea late Thursday.

B-26 bombers took advantage of clearing weather with night raids on North Korean supply routes. The U. S. Fifth Air Force said they destroyed 71 Red supply trucks.

Nine B-29 Superforts hurled nearly 100 tons of bombs at the Hulliak supply center, northwest of Pyongyang, capital of North Korea.

The Eighth Army reported 10 Red probes and about 20 patrol clashes along the 155-mile front during Thursday's diminishing rain.

Communist artillery and mortar fire in the 24 hours up to 6 p. m. Thursday was the lightest in more than a month. The Reds fired only 1,652 rounds, nearly 9,400 fewer than the preceding 24 hours.

U.S.S. Sea Robin Ties Up Near City

Snorkel Submarine Can't Attract Water Taxi, Sailors 'Marooned'

A lot of sailors remained virtually "at sea" in the Hudson last night when they were unable to get water taxi service from the U.S.S. Sea Robin, a submarine of the Snorkel type which tied up near here for several hours.

Herman Lange, of the U. S. Coast Guard, and keeper of the Rondout light, said the submarine, bearing No. 407 arrived at a point north of the ferry slip on the Rhinecliff side of the river at about 7:20 p. m.

Lange saw the anchor lights, he said, and went over to investigate. He talked to members of the crew who were interested in obtaining launch service to the city, but none could be found.

The submarine was scheduled to arrive in Albany today for a week-end stay during which it is to be inspected by scientists and engineers who are now engaged in the building of an atomic plant for submarines at the Knolls Atomic Plant laboratory near Schenectady.

Officer Walter VanSteenburgh reported to police headquarters at 7:05 a. m., that the submarine was on its way toward Albany.

Acheson Says Ike Misquoted Him

Secretary Says General Was in Accordance With 1950 Plan

Washington, Sept. 26 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson said today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as army chief of staff prior to the Korean war supported an American defense line in the Far East which did not include Korea.

Eisenhower last Monday attacked an Acheson speech of January, 1950, as helping bring on the war five months later. Acheson replied today that Eisenhower "tortures the facts." He accused the Republican presidential candidate of misquoting him and misrepresenting his views.

Counter-Attacks Ike

At a news conference Acheson counter-attacked Eisenhower directly and by name and sought to drive home two points:

1. He said the Pacific defense line which he defined in his 1950 speech was "developed by our military authorities" and while it did not include Korea, Eisenhower's opinion as chief-of-staff (1945-1948) was "wholly in accordance with the statement I made."

The line was laid down as one America would man and "defend alone if necessary", and Acheson

Promises Report

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 26 (AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson promised to speak up about his controversial fund for supplementing salaries of Illinois officials as he toed the line today for 11,548 miles of rugged campaigning through 17 states.

The Democratic presidential nominee, starting the semi-finals of his campaign with a dash into Indiana, also had an opportunity to open up on the political alliance between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Hoosier Senator William E. Jenner.

The word from Wilson Wyatt, Stevenson's campaign manager, was that the Illinois governor definitely "will have something further to say" about the special funds that has become a target for a heavy, daily bombardment from the Republican camp.

Is Viewed as Squirming

Wyatt wasn't going so far as to say the Democratic candidate for the White House was really worried about repeated GOP suggestions that Stevenson may have "something to hide." Yet the fact that the governor agreed to say something more indicated that Stevenson was squirming a bit under the Republican needling.

So far, Stevenson has declined to reveal how big the fund was, who contributed to it, or who got what amounts from it.

What he has said about it boils down to this:

Although there has been no

Acheson Says Ike Misquoted Him

Secretary Says General Was in Accordance With 1950 Plan

Washington, Sept. 26 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson said today that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as army chief of staff prior to the Korean war supported an American defense line in the Far East which did not include Korea.

Eisenhower last Monday attacked an Acheson speech of January, 1950, as helping bring on the war five months later. Acheson replied today that Eisenhower "tortures the facts." He accused the Republican presidential candidate of misquoting him and misrepresenting his views.

Counter-Attacks Ike

At a news conference Acheson counter-attacked Eisenhower directly and by name and sought to drive home two points:

1. He said the Pacific defense line which he defined in his 1950 speech was "developed by our military authorities" and while it did not include Korea, Eisenhower's opinion as chief-of-staff (1945-1948) was "wholly in accordance with the statement I made."

The line was laid down as one America would man and "defend alone if necessary", and Acheson

U. S. Ambassador Termed Slanderer by Pravda, Enemy of Russia

Washington, Sept. 26 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson said today a sharp attack on Ambassador George F. Kennan by Moscow's official Communist paper Pravda is wholly unjustified and improper.

Pravda called the American envoy in Moscow a "slanderer disguised as a diplomat" who lied about the Soviet Union and is an enemy of Russia.

The criticism was based on a statement by Kennan comparing life for Americans in Moscow now to the life of internees under German Nazis in wartime.

Acheson, asked about the attack at his news conference, said Kennan's quoted remarks seemed to be a very calm and accurate description of what life is like in Moscow.

Kennan made his comments to reporters at Berlin's Templehof Airport.

During a stopover there Sept. 19, the U. S. envoy said that Russians recently have been forbidden all social contact with Americans in Moscow. Recalling his experiences while interned in Germany in 1941-42, Kennan said, "had the Nazis permitted us to walk the streets without having any right to talk to any Germans, that would be precisely how we have to live today in Moscow."

Denies Strike Connection

Los Angeles, Sept. 26 (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett is in town today to inspect southern California airplane plants but not, he says, as a mediator in the aircraft industry strike which has curtailed warplane production. "This trip was planned last July and has no relation to the strikes," he said upon arrival by air force plane last night. Lovett plans to visit both Lockheed and Douglas plants today.

Roosevelt Park Group Makes Query Based on Traffic; Shows Petition

Public hearings on two applications for zoning changes on properties that would be used for a super market drew opposition in the Common Council Chamber last night.

The application by Martin & Moran, Inc., is for a business designation on an Albany avenue property and that by Harold Halwick and John W. Evans is for a similar designation on a Madison avenue parcel.

The hearing brought out the point that the Grand Union company is interested in building a market on the two properties.

The applicants were represented by counsel, Vincent G. Connelly for Halwick and Evans and Charles Gaffney for Martin & Moran, and 11 persons who reside in the Roosevelt Park area opposed the change.

Alderman Abram D. Relyea, chairman of the council's Laws and Rules Committee conducted the hearing, and present also were Alderman John Dolan and Robbert Cullum, members of the committee.

Appears for Residents

Second Ward Alderman Benjamin Storms, although not a member of the committee, appeared in behalf of the interested persons in his ward. He said he was interested in how traffic would be affected by a market in the area, and he felt it might cause congestion.

Attorney Connelly showed a petition signed by many residents of the area, who were in favor of the zoning change. He stressed that much of the property in the area is now in the business zone.

Attorney Gaffney said that the property involved on Madison avenue was small and would be used only by shoppers driving to and from the store.

Heavy Traffic Cited

Those opposing, however, said that increased traffic would include large trailer-trucks that would drive in and out of the area at all hours. They also held that additional traffic would be hazardous to children of the neighborhood, and they argued against zoning change infringements on the rights of those who feel they are safely established in a residential area.

Opponents of the proposal were more concerned about extending a business zone on Madison avenue. Considerable of the Albany avenue section is now business property.

Central Will Put Beeliner on Run Kingston to Albany

Other Diesel Service Is Planned, if Enough Patrons Use Convenience

An innovation in railroad travel between Kingston and Albany is shortly to be inaugurated by the West Shore Railroad with the installation of a Beeliner Budd car on that run. The Beeliner will operate daily except Sundays between Albany and Kingston, connecting with the Diesel operated service between Kingston and Weehawken.

Should this operation prove successful additional Beeliners may be installed on the Albany run.

For the present the Beeliner will operate out of Albany as No. 618, leaving Albany at 10:05, daily except Sundays, and arrive in Kingston at 11:58 a. m. It will connect with No. 8 out of Kingston, which leaves at 12:30 p. m. and arrives in Weehawken at 3:15 p. m.

Going west again the Beeliner will leave Kingston at 12:15 p. m. and arrive in Albany at 2:05 p. m. It will be designated as No. 631.

The western trip to Albany by the Beeliner will connect at Kingston with West Shore train No. 21 which leaves Weehawken at 9 a. m. and arrives in Kingston at 11:45 a. m.

Used as Rush Express

The Beeliner cars, which have been installed on numerous short hauls where traffic is light, are a combination passenger, baggage and mail car handling important rush express packages. The cars are operated by an engineer, conductor and baggageman.

These Budd combination cars are capable to speeds up to 85 miles an hour although the nature

U.S.S. Sea Robin Ties Up Near City

Snorkel Submarine Can't Attract Water Taxi, Sailors 'Marooned'

A lot of sailors remained virtually "at sea" in the Hudson last night when they were unable to get water taxi service from the U.S.S. Sea Robin, a submarine of the Snorkel type which tied up near here for several hours.

Herman Lange, of the U. S. Coast Guard, and keeper of the Rondout light, said the submarine, bearing No. 407 arrived at a point north of the ferry slip on the Rhinecliff side of the river at about 7:20 p. m.

Lange saw the anchor lights, he said, and went over to investigate. He talked to members of the crew who were interested in obtaining launch service to the city, but none could be found.

The submarine was scheduled to arrive in Albany today for a week-end stay during which it is to be inspected by scientists and engineers who are now engaged in the building of an atomic plant for submarines at the Knolls Atomic Plant laboratory near Schenectady.

Officer Walter VanSteenburgh reported to police headquarters at 7:05 a. m., that the submarine was on its way toward Albany.

Admits Policy Charge

Seen Any Gold? Canada Seeks Half Ton Valued at $300,000

Toronto, Canada, Sept. 26 (AP)—A nation-wide alarm was out today for nearly a half ton of gold, valued at about $300,000, which vanished after it was placed in an unguarded, padlocked cargo shed at nearby Malton Airport Terminal.

Police said they believed the gold had been stolen but there appeared to be some question as to where the theft might have taken place. Officials were closed-mouthed about details of both the disappearance and the subsequent investigation.

If the bullion had been stolen, it was Canada's third major gold theft in four months.

Packed in six boxes weighing a total of 848 pounds, the gold apparently vanished late Wednesday. Police were not called in, however, until yesterday morning.

The six boxes of precious metal were part of a shipment of 10 in transit to Montreal. Only four of the 10, containing about $150,000 worth of bullion, were checked in at the final destination.

Officials of trans-Canada Air lines, which operates the air terminal, dcelined comment on the case except for a brief statement saying:

"As far as TCA is concerned, the gold is just missing. We have no official knowledge that it was stolen. Nor do we know exactly what it is worth."

These details were known:

The gold was delivered under guard to the airport by Brinks, Inc., the armored money-car firm. It was turned over to TCA cargo handlers who signed a receipt for it and placed it in a wire-net cage. The cage was locked with a small padlock but no guards were stationed near it.

An employe took some of the boxes from the shed and started to wheel them on a hand truck to the waiting plane, 120 feet away. Halfway there he left the truck alone for three or four minutes while he went 60 yards to the post office to pick up mail for the flight.

The plane scheduled to carry the gold arrived in Montreal at 10:45 p. m. Wednesday. Six boxes were reported missing the next day.

Investigators said they believed the gold had been stolen by a well-organized gang who had been given an inside tip-off.

TCA officials declined to say who owned the gold or where the shipment had come from. It was believed, however, that it had originated at the rich gold mines in northern Ontario and was en route to Britain and Switzerland.

Canada's last big gold thefts occurred in May. Three gold bricks, valued at about $80,000, were stolen from an unguarded mail cart on a railway station platform at Sudbury, Ont., May 29.

A week earlier, four bricks valued at $120,000, were taken from a vault of the East Malartic Mines in Malartic, Que. Three of the bricks were recovered shortly after and a mine mechanic admitted the theft.

Sabre Jets Down Four MIGs; Month's Total So Far Is 56

Seoul, Korea, Sept. 26 (AP)—U. S. Sabre jets today shot down four Communist MIG jets in the first air battles in four days, the U. S. Fifth Air Force said.

The blazing dogfights boosted the September toll of Russian-built jets to a record 56 destroyed. The old monthly marks of 44 was set last April.

The air force said the swift Sabres also damaged four MIGs in battles with 16 Red fighters east of Sinuiju, south of the Yalu river. One damage claim was not confirmed.

The U. S. Eighth Army said Communist troops probed allied outposts north and northeast of the Punchbowl on the eastern fronts Thursday night and early today. Six times the Reds fell back under withering UN mortar fire.

Allied fighter bombers renewed their attacks on the Communist supply system, Land-based U. S. Marine planes bombed Red military targets on the Haeju peninsula on the western front.

Pilots said they wrecked 31 troop and supply buildings.

Marine pilots from the U. S. Carrier Sicily said they knocked out seven transformers and a road bridge in 35 flights over northwest Korea late Thursday.

B-26 bombers took advantage of clearing weather with night raids on North Korean supply routes. The U. S. Fifth Air Force said they destroyed 71 Red supply trucks.

Nine B-29 Superforts hurled nearly 100 tons of bombs at the Hulliak supply center, northwest of Pyongyang, capital of North Korea.

The Eighth Army reported 10 Red probes and about 20 patrol clashes along the 155-mile front during Thursday's diminishing rain.

Communist artillery and mortar fire in the 24 hours up to 6 p. m. Thursday was the lightest in more than a month. The Reds fired only 1,652 rounds, nearly 9,400 fewer than the preceding 24 hours.

Thomas Arrives To Inspect Drains

Joseph L. Thomas, construction superintendent for Lipsett, Inc., Broadway underpass contractor, arrived here today from Philadelphia to inspect conditions which have caused the street to flood during heavy rains.

Thomas said, he had not completed his inspection and conferences he planned to hold here on remedial steps recommended by the state public works department, and therefore was unable to comment on the suggestions today.

The state proposed separation of storm water and sanitary flows at the point where the street floods and also installation of lockhead manhole covers. It forwarded these suggestions to the contractor following Common Council action authorizing rejection of the project by the city until the cause of the floods is corrected.

World's Orbit Ends At Fishkill for Two

Two local youngsters who set out last night to see the world, saw it only between here and Fishkill before they attracted police attention.

Police headquarters was notified early today that William Glenn, 15, of 155 Abeel street, and John Barnhart, 14, of 21 Ravine street, left notes in mail boxes at their homes saying in effect that they were running away.

Local police were notified late this morning that state police had apprehended them at Fishkill.

would be to the detriment of world peace."

State Department officials said there would be quick consultation between British and American leaders who have struggled with the Iranian problem for months, not so much because of the oil dispute itself as because of the strong belief here that unless the dispute is settled the threat of a Communist takeover in Iran is indeed serious.

Reason for Hope

The principal reason for hope among American experts now is that Mossadegh has not closed the door to a settlement. One informant said "our policy certainly is to keep the door open and we will do all we can to that end now that he has not closed it."

However, the odds against a settlement still appeared almost overwhelming, particularly because of Mossadegh's powerful political supporters has already attacked Mossadegh's proposals as too soft and in effect threatened an overthrow of the government if they are accepted.

The western powers thus found themselves in a position of uncertainty over what Iran eventually would be prepared to accept in the way of a deal, if anything. The basis of Mossadegh's proposition was that claims for compensation by the Anglo Iranian Oil Company as a result of Iranian nationalization of oil 18 months ago could be determined by the International Court of Justice at the Hague. Truman and Churchill had proposed this so there was no dispute on that point.

Lays Down Conditions

Mossadegh, however, laid down a number of conditions which would limit Anglo Iranian Oil Company claims to compensation for actual loss of physical property, thereby eliminating any claim for loss of profits.

But what is regarded here as the most difficult obstacle is a demand that Britain pay Iranian advance 49 million pounds which the Anglo Iranian Oil Company had been accumulating to pay increased royalties to Iran under an agreement which the Iranian parliament never ratified.

Mossadegh has always contended this money really belonged to his country and now he has insisted, as state department officials read his note, that it should be paid in pound sterling convertible into dollars. That would mean a maximum dollar demand on Britain's slender dollar reserves.

Ives Says Nixon Would Qualify as President of U. S.

New York, Sept. 26 (AP) — Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-NY) says GOP Vice Presidential Nominee Sen. Richard Nixon is fully qualified to become president if anything happened to Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Ives, speaking last night before the campaign committee of the Women's National Republican club, said:

"If anything happens to Gen. Eisenhower, and God forbid, Dick Nixon is fully qualified to step into the presidency of the United States."

Throws Hitch Into Trial

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—A private stenographic firm today threw a hitch into a police graft trial by refusing to turn in notes on some key testimony. The firm claimed the city had refused to pay $6,729 it owed for transcriptions made so far at the departmental trial of 31 policemen accused of accepting graft from gambler Harry Gross.

Banks Claims Two Tried to Mug Him

William Banks, of 66 Murray street, reported to the local police at 3:40 a. m., today that he had been the victim of an attempted mugging near 24 Chambers street.

Banks said he was attacked by two colored men of stocky build and medium height. He fought them off, he said, and they ran in the direction of Mill street.

A wrist watch was torn off in the struggle, but this, he said, he recovered. His shirt was also torn.

Officers Francis Loeffler, Harold Bowers, Gerald Every, James Harbeck and Kenneth Gaffney were assigned to search the area, but their efforts were without result. Later Officer Every and Officers Carl Janasiewicz and Walter Van Steenburgh continued the search, but also had no luck. Investigation was turned over to Detective Clarence Brophy.

Howling Crowd

Woodrow Wilson was nominated for the presidency by the Democrats in 1912—the general spoke surely and with confidence about a familiar subject—the nation's military affairs.

After he spoke, Eisenhower's exit was something of a mob scene. Excited crowds pressed around his car, cheered him on his way and even demanded his reappearance after he had climbed aboard his campaign train.

Ike and Mamie, as the nominee himself names them, came out to say good night. The general was in a plaid smoking jacket and Mrs. Eisenhower in a black dress, carrying a bouquet of orchids.

They joined school children in singing "America."

Lashes at Old Cronies

Spurred by the applause of the audience, Eisenhower lashed out at his old cronies in and out of the armed services.

After this reporter had asked James Hagerty, press representative, to check with the general the reporter's impression that Eisenhower was authoring an indirect attack on the joint chiefs of staff, the Republican nominee made a change in his prepared address.

At the point in his advance text where Eisenhower said he believed he was making "constructive" criticism of the defense program, Eisenhower added the "joint chiefs of staff" to this original sentence:

"By this criticism I do not intend to belittle the abilities and devotion of (joint chiefs of staff or) the thousands of men and women in uniform and in civilian clothes in our defense department."

But if Eisenhower was excusing Gen. Omar N. Bradley, a long-time friend and one of his top commanders in World War 2, this was not entirely clear when he said:

"Our defense program has suffered from lack of foresighted direction * * *. Real unification of our armed forces is yet to be achieved * * * our defense program need not and must not push us steadiy toward economic collapse."

But the general placed the primary blame on the politicians of the Truman administration with the declaration:

"I mean to criticize the lack of imagination and firmness in the overall political direction which guides all security planning."

He said the administration's attitude "encouraged the military, accustomed to famine or feast, to try to take advantage of crisis."

"Resulting frenzied expansion has meant disorder and duplication and waste," the general declared.

Pinpointing this, he added:

"It has meant an attempt by our air force to buy 20,000 super deluxe chairs at $10 above the standard model. It has meant our navy laying in a 50-year supply of anchors all at once. It has meant our army buying enough front-axle gaskets for jeeps to last a full century."

With this as a basis, Eisenhower teed off on the armed services unification program, he said it had produced more, instead of less, competition between the services.

"Such unity as we have achieved is too much form and too little substance," he asserted. "We have continued with a loose way of operating that wastes time, money and talent with equal generosity."

Ike Tells Throng

one party and you would be merely wasting your time," he said.

Recognizes No Mortgage

The crowd roared as he declared:

"I recognize no political mortgage on the south."

Kenneth C. Royall, a North Carolinian and former secretary of the army in President Truman's subcabinet, boarded this campaign train when it passed through Washington, D. C. last night to lend his influence to Eisenhower's bid for North Carolina's 14 electoral votes.

Royall and Gordon Gray, president of the University of North Carolina and also a former army secretary, were praised by the general in his speech.

Eisenhower hit at what he called the administration's "cheap money" policies.

Holding up a pine board he said would have cost 15 cents a few years ago, Eisenhower cracked it in the middle and announced that was all 15 cents would buy now.

"The administration is asking for a new four-year lease on your present holdings," he told the crowd. "If they continue to cheapen money for the next four years this is what you will get."

He held up the small section of the board and the crowd hooted.

Striking out at what he called the increasing centralization of power in Washington, Eisenhower declared that he thinks "the leadership you have been getting has failed you."

When he concluded speaking, Eisenhower climbed down from the stand and trotted to the side of the athletic field to speak to a group of spastic children from a nearby school.

The Eisenhower invasion of North Carolina followed up a major address he made last night at Baltimore, where he received tumultous acclaim for his slashing attack on the Truman administration's defense policies.

Talks for Jury Fifth Time

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—A grand jury probing tax frauds heard yesterday for the fifth time from Henry Grunewald, mystery man of the influence investigations in Washington. Neither he nor the jury had any comment. He appears again next Thursday.

About the Folks

Mrs. Jennie Rein of 19 York Place has returned to her home from Kingston Hospital where she was a patient.

Ike Wears Pajamas For Early Crowd, Mamie in Curlers

Aboard Eisenhower Special, Sept. 26 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower began his campaign invasion of the south today with a pajama appearance.

The Republican presidential nominee was awarkened when his campaign train stopped at Salisbury, N. C., before sunrise to take on ice.

When a crowd of about 200 persons chanted " We want Ike," the general came to the back platform in pajamas and wearing a maroon robe. He shook hands and said: "Wait a minute and I'll try to get Mamie."

Mrs. Eisenhower came to the private car door in a negligee, her hair in curlers, and waved to the crowd.

One man shouted: "You even look good in the morning, Mamie."

Eisenhower said nobody told him the train was going to stop and his staff would "give me the devil if they knew I was up— I'm supposed to be resting."

Central Will Put

of the run between Kingston and Albany will not permit use of that high speed, it has been pointed out.

Present plans call for placing the beeliner in operation next week when Daylight Saving time has ceased. It is expected the car will arrive in Kingston in time to begin the run next week.

On Sundays No. 1, leaving Weehawken at 9 a. m. and arriving in Kingston at 11:25 a. m. will continue to Albany leaving Kingston at 11:30 a. m. and arriving in Albany at 12:25.

One Change Planned

Apparently there will be but one change in the West Shore schedule when Daylight Saving time ends on Sunday. That will be No. 13 which arrived in Kingston at 7:15 p. m. Daylight Saving time. Beginning next week No. 13 will become No. 3, arriving in Kingston from Weehawken at 7:10 p. m. and leaving at 7:25 for Albany where it will arrive at 9:15 p. m.

The train which was formerly designated as No. 3 and arrived in Kingston at 11 p. m. Daylight Saving time from Weehawken will become No. 13 and will arrive in Kingston at 10:45 p. m. daily except Sundays, where it will terminate.

Other train schedules apparently will continue the same on the West Shore Railroad after Daylight Saving Time ends on Sunday.

Engine House Transformed

There has been a very noticeable transformation of the engine house in the north yards since the discontinuance of steam locomotives on the West Shore and the installation of Diesel power. The old smoke blackened engine house had been entirely transformed and the walls are now a gleaming white. Diesel power is now used entirely on the West Shore, Wallkill Valley and Catskill Mountain divisions.

Water facilities which were required for steam operation are also disappearing from the line. All water towers, water columns, tanks and water spouts are being discontinued and taken down and the old fashioned "water tower" stops have been eliminated.

One of Finest

Railroad men who have visited the engine house in the Kingston north yards have pronounced the revamped engine house or round house here in Kingston one of the finest engine houses in the east since its walls and entire facilities have been converted from the old smoke blackened memories to the gleaming white interior.

It is understood that the demand for the Beeliners has been so great that the Central has been unable to secure as many as desired from the Budd Company and that a plan is now being developed to put additional Beeliners in this area as soon as they can be delivered.

Three Vehicles Are Damaged in Collision

Three vehicles were damaged but no one was reported injured in an accident on the Minnewaska-New Paltz road about 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

State police of the Highland station said a truck driven by Thomas H. Miller, 26, and an automobile of Stephen Lorinz, 38, both of New Paltz, were stopped along the highway when they were struck by an on-coming automobile driven by William Momatz, 26, also of New Paltz.

Miller was issued a summons to appear today before Justice I. C. Barnes to answer a charge of not having flares, troopers said. Miller and Lorinz had stopped to inspect a disabled trailer loaded with corn belonging to Lorinz, state police reported.

Adlai Promises

secrecy about the fund, it would be a breach of faith to name those who benefited from it. The fund was set up with money left over from Stevenson's 1948 campaign for governor, plus some donations made since. It has been used for gifts to a few persons Sevenson has appointed to state office. As a result, competent men, who could not have afforded otherwise to give up better paying private positions, have been drawn into state jobs.

GOP Keeps Insisting

Top Republicans — including Sen. Richard M. Nixon, the GOP vice presidential nominee — keep insisting that isn't enough explanation and the public has a right to more.

Nixon has been on the spot himself for accepting and spending an $18,000 fund donated by California political friends to help him meet expenses. Stevenson said last week it was up to the Republican party to bring out who gave the money, whether it influenced Nixon's actions as a senator, and whether any laws were broken.

Nixon subsequently gave to the American people, by way of television and radio, his version of the handling of the fund. And Eisenhower, the Republican presidential candidate, pronounced Nixon completely vindicated.

Now Adlai Is Quiet

Since then, Stevenson has been as quiet about the Nixon affair as he has on details about his own fund. But late yesterday he told Wyatt to relay to newsmen a promise of some further statement on the Illinois fund.

Wyatt did it at a news conference which he devoted mainly to outlining the Democratic nominee's traveling speaking plans for the weeks remaining before the November election. Wyatt said that he did not know when the governor would issue a statement about the pay-supplementing fund.

Between now and Oct. 18 Stevenson will fly into 17 states in the west, midwest and south. There will be appearances in more than 35 cities for speeches ranging from the whistle stop variety to a dozen major addresses. The governor will cover 11,548 miles by plane and perhaps several hundred more by motorcade.

Series of Hops

Instead of one continuous campaign expedition, the next phase of the Democratic presidential drive will be split into a series of hops out of Stevenson's home base at Springfield, Ill. They will be of from two to five days each.

The latter part of October, from the 22nd or 23rd on, has been reserved for a whistle-stopping train tour of the east.

For today, the schedule called for a Stevenson speech at Evansville, Ind., in the early afternoon and a major address on economy in government at Indianapolis tonight.

Something more than 13 electoral votes are at stake in Indiana, where a hot Senate race pits Jenner against the present Democratic governor of the state, Henry F. Schricker.

Schricker is a close friend of Stevenson. It was he who placed Stevenson's name in nomination at the Democratic national convention.

Controversial Figure

Jenner is a controversial figure who has denounced Gen. George C. Marshall, whom Eisenhower has defended as a great patriot. Jenner also has attacked various parts of America's foreign policy which Eisenhower supports.

But Eisenhower and Jenner have campaigned side by side in Indiana, and the general has urged Hoosier voters to spare no effort to elect the entire Republican ticket—Jenner included.

Stevenson aides said that as a result it seemed to be a good bet that the Illinois governor would expand what he has said several times before—that Eisenhower has adopted a "dangerous" theory of supporting all candidates of the GOP—good, bad or indifferent —regardless of their view and records.

Democratic campaign schedules from here on in appear to be based on a strategy of trying to sew up the south and border states and adding to them the necessary key states in the north, midwest and west to get the 266 electoral votes needed to win on Nov. 4.

Stevenson already has been in Virginia and Maryland. He visits Kentucky tomorrow. And he will turn up in Oklahoma, Texas, Missouri, Louisiana, Florida and Tennessee before the campaign is over.

Acheson Says Ike

said he could not believe Eisenhower now means Korea should have been manned by American troops.

2. The defense of Korea, Acheson said, like that of other Asian countries was not a responsibility for the United States alone but for the whole United Nations. He said he warned in January, 1950, that should an attack occur on any of those areas beyond the American defense line the defense would rest upon the United Nations.

Acheson declared that Eisenhower in his speech at Cincinnati Monday "left out that warning" and was thus able to discuss the Korean situation as if the warning had not been given and "as if his own government rather than the aggressor bore the guilt for Korea's tragedy."

Accuses Luciano

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Federal Narcotics Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger quotes a top Italian police official as saying Charles (Lucky) Luciano definitely is in an international narcotics racket. Luciano, convicted New York vice racketeer, was deported to his native Italy several years ago. The Italian official, Anslinger said, reported that some of Luciano's lieutenants are being brought to justice but not Luciano himself.

Thomas Arrives To Inspect Drains

Joseph L. Thomas, construction superintendent for Lipsett, Inc., Broadway underpass contractor, arrived here today from Philadelphia to inspect conditions which have caused the street to flood during heavy rains.

Thomas said, he had not completed his inspection and conferences he planned to hold here on remedial steps recommended by the state public works department, and therefore was unable to comment on the suggestions today.

The state proposed separation of storm water and sanitary flows at the point where the street floods and also installation of lockhead manhole covers. It forwarded these suggestions to the contractor following Common Council action authorizing rejection of the project by the city until the cause of the floods is corrected.

World's Orbit Ends At Fishkill for Two

Two local youngsters who set out last night to see the world, saw it only between here and Fishkill before they attracted police attention.

Police headquarters was notified early today that William Glenn, 15, of 155 Abeel street, and John Barnhart, 14, of 21 Ravine street, left notes in mail boxes at their homes saying in effect that they were running away.

Local police were notified late this morning that state police had apprehended them at Fishkill.

would be to the detriment of world peace."

State Department officials said there would be quick consultation between British and American leaders who have struggled with the Iranian problem for months, not so much because of the oil dispute itself as because of the strong belief here that unless the dispute is settled the threat of a Communist takeover in Iran is indeed serious.

Reason for Hope

The principal reason for hope among American experts now is that Mossadegh has not closed the door to a settlement. One informant said "our policy certainly is to keep the door open and we will do all we can to that end now that he has not closed it."

However, the odds against a settlement still appeared almost overwhelming, particularly because of Mossadegh's powerful political supporters has already attacked Mossadegh's proposals as too soft and in effect threatened an overthrow of the government if they are accepted.

The western powers thus found themselves in a position of uncertainty over what Iran eventually would be prepared to accept in the way of a deal, if anything. The basis of Mossadegh's proposition was that claims for compensation by the Anglo Iranian Oil Company as a result of Iranian nationalization of oil 18 months ago could be determined by the International Court of Justice at the Hague. Truman and Churchill had proposed this so there was no dispute on that point.

Lays Down Conditions

Mossadegh, however, laid down a number of conditions which would limit Anglo Iranian Oil Company claims to compensation for actual loss of physical property, thereby eliminating any claim for loss of profits.

But what is regarded here as the most difficult obstacle is a demand that Britain pay Iranian advance 49 million pounds which the Anglo Iranian Oil Company had been accumulating to pay increased royalties to Iran under an agreement which the Iranian parliament never ratified.

Mossadegh has always contended this money really belonged to his country and now he has insisted, as state department officials read his note, that it should be paid in pound sterling convertible into dollars. That would mean a maximum dollar demand on Britain's slender dollar reserves.

Ives Says Nixon Would Qualify as President of U. S.

New York, Sept. 26 (AP) — Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-NY) says GOP Vice Presidential Nominee Sen. Richard Nixon is fully qualified to become president if anything happened to Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Ives, speaking last night before the campaign committee of the Women's National Republican club, said:

"If anything happens to Gen. Eisenhower, and God forbid, Dick Nixon is fully qualified to step into the presidency of the United States."

Throws Hitch Into Trial

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—A private stenographic firm today threw a hitch into a police graft trial by refusing to turn in notes on some key testimony. The firm claimed the city had refused to pay $6,729 it owed for transcriptions made so far at the departmental trial of 31 policemen accused of accepting graft from gambler Harry Gross.

Howling Crowd

Woodrow Wilson was nominated for the presidency by the Democrats in 1912—the general spoke surely and with confidence about a familiar subject—the nation's military affairs.

After he spoke, Eisenhower's exit was something of a mob scene. Excited crowds pressed around his car, cheered him on his way and even demanded his reappearance after he had climbed aboard his campaign train.

Ike and Mamie, as the nominee himself names them, came out to say good night. The general was in a plaid smoking jacket and Mrs. Eisenhower in a black dress, carrying a bouquet of orchids.

They joined school children in singing "America."

Lashes at Old Cronies

Spurred by the applause of the audience, Eisenhower lashed out at his old cronies in and out of the armed services.

After this reporter had asked James Hagerty, press representative, to check with the general the reporter's impression that Eisenhower was authoring an indirect attack on the joint chiefs of staff, the Republican nominee made a change in his prepared address.

At the point in his advance text where Eisenhower said he believed he was making "constructive" criticism of the defense program, Eisenhower added the "joint chiefs of staff" to this original sentence:

"By this criticism I do not intend to belittle the abilities and devotion of (joint chiefs of staff or) the thousands of men and women in uniform and in civilian clothes in our defense department."

But if Eisenhower was excusing Gen. Omar N. Bradley, a long-time friend and one of his top commanders in World War 2, this was not entirely clear when he said:

"Our defense program has suffered from lack of foresighted direction * * *. Real unification of our armed forces is yet to be achieved * * * our defense program need not and must not push us steadiy toward economic collapse."

But the general placed the primary blame on the politicians of the Truman administration with the declaration:

"I mean to criticize the lack of imagination and firmness in the overall political direction which guides all security planning."

He said the administration's attitude "encouraged the military, accustomed to famine or feast, to try to take advantage of crisis."

"Resulting frenzied expansion has meant disorder and duplication and waste," the general declared.

Pinpointing this, he added:

"It has meant an attempt by our air force to buy 20,000 super deluxe chairs at $10 above the standard model. It has meant our navy laying in a 50-year supply of anchors all at once. It has meant our army buying enough front-axle gaskets for jeeps to last a full century."

With this as a basis, Eisenhower teed off on the armed services unification program, he said it had produced more, instead of less, competition between the services.

"Such unity as we have achieved is too much form and too little substance," he asserted. "We have continued with a loose way of operating that wastes time, money and talent with equal generosity."

Ike Tells Throng

one party and you would be merely wasting your time," he said.

Recognizes No Mortgage

The crowd roared as he declared:

"I recognize no political mortgage on the south."

Kenneth C. Royall, a North Carolinian and former secretary of the army in President Truman's subcabinet, boarded this campaign train when it passed through Washington, D. C. last night to lend his influence to Eisenhower's bid for North Carolina's 14 electoral votes.

Royall and Gordon Gray, president of the University of North Carolina and also a former army secretary, were praised by the general in his speech.

Eisenhower hit at what he called the administration's "cheap money" policies.

Holding up a pine board he said would have cost 15 cents a few years ago, Eisenhower cracked it in the middle and announced that was all 15 cents would buy now.

"The administration is asking for a new four-year lease on your present holdings," he told the crowd. "If they continue to cheapen money for the next four years this is what you will get."

He held up the small section of the board and the crowd hooted.

Striking out at what he called the increasing centralization of power in Washington, Eisenhower declared that he thinks "the leadership you have been getting has failed you."

When he concluded speaking, Eisenhower climbed down from the stand and trotted to the side of the athletic field to speak to a group of spastic children from a nearby school.

The Eisenhower invasion of North Carolina followed up a major address he made last night at Baltimore, where he received tumultous acclaim for his slashing attack on the Truman administration's defense policies.

Talks for Jury Fifth Time

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—A grand jury probing tax frauds heard yesterday for the fifth time from Henry Grunewald, mystery man of the influence investigations in Washington. Neither he nor the jury had any comment. He appears again next Thursday.

Ike Wears Pajamas For Early Crowd, Mamie in Curlers

Aboard Eisenhower Special, Sept. 26 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower began his campaign invasion of the south today with a pajama appearance.

The Republican presidential nominee was awarkened when his campaign train stopped at Salisbury, N. C., before sunrise to take on ice.

When a crowd of about 200 persons chanted " We want Ike," the general came to the back platform in pajamas and wearing a maroon robe. He shook hands and said: "Wait a minute and I'll try to get Mamie."

Mrs. Eisenhower came to the private car door in a negligee, her hair in curlers, and waved to the crowd.

One man shouted: "You even look good in the morning, Mamie."

Eisenhower said nobody told him the train was going to stop and his staff would "give me the devil if they knew I was up— I'm supposed to be resting."

of the run between Kingston and Albany will not permit use of that high speed, it has been pointed out.

Present plans call for placing the beeliner in operation next week when Daylight Saving time has ceased. It is expected the car will arrive in Kingston in time to begin the run next week.

On Sundays No. 1, leaving Weehawken at 9 a. m. and arriving in Kingston at 11:25 a. m. will continue to Albany leaving Kingston at 11:30 a. m. and arriving in Albany at 12:25.

One Change Planned

Apparently there will be but one change in the West Shore schedule when Daylight Saving time ends on Sunday. That will be No. 13 which arrived in Kingston at 7:15 p. m. Daylight Saving time. Beginning next week No. 13 will become No. 3, arriving in Kingston from Weehawken at 7:10 p. m. and leaving at 7:25 for Albany where it will arrive at 9:15 p. m.

The train which was formerly designated as No. 3 and arrived in Kingston at 11 p. m. Daylight Saving time from Weehawken will become No. 13 and will arrive in Kingston at 10:45 p. m. daily except Sundays, where it will terminate.

Other train schedules apparently will continue the same on the West Shore Railroad after Daylight Saving Time ends on Sunday.

Engine House Transformed

There has been a very noticeable transformation of the engine house in the north yards since the discontinuance of steam locomotives on the West Shore and the installation of Diesel power. The old smoke blackened engine house had been entirely transformed and the walls are now a gleaming white. Diesel power is now used entirely on the West Shore, Wallkill Valley and Catskill Mountain divisions.

Water facilities which were required for steam operation are also disappearing from the line. All water towers, water columns, tanks and water spouts are being discontinued and taken down and the old fashioned "water tower" stops have been eliminated.

One of Finest

Railroad men who have visited the engine house in the Kingston north yards have pronounced the revamped engine house or round house here in Kingston one of the finest engine houses in the east since its walls and entire facilities have been converted from the old smoke blackened memories to the gleaming white interior.

It is understood that the demand for the Beeliners has been so great that the Central has been unable to secure as many as desired from the Budd Company and that a plan is now being developed to put additional Beeliners in this area as soon as they can be delivered.

Three Vehicles Are Damaged in Collision

Three vehicles were damaged but no one was reported injured in an accident on the Minnewaska-New Paltz road about 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

State police of the Highland station said a truck driven by Thomas H. Miller, 26, and an automobile of Stephen Lorinz, 38, both of New Paltz, were stopped along the highway when they were struck by an on-coming automobile driven by William Momatz, 26, also of New Paltz.

Miller was issued a summons to appear today before Justice I. C. Barnes to answer a charge of not having flares, troopers said. Miller and Lorinz had stopped to inspect a disabled trailer loaded with corn belonging to Lorinz, state police reported.

Adlai Promises

secrecy about the fund, it would be a breach of faith to name those who benefited from it. The fund was set up with money left over from Stevenson's 1948 campaign for governor, plus some donations made since. It has been used for gifts to a few persons Sevenson has appointed to state office. As a result, competent men, who could not have afforded otherwise to give up better paying private positions, have been drawn into state jobs.

GOP Keeps Insisting

Top Republicans — including Sen. Richard M. Nixon, the GOP vice presidential nominee — keep insisting that isn't enough explanation and the public has a right to more.

Nixon has been on the spot himself for accepting and spending an $18,000 fund donated by California political friends to help him meet expenses. Stevenson said last week it was up to the Republican party to bring out who gave the money, whether it influenced Nixon's actions as a senator, and whether any laws were broken.

Nixon subsequently gave to the American people, by way of television and radio, his version of the handling of the fund. And Eisenhower, the Republican presidential candidate, pronounced Nixon completely vindicated.

Now Adlai Is Quiet

Since then, Stevenson has been as quiet about the Nixon affair as he has on details about his own fund. But late yesterday he told Wyatt to relay to newsmen a promise of some further statement on the Illinois fund.

Wyatt did it at a news conference which he devoted mainly to outlining the Democratic nominee's traveling speaking plans for the weeks remaining before the November election. Wyatt said that he did not know when the governor would issue a statement about the pay-supplementing fund.

Between now and Oct. 18 Stevenson will fly into 17 states in the west, midwest and south. There will be appearances in more than 35 cities for speeches ranging from the whistle stop variety to a dozen major addresses. The governor will cover 11,548 miles by plane and perhaps several hundred more by motorcade.

Series of Hops

Instead of one continuous campaign expedition, the next phase of the Democratic presidential drive will be split into a series of hops out of Stevenson's home base at Springfield, Ill. They will be of from two to five days each.

The latter part of October, from the 22nd or 23rd on, has been reserved for a whistle-stopping train tour of the east.

For today, the schedule called for a Stevenson speech at Evansville, Ind., in the early afternoon and a major address on economy in government at Indianapolis tonight.

Something more than 13 electoral votes are at stake in Indiana, where a hot Senate race pits Jenner against the present Democratic governor of the state, Henry F. Schricker.

Schricker is a close friend of Stevenson. It was he who placed Stevenson's name in nomination at the Democratic national convention.

Controversial Figure

Jenner is a controversial figure who has denounced Gen. George C. Marshall, whom Eisenhower has defended as a great patriot. Jenner also has attacked various parts of America's foreign policy which Eisenhower supports.

But Eisenhower and Jenner have campaigned side by side in Indiana, and the general has urged Hoosier voters to spare no effort to elect the entire Republican ticket—Jenner included.

Stevenson aides said that as a result it seemed to be a good bet that the Illinois governor would expand what he has said several times before—that Eisenhower has adopted a "dangerous" theory of supporting all candidates of the GOP—good, bad or indifferent —regardless of their view and records.

Democratic campaign schedules from here on in appear to be based on a strategy of trying to sew up the south and border states and adding to them the necessary key states in the north, midwest and west to get the 266 electoral votes needed to win on Nov. 4.

Stevenson already has been in Virginia and Maryland. He visits Kentucky tomorrow. And he will turn up in Oklahoma, Texas, Missouri, Louisiana, Florida and Tennessee before the campaign is over.

Acheson Says Ike

said he could not believe Eisenhower now means Korea should have been manned by American troops.

2. The defense of Korea, Acheson said, like that of other Asian countries was not a responsibility for the United States alone but for the whole United Nations. He said he warned in January, 1950, that should an attack occur on any of those areas beyond the American defense line the defense would rest upon the United Nations.

Acheson declared that Eisenhower in his speech at Cincinnati Monday "left out that warning" and was thus able to discuss the Korean situation as if the warning had not been given and "as if his own government rather than the aggressor bore the guilt for Korea's tragedy."

Accuses Luciano

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Federal Narcotics Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger quotes a top Italian police official as saying Charles (Lucky) Luciano definitely is in an international narcotics racket. Luciano, convicted New York vice racketeer, was deported to his native Italy several years ago. The Italian official, Anslinger said, reported that some of Luciano's lieutenants are being brought to justice but not Luciano himself.

Banks Claims Two Tried to Mug Him

William Banks, of 66 Murray street, reported to the local police at 3:40 a. m., today that he had been the victim of an attempted mugging near 24 Chambers street.

Banks said he was attacked by two colored men of stocky build and medium height. He fought them off, he said, and they ran in the direction of Mill street.

A wrist watch was torn off in the struggle, but this, he said, he recovered. His shirt was also torn.

Officers Francis Loeffler, Harold Bowers, Gerald Every, James Harbeck and Kenneth Gaffney were assigned to search the area, but their efforts were without result. Later Officer Every and Officers Carl Janasiewicz and Walter Van Steenburgh continued the search, but also had no luck. Investigation was turned over to Detective Clarence Brophy.

Yom Kippur Marks End of Meditation Of 10-Day Period

The following is an official release on Yom Kippur—the Day of Atonement, as prepared by the Commission on Information About Judaism of the Union of American Hebrew congregations and the Central Conference of American Rabbis:

A full day will be given over to prayer and meditation as Jews gather in their synagogues for the year's most solemn occasion, the Day of Atonement. It is a fast day, and observant Jews will abstain from food and drink and concentrate their attention entirely on prayer. Called Yom Kippur in Hebrew, it will begin at sundown Sunday, Sept. 28, and last until sundown the following day, Sept. 29.

Yom Kippur's purpose is the spiritual improvement of each individual. In their synagogue worship on this day, Jews examine their inner selves. They humbly confess to the pride and self-interest that have marred their devotion to God, and they pray for atonement. They will have atoned completely, Judaism teaches, provided they repent sincerely of their offenses against God and provided that, before they entered the synagogue, they made full amends for all offenses against their neighbors.

Yom Kippur evening and most of Yom Kippur day are spent in the synagogue. The evening service opens with the haunting strains of the Kol Nidre chant. With its hallowed music, an air of deep solemnity enters the synagogue, to remain throughout the evening and through all the next day's service.

Included in the worship for Yom Kippur day is a memorial service. It is a time set aside for recalling departed relatives, for reciting prayers in their memory, and for drawing inspiration from their lives.

The Day of Atonement services approach their end in the late afternoon with a prayer that in Hebrew means "closing of the gate." The name harks back to the ritual of Yom Kippur at the ancient Temple in Jerusalem, and to the swinging-shut of the huge gates of the Temple when the sun began to set and the ceremonies were drawing to a close. The final event of the day is the sounding of a long, sustained note on the quaint wind instrument of Bible times, the ram's horn or "shofar," which in those olden days as well was heard during the Atonement service.

Yom Kippur follows the Jewish New Year by ten days. It is the climax of the period of prayer and meditation known as the Ten Days of Penitence.

Notice to Carriers: British Would Use Your Technique

Washington, Sept. 26 (AP)—The carrier-boy who delivers this paper might not know it, but some British newsmen would like to export his technique to England.

They wish they had some like him at home, they say, but they don't. The authorities, you know.

The carrier-boy or "little merchant" comes in for his share of attention in a report, on sale in London and Washington today, by a productivity team representing the British provincial press.

The team visited the United State in 1951 to take a close look at how American newspapers operate, top to bottom. What it found, plus its recommendations to the British press, is contained in the 85-page printed report.

Of the carrier-boys, the report recommended.

"Efforts should be made to convince the various authorities in this country (England) that delivery of newspapers by young people, on the lines of the 'little merchant' system seen in the U. S., can be a worthy and healthy effort, need not interfere with education and can instil in the youngsters the germ of ability in business."

Besides that, it said, the lad picks up six to eight bucks a week from about 100 customers for an hour or so work per day. He usually comes in for prizes, it said, and—should he get sick—his family pitches in to pitch the papers.

Newspapers visited by the team included:

Westchester County Publishers Inc., White Plains, N. Y.; Montclair (N. J.) Times; New York World-Telegram and Sun; New York Times; Easton (Pa.) Daily Express; Boston Herald-Traveler; The Christian Science Monitor; Kenosha (Wis.) Evening News; Racine (Wis.) Journal-Times; Milwaukee Journal; Chicago Tribune; Gary (Ind.) Post and Tribune; Louisville Courier-Journal; Louisville Times; Washington (D. C.) Post; Baltimore Sun, and Main Line Times, Ardmore, Pa.

WCTU Would Bar Tavern Television

St. Louis, Sept. 26 (AP)—A poke at television and other "inducements to drink" in taverns was taken today by a National Woman's Christian Temperance Union officer.

Mrs. Blanche Butts Runion of Evanston, Ill., and St. Louis urged state legislatures follow the precedent of the Province of Quebec in banning inducements in taverns as "lures for drinkers." She spoke at the opening session of the 78th annual WCTU meeting here.

"Bars in the United States," she said, "are using every device for customer bait. They were the first to install television and remain the only business using it for the purpose generally, supplementary to other kinds of shows."

Mrs. Runion said the law in Quebec bans shows of any kind in taverns to attract or hold customers.

Yom Kippur Services Planned Sunday Night

Yom Kippur services will be held Sunday starting at 6 p. m. at the reception hall of the Salvation Army, North Front street, it has been announced.

The fast of Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement, marks the end of the 10-day pentinence period which started Friday, Sept. 19, for the new Jewish year of 5713, during the Rosh Hashanah services.

Persons in charge of holding the Sunday night Yom Kippur service have issued a cordial invitation to the public to attend. A large crowd is anticipated.

To Address Sales Club

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—This is a story of mankind's great dream, and a law of nature that stands in the way.

It begins with an exciting fact: Spare human kidneys are being put into the legs of people doomed to death because their own kidneys are sick and failing.

The third kidney is taken from persons who just died, or whose own healthy kidney must be removed because of other illness.

The spare kidney must be removed because of other illness.

The spare kidney is put into a pocket created in the sick person's thigh and is connected to veins and arteries in the leg, to help purify his blood. The ureter or drainage tube from the spare kidney leads to a cup strapped to the thigh.

Three Boston surgeons told today of making six such kidney transplants.

The spare kidneys worked, for a time, then failed.

But the failure may help lead to success in the dream of some day being able to give human beings new kidneys, lungs, or hearts or other spare parts when our own vital organs become sick or damaged.

One transplanted kidney worked for nearly two months, and actually survived in another person's leg for 101 days. Strangely enough of all six borrowed kidneys, it was the one which should have failed first.

This one new chapter in attempts to transplant human organs was described to the convention of the American College of Surgeons by Drs. David M. Hume, John P. Merrill, and Benjamin F. Miller of Peter Bent Brigham Hospital and Harvard Medical School, Boston.

This week, other surgeons told of trying to transplant animals' lungs and hearts and gullets and windpipes.

All ran afoul of a stern law of nature, that cannot yet be repealed.

Nature's law is that your body will destroy protein or tissue other than its individual own, by creating antibodies against it.

All our organs are made of protein. If you put one person's tissue into another's body, he reacts against it with destructive antibodies. Bones and arteries and corneas or windows of eyes are being transplanted. But your own body uses them as a scaffold, apparently, soon replacing the foreign tissue with its own cells and material.

Why won't one body tolerate tissue from another?

Over the world, many scientists are trying to learn why. If they find the answer, they hope to repeal nature's law.

Britain claims that her farms produce more per acre than any other farm land.

Masons Will Hold Reunion Program At Masonic Temple

WILLIAM MARSDEN

William G. Marsden, superintendent of the Onondaga County Penitentiary, Jamesville, will be the guest speaker at the Old Timers reunion night which Rondout Lodge 343, F & A M, will hold Monday night, Oct. 6, in the Masonic Temple, Albany avenue, in honor of those who have been members 25 years or longer.

Marsden is a past master of Newburgh Lodge 309 and has been an honorary member of Rondout Lodge since 1922. He will be remembered by many of the older members for the fraternal visits he made Rondout Lodge when it held its meetings downtown at Broadway and Strand. He took an active part in the degree work.

A member of Calvary Baptist Church of Syracuse, Marsden is chairman of its board of deacons and a former chairman of its board of trustees. He also is past treasurer and past president of the New York State Council of Baptist men. Besides retaining his membership in Newburgh Lodge, he holds dual membership in Central City Lodge 305, F & A M, of Syracuse and is president of the Masonic Veterans Association of Central New York.

He is a charter member and past president of the Syracuse Monarch Service Club.

The program for Oct. 6 is being prepared by a committee under the chairmanship of Frank J. Strobel. All Master Masons will be invited to attend.

countries of the Pacific ocean"—the mouthful title of this meeting—will dutifully adopt resolutions as follows:

1. Against remilitarization of Japan. Demanding withdrawal of all occupation forces (meaning American forces now there under a separate treaty) from Japan.

2. Against bacteriological warfare and weapons of mass destruction.

3. For the outlawing of war propaganda.

For Korean 'Peace'

4. For "Peaceful solution" of the Korean conflict and other conflicts threatening world peace.

5. For development of international trade on "the basis of equality and mutual advantage," for development of cultural relations among nations, for steps to raise living stands of nations.

All these will be depicted as Communist goals thwarted by American warmongers and aggressors. There will be other resolutions, too, dealing with such matters as Indian-Pakistani relations, national independence of countries in north Africa and the Middle East, against remilitarization of western Germany and for a united Germany, and so on.

According to Pravda

Pravda has made it plain that the Peiping Congress ties in with the Vienna one in December in a world program. The aim of the World Congress will be to seal off the Soviet Union from the west, to crate obstacles in the west to defense measures and thus to attempt to form a buffer there while Moscow devotes its immediate attention to Asia.

The work of the Peace Congress is cut and dried. It has been decided well in advance, and the dupes present will be led about by the nose by the Communist manipulators of the sessions. The Communists are going to squeeze out every ounce of propaganda from this effort.

In Moscow, the Soviet Union will use its Party Congress to announce that the USSR wants only peace and the right to build socialism. There will be a crashing crescendo of Soviet propaganda all through this fall and winter. The west has been forewarned in time to plan its counter-attack.

Massachusetts, in 1677, bought the claims of heirs to the state of Maine for about 1250 English pounds, or $6250.

Of all things, down at the barber shop we found the boss barber complaining about his own high prices for haircuts. He said children were now apparently getting their hair cut at home. The grownups are letting their hair grow longer and he is left with more gossip time than he can afford.

Knights to Assist At Rosary Rally

Knights of Columbus will have an important part in the rally Sunday of the Family Rosary Crusade at Kingston Municipal Stadium.

The program is scheduled for 3 p. m., and in the event of rain will be shifted from the uptown ballpark to the municipal auditorium.

Members of Fourth Degree Assembly, K. of C., will act as a guard of honor, and are asked to report at the stadium at 2:15 p. m., wearing formal attire with outside baldric and sword.

All knights from Kingston Council, 275, are urged to volunteer as ushers for the rally and are requested to be at the stadium at 1:30 p. m.

10,000 Are Expected

An estimated crowd of 10,000 is expected at the rally to hear talks on the Family Rosary and attend Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the open. The program is open to the public.

Speakers will be the Most Rev. Joseph F. Flannelly, DD, Auxiliary Bishop of New York, who will be introduced by the Rt. Rev. Martin J. Drury, PR,VF, dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, and the Rev. Patrick C. Peyton, CSC, founder of the Rosary Crusade and Family Theatre.

The theme of Father Peyton's talk is expressed in the slogan which he has chosen for the Family Rosary Crusade, "The Family That Prays Together, Stays Together."

Band music and commentary on the Family Rosary Crusade has been arranged for those who arrive early.

Special Altar

The center of attention at the stadium will be the altar and speakers' platform beautifully designed and decorated by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Penning of Saugerties in cooperation with a group of Woodstock artists.

Tomas Penning recently received national acclaim for his statue of Our Lady of the Hudson situated on the grounds of the Church of the Presentation, Port Ewen.

800 Houses Are Lost

Rangoon, Burma, Sept. 26 (AP)—Rain-swollen floods have washed away 800 houses in the rail town of Toungoo 100 miles north of Rangoon and left more than 2,500 persons homeless, reports reaching here said today. The Sittang river rose 14-feet in the past week, inundating thousands of acres of rice crops.

The team visited the United State in 1951 to take a close look at how American newspapers operate, top to bottom. What it found, plus its recommendations to the British press, is contained in the 85-page printed report.

Of the carrier-boys, the report recommended.

"Efforts should be made to convince the various authorities in this country (England) that delivery of newspapers by young people, on the lines of the 'little merchant' system seen in the U. S., can be a worthy and healthy effort, need not interfere with education and can instil in the youngsters the germ of ability in business."

Besides that, it said, the lad picks up six to eight bucks a week from about 100 customers for an hour or so work per day. He usually comes in for prizes, it said, and—should he get sick—his family pitches in to pitch the papers.

Newspapers visited by the team included:

Westchester County Publishers Inc., White Plains, N. Y.; Montclair (N. J.) Times; New York World-Telegram and Sun; New York Times; Easton (Pa.) Daily Express; Boston Herald-Traveler; The Christian Science Monitor; Kenosha (Wis.) Evening News; Racine (Wis.) Journal-Times; Milwaukee Journal; Chicago Tribune; Gary (Ind.) Post and Tribune; Louisville Courier-Journal; Louisville Times; Washington (D. C.) Post; Baltimore Sun, and Main Line Times, Ardmore, Pa.

WCTU Would Bar Tavern Television

St. Louis, Sept. 26 (AP)—A poke at television and other "inducements to drink" in taverns was taken today by a National Woman's Christian Temperance Union officer.

Mrs. Blanche Butts Runion of Evanston, Ill., and St. Louis urged state legislatures follow the precedent of the Province of Quebec in banning inducements in taverns as "lures for drinkers." She spoke at the opening session of the 78th annual WCTU meeting here.

"Bars in the United States," she said, "are using every device for customer bait. They were the first to install television and remain the only business using it for the purpose generally, supplementary to other kinds of shows."

Mrs. Runion said the law in Quebec bans shows of any kind in taverns to attract or hold customers.

Yom Kippur Services Planned Sunday Night

Yom Kippur services will be held Sunday starting at 6 p. m. at the reception hall of the Salvation Army, North Front street, it has been announced.

The fast of Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement, marks the end of the 10-day pentinence period which started Friday, Sept. 19, for the new Jewish year of 5713, during the Rosh Hashanah services.

Persons in charge of holding the Sunday night Yom Kippur service have issued a cordial invitation to the public to attend. A large crowd is anticipated.

Kidney Transplant Told by Physicians

(AP Science Reporter)

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—This is a story of mankind's great dream, and a law of nature that stands in the way.

It begins with an exciting fact: Spare human kidneys are being put into the legs of people doomed to death because their own kidneys are sick and failing.

The third kidney is taken from persons who just died, or whose own healthy kidney must be removed because of other illness.

The spare kidney must be removed because of other illness.

The spare kidney is put into a pocket created in the sick person's thigh and is connected to veins and arteries in the leg, to help purify his blood. The ureter or drainage tube from the spare kidney leads to a cup strapped to the thigh.

Three Boston surgeons told today of making six such kidney transplants.

The spare kidneys worked, for a time, then failed.

But the failure may help lead to success in the dream of some day being able to give human beings new kidneys, lungs, or hearts or other spare parts when our own vital organs become sick or damaged.

One transplanted kidney worked for nearly two months, and actually survived in another person's leg for 101 days. Strangely enough of all six borrowed kidneys, it was the one which should have failed first.

This one new chapter in attempts to transplant human organs was described to the convention of the American College of Surgeons by Drs. David M. Hume, John P. Merrill, and Benjamin F. Miller of Peter Bent Brigham Hospital and Harvard Medical School, Boston.

This week, other surgeons told of trying to transplant animals' lungs and hearts and gullets and windpipes.

All ran afoul of a stern law of nature, that cannot yet be repealed.

Nature's law is that your body will destroy protein or tissue other than its individual own, by creating antibodies against it.

All our organs are made of protein. If you put one person's tissue into another's body, he reacts against it with destructive antibodies. Bones and arteries and corneas or windows of eyes are being transplanted. But your own body uses them as a scaffold, apparently, soon replacing the foreign tissue with its own cells and material.

Why won't one body tolerate tissue from another?

Over the world, many scientists are trying to learn why. If they find the answer, they hope to repeal nature's law.

Britain claims that her farms produce more per acre than any other farm land.

WILLIAM MARSDEN

William G. Marsden, superintendent of the Onondaga County Penitentiary, Jamesville, will be the guest speaker at the Old Timers reunion night which Rondout Lodge 343, F & A M, will hold Monday night, Oct. 6, in the Masonic Temple, Albany avenue, in honor of those who have been members 25 years or longer.

Marsden is a past master of Newburgh Lodge 309 and has been an honorary member of Rondout Lodge since 1922. He will be remembered by many of the older members for the fraternal visits he made Rondout Lodge when it held its meetings downtown at Broadway and Strand. He took an active part in the degree work.

A member of Calvary Baptist Church of Syracuse, Marsden is chairman of its board of deacons and a former chairman of its board of trustees. He also is past treasurer and past president of the New York State Council of Baptist men. Besides retaining his membership in Newburgh Lodge, he holds dual membership in Central City Lodge 305, F & A M, of Syracuse and is president of the Masonic Veterans Association of Central New York.

He is a charter member and past president of the Syracuse Monarch Service Club.

The program for Oct. 6 is being prepared by a committee under the chairmanship of Frank J. Strobel. All Master Masons will be invited to attend.

Red 'Peace' . . .

countries of the Pacific ocean"—the mouthful title of this meeting—will dutifully adopt resolutions as follows:

1. Against remilitarization of Japan. Demanding withdrawal of all occupation forces (meaning American forces now there under a separate treaty) from Japan.

2. Against bacteriological warfare and weapons of mass destruction.

3. For the outlawing of war propaganda.

For Korean 'Peace'

4. For "Peaceful solution" of the Korean conflict and other conflicts threatening world peace.

5. For development of international trade on "the basis of equality and mutual advantage," for development of cultural relations among nations, for steps to raise living stands of nations.

All these will be depicted as Communist goals thwarted by American warmongers and aggressors. There will be other resolutions, too, dealing with such matters as Indian-Pakistani relations, national independence of countries in north Africa and the Middle East, against remilitarization of western Germany and for a united Germany, and so on.

According to Pravda

Pravda has made it plain that the Peiping Congress ties in with the Vienna one in December in a world program. The aim of the World Congress will be to seal off the Soviet Union from the west, to crate obstacles in the west to defense measures and thus to attempt to form a buffer there while Moscow devotes its immediate attention to Asia.

The work of the Peace Congress is cut and dried. It has been decided well in advance, and the dupes present will be led about by the nose by the Communist manipulators of the sessions. The Communists are going to squeeze out every ounce of propaganda from this effort.

In Moscow, the Soviet Union will use its Party Congress to announce that the USSR wants only peace and the right to build socialism. There will be a crashing crescendo of Soviet propaganda all through this fall and winter. The west has been forewarned in time to plan its counter-attack.

Massachusetts, in 1677, bought the claims of heirs to the state of Maine for about 1250 English pounds, or $6250.

Knights to Assist At Rosary Rally

Knights of Columbus will have an important part in the rally Sunday of the Family Rosary Crusade at Kingston Municipal Stadium.

The program is scheduled for 3 p. m., and in the event of rain will be shifted from the uptown ballpark to the municipal auditorium.

Members of Fourth Degree Assembly, K. of C., will act as a guard of honor, and are asked to report at the stadium at 2:15 p. m., wearing formal attire with outside baldric and sword.

All knights from Kingston Council, 275, are urged to volunteer as ushers for the rally and are requested to be at the stadium at 1:30 p. m.

10,000 Are Expected

An estimated crowd of 10,000 is expected at the rally to hear talks on the Family Rosary and attend Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the open. The program is open to the public.

Speakers will be the Most Rev. Joseph F. Flannelly, DD, Auxiliary Bishop of New York, who will be introduced by the Rt. Rev. Martin J. Drury, PR,VF, dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, and the Rev. Patrick C. Peyton, CSC, founder of the Rosary Crusade and Family Theatre.

The theme of Father Peyton's talk is expressed in the slogan which he has chosen for the Family Rosary Crusade, "The Family That Prays Together, Stays Together."

Band music and commentary on the Family Rosary Crusade has been arranged for those who arrive early.

Special Altar

The center of attention at the stadium will be the altar and speakers' platform beautifully designed and decorated by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Penning of Saugerties in cooperation with a group of Woodstock artists.

Tomas Penning recently received national acclaim for his statue of Our Lady of the Hudson situated on the grounds of the Church of the Presentation, Port Ewen.

800 Houses Are Lost

ROSARY CRUSADE HERE

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Kingston Municipal Stadium there will be a rally for the purpose of furthering an organized move to get people praying together daily. The campaign is known as the Family Rosary Crusade.

The leader of the crusade is Father Patrick Peyton of Albany, whose purpose is described as that of bringing about a return to the spiritual and moral principles which were the strength of family life in the past. The means he has chosen is the restoration of the practice of daily family prayer. His aim is to bring the power of family worship to bear upon the problems and issues of the world in our tumultuous and perilous time. Basing his faith on the principle of the united household sharing in daily recitation of the rosary, he urges the cooperation of all men, women and children of good will for the common benefit of humanity.

The rally at the Stadium is not restricted to Catholics or even to Christians. The prayers of all who believe in prayer, regardless of doctrinal limitations are limited to the end that righteousness and peace may flourish again. Catholics are being pledged to say the rosary, the traditional family prayer. Protestants and Jews are urged to practice the family prayers according to their creed.

The slogan of the crusade is "The Family That Prays Together, Stays Together."

A practical recognition that the world will be the better for more prayer, we hope that the local crusade achieves every success.

After hearing the things that American politicians say about one another it is surprising that the losers do not lock the winners up after the election is over. Fortunately that cannot happen in America.

MARTYRDOM IN CHINA

When a man of God dies for his beliefs, men of other faiths, as well as those of his own, can join in honoring his memory. Such a man was Bishop Francis Xavier Ford of the Maryknoll Society in Communist China. The relentless persecution by the Communists which led to his death are a grim statement of the war against men's souls waged by those who would enslave men's bodies.

Bishop Ford was never brought to trial by the Communists for his only crime was complete rejection of everything they stood for. He was constantly harassed, humiliated and degraded because of his beliefs. Because he was convicted of no crime he had no legal redress or place of appeal. Finally the Communists managed his death, unwitnessed. An escapee from the Red terror told of seeing his grave stone.

Bishop Ford was a missionary who sought to bring a better life and truth as he saw it to the people of China. He was dedicated to his task and to his priesthood and had too much courage to deny his belief in the face of the worst his enemies could do. It is not necessary to be of Bishop Ford's faith to feel pride in his bravery and steadfastness. His sacrifice will not be in vain for long after his murderers are dead his name will be remembered and his work in the vineyard of the Lord will bear abundant fruit.

Housing officials in a North Carolina town told a 74 year old man he had to install a bathtub in his house. He replied that he and his wife were quite content to go on using a large wash basin instead of a tub. He has no intention of letting his privacy go down the drain, either.

NO MORE GONDOLAS

Venice has lost one of its great charms for travelers. The gondolas that toured the waterways which replace the city's streets have been abolished in favor of prosaic motorboats. The romantic gondolier who poled his craft along and was the hero of the teenagers, now gives way to an everyday mechanic.

Economy is of course the reason for the change. Yet it may be wondered if Venice is not making a mistake, like any city which gives up a time-honored institution that draws tourists. San Francisco wisely did not heed the arguments of moneysavers, and kept her cable cars. Venice may yet regret her change.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE CASE OF SENATOR JENNER

Few men running for public office this year are being as violently attacked as Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana. He is not being accused of dishonesty or corruption. His crime seems to be that he is an American.

It would appear that the internationalists, most of whom supported General Eisenhower for the nomination, care nothing about his election. They assumed that they had nominated two internationalists for the Presidency and that it did not matter at all which one was elected. They have displayed, since the conventions, a rare objectivity, a lack of concern as to what happens to America. All that they require of a President is that he should blindly follow British colonialism in Asia, that he should protect the remnants of the British Empire, that he should support every effort of the United Nations to interfere in our internal affairs by passing covenants which become the law of our land by default.

Unfortunately for their plans, General Eisenhower, once out of uniform, declines to be anyone's catspaw and so these internationalists are turning to Stevenson. Many of them now hope for the defeat of Eisenhower as they managed to effect the defeat of Taft at the Republican Convention.

This much they are sure they desire, and if you read the internationalist-controlled press, daily, weekly, monthly, you will discover that they desire the defeat of every member of Congress, particularly of Senators, who have fought the Communists and who have questioned the subordination of the United States to the United Nations.

Every man who has fought Communism or Soviet Russia in Congress is being fought for reelection by unconventionally dirty means. Senator Nixon's role in the conviction of Alger Hiss made him the target for a viciously brutal attack on his integrity. A fortune was spent to defeat Senator Joe McCarthy in the Wisconsin primaries. Every Republican member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities is being opposed for re-election because the liberals have joined the Communists against him.

Senator William Jenner conducted a running fight with the State Department on its China and Korean policies. He believed those policies to be disastrously wrong. They have been proved by the course of events to have been disastrously wrong.

Unlike Governor Dewey, Senator Jenner did not believe that public officials should be protected and even promoted for having shown bad judgment; he demanded fixed responsibility, that those who made such mistakes that Americans have to die on the battlefield for them be held responsible for their decisions. Senator Jenner, not as dramatic as Senator Joe McCarthy, in a dignified and scholarly series of speeches on the Senate floor, exposed the fallacious thinking, the abject appeasement of Soviet Russia, by the State Department. He exposed the Marshall-Acheson evil which has cost us more than 120,000 casualties in Korea and that made a present of China to Soviet Russia.

So the Hissites, the internationalists, the Communists, the anti-anti-Communists and all those who put America second either to Soviet Russia or Great Britain and sometimes to both, are after his scalp. They label every pro-American, every nationalist, as an isolationist. They denounce every American who is a patriot and who does not believe that it is shameful to love one's country because old Samuel Johnson wrote, in an idle moment, that patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel. It is because Senator Jenner is a patriot that the internationalists attack him.

No magazine hit at Senator Joe McCarthy more diligently than "Life," an internationalist publication published by Henry Luce. No newspaper hit at Joe McCarthy with less objectivity than the "New York Times," which even excoriated the people of Wisconsin for their dumbness in giving McCarthy such a vote of confidence. But the people of Wisconsin measured the purposes of these publications and repudiated them.

It is to be expected that the people of Indiana will tell these outsiders to mind their own business. Senator Jenner represents Indiana, not New York city. The people of Indiana know that when he opposed the State Department's China and Korea policies, he was fighting for their sons; for the very lives of their sons. They will not be intimidated by Henry Luce or by any internationalists. Hoosiers are Americans and will vote for an American whose only crime seems to be that he loves his country first.

SECOND OPERATION FOR LOW BACK PAIN

Despite thee fact that operations for removal of a crushed or herniated disc (the cushion between the bones of the spinal column) have given relief from low back pain and sciatica to thousands of patients, the return of these painful symptoms after months or years is not uncommon.

In the Journal of Neurosurgery (Springfield, Ill.), Drs. J. Greenwood, Jr., T. H. McGuire and F. Kimbell reported that of 632 patients operated upon by them for herniated disc, 58 had second operations. Nine others who had a second operation received their first operation elsewhere. This total of 67 includes patients reoperated on while they were still in hospital and 16 who had the second herniated disc in a different location in the spinal column. Many were operated on after several years of complete relief before pain returned. Thus in only 32 cases can the need for second operation be ascribed to failure of the first operation.

A review of these 67 cases showed that operation for lumbar (low back) disc herniations is not primarily on the disc injury but an operation on the nerve roots involved. Thus, re-operation is a worthwhile procedure if this fact is recognized and will further reduce the number of patients who obtain incomplete relief and need a second operation.

It is emphasized that the opening through which the nerve root must pass should be at least 50 per cent larger than the root itself and there should be no loose pieces of cartilage left behind, above, or below the interspace, attached to the nerve root, or in the opening in the bone through which nerve passes." Nothing should be in the way to obstruct or partially obstruct, or press on the nerve.

Bony prominences should be removed, or better, gently hammered down. Fusion, fastening of the bones together to strengthen the spine in the region, may be necessary to keep wide the opening of the bony canal through which the nerve passes to supply muscles and structures in region of operation and below it to hip and down the leg to large sciatic nerve. "The worst results were obtained in cases in which there were persistent or recurring back pain without sciatic pain."

The thought then is that patients who have undergone operation for ruptured (herniated disc) and after relief from pain for weeks, months or years, have a return of pain, should consult their physician and the surgeon regarding a second operation. The second operation is usually worth-while.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — General Eisenhower's period of indecision regarding his vice-presidential running-mate was due largely to the fact that he was torn between a crossfire of advice from two groups of backers.

One was the professional politicians who accompanied him on the train. These, led by GOP National Chairman Arthur Summerfield, fought hard to keep Nixon on the ticket. With him were Senator Seaton of Nebraska, Congressman Hugh Scott of Philadelphia; while Milton Eisenhower, the general's brother, a non-professional, was emphatically in favor of dropping Nixon and General Wilton Persons, one of Ike's old military friends, was on the fence.

But the enthusiastic amateurs who got on the train during its stops en route urged that Nixon be taken off. These were the leaders who had rounded up the big write-in votes for Eisenhower during the primaries, who sometimes had voted Democratic and who represented the independent bloc which can swing an election.

They felt that the general must give an example to the nation, must show that he meant business right at the start by cleaning out any taint or even suspicion of corruption. They argued that if the Nixon "expense gifts" had been known at Chicago he would not have been nominated, and that if the general put action to words the election would be in the bag.

In the Dark

One factor which hampered Eisenhower's decision was the fact that his advisers kept the Nixon news from him for 18 hours. Though they got the first query on the New York Post story via the United Press on Thursday afternoon, they did not tell the general about it until next morning.

And since the general seldom reads the newspapers carefully, he did not learn the bad news—even though his advisers sat up until 3 a. m. at Omaha trying to decide what to do while the man chiefly concerned slept peacefully in the next car, blissfully ignorant that the worst political storm in fifty years of presidential campaigns was about to break over his head.

Next morning, the general was told what had happened and at first it was suggested that perhaps Senator Nixon should fly to Kansas City or St. Louis to talk things over. Finally it was decided that Senator Seaton of Nebraska would get off the train at the next stop and phone Nixon—which he did.

Nixon, when reached by telephone, had some strong opinions. He asked that no action be taken until he could give a full statement, and he put some of his staff on the phone to tell of the big crowds he'd been getting. They indicated that the people around Eisenhower had buck fever. The thing to do, they urged, was to play down the story and proceed as if nothing had happened.

Kansas City Conference

That night, at the Muehlebach Hotel in Harry Truman's home town, the general called a staff conference in "the little White House," the penthouse used by President Truman when he comes back to Missouri. Truman's picture had been removed, though the piano on which he sometimes plays the "Missouri Waltz" remained.

At the meeting were Chairman Summerfield, Gov. Adams, Milton Eisenhower, president of Penn State College; Jim Hagerty, press secretary; Senator Seaton, Maj. Gen. "Slick" Persons, Brig. Gen. Robert Cutler and Eisenhower himself. They decided to have the general make another statement, then wait for Nixon to explain all. It was also decided that the general himself should meet the press in an off-the-record conference and reiterate his determination for honesty in government. Next day this was done.

In doing so, the general, by pure coincidence, used the same expression used by President Harding in defending some of his associates — "clean as a hound's tooth."

Meanwhile Senator Taft was really sore at the general for not backing Nixon at the start. Taft thought that Eisenhower's tight-rope walking was what made the Nixon affair a big headline and a big issue.

Ike's Irk

The general meanwhile was irked not only at his own staff for not telling him of the Nixon "gifts" when the news first broke, but also sore at Nixon himself because he had shot off to the press without clearing with him. The general especially didn't like Nixon's first statement blaming "Communists and crooks" for the newspaper stories.

One voice which kept urging the general to drop Nixon was that of Bert Andrews, ace political writer for the New York Herald Tribune who originally introduced Nixon to Eisenhower. Andrews felt that Nixon's position had materially hurt the ticket and that the general would be sure of election if he showed he was against any suspicion of unethical conduct.

On the other hand, the general was boiling mad at Chairman Summerfield for stating that Nixon would definitely remain on the ticket. Since Summerfield made the statement after Eisenhower had already said he was going to make up his mind only after Nixon told his story, he didn't like Summerfield's word to the contrary.

When word of Summerfield's precipitous statement reached the general, he snapped:

"Summerfield may be Republican national chairman but he doesn't speak for me."

Ike's Security

Security aboard the Eisenhower train could be a lot better.

As a candidate, the general gets no official government protection so there are no secret service or FBI men on board. His bodyguard is a Chicago plain clothesman while Mamie has an ex-cop from Denver. The local cops in each town are chiefly depended upon for security. On several occasions Eisenhower has been separated from his police guard, which has had some of his advisers worried.

Their concern is over fanatics, especially in Ohio where the GOP Old-Guard has been far more bitter than the Democrats. Because of this, the FBI was sufficiently worried in Cincinnati to slip some G-men quietly in the crowd for security purposes, even though officially the FBI is not supposed to guard candidates. This is the work of the secret service—though not until the candidate is elected.

Original White Elephant in the World

The original white elephant in the world is one made of white painted wood in the Temple of Tuy Phong, Indochina. It was built for a curious purpose in 1886. It was thought that expectant elephant mothers brought there to gaze upon the white effigy might be induced to bear white elephant babies. The so-called "sacred white elephant" is never pure white. It is either a mottled grey or spotty pink.

Old Art Objects Checked

Carbondale, Ill. (AP)—Experts are trying to crack the mystery of weird carvings and paintings on walls and caves and rock shelters in South Illinois. Figures represent mythological characters, the sun, the swastika and animal life. Irvin Peithman, curator of archaeology at Southern Illinois University, says there is no tradition among living Indians to explain Southern Illinois' earliest art works. The explanation may come from digging into prehistoric villages.

Stevenson Reference to Taft, Eisenhower Gives Ike Big Lift at Every Utterance

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 26—Governor Stevenson may not realize it, but every time he refers to the Taft-Eisenhower alliance, he gives General Eisenhower the strongest assist of the campaign—something nobody else could do as effectively. When the governor declares that the Republican nominee has "surrendered" to Senator Taft, he convinces the pro-Taft men who have been skeptics.

For weeks the Republican campaign sagged. Taft supporters were lukewarm. They distrusted pronouncement in Eisenhower's behalf. They felt embittered at the rough treatment given them by the Dewey crowd at Chicago. The general, they believed, was just "me-too" for Truman's policies. And so the friction developed into dangerous proportions that really threatened the unity of the Republican party and presaged the defeat of Eisenhower in November.

Then everything changed, thanks to the unintended assist from Governor Stevenson, who tells the Taft Republicans that he thinks they really won on principle, after all, and that the Republican nominee now has "surrendered" his convictions.

That's good news for the Taft Republicans everywhere. It is music to their ears. At last they can take off their coats and go to work. For what better proof have they that Eisenhower stands solidly and firmly on good old-fashioned Americanism? Even Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, whose early support of General Eisenhower puzzled many regular Republicans, said he would "take a walk." Those Taft Republicans who couldn't believe Stevenson's verdict of a "surrender" to Taft could certainly be guided by the decision of the Oregon senator to "take a stroll" and not to campaign actively.

Every time some publication of "left wing" proclivity that has been supporting Eisenhower "reverts to type" and withdraws its support from the general, it helps bring Taft men back to the fold.

So everything is rolling now and the prospects of a united Republican party working in this campaign are better than they have been in many years.

But, it will be asked, will not this Taft - Eisenhower affinity alienate "independents" and cause the general to lose more than he can gain—especially when he needs eight million more votes than Dewey got in 1948? There are two kinds of so-called "independents"—those who were for "Ike" before Chicago because they wanted to see Taft beaten for the nomination but who in their hearts have been and always will be Democrats, and those who used to be Democrats in 1948 and 1944 and 1940 and in previous years but who now are fed up with the "mess in Washington."

The true "independents"—and there are millions of them who voted the Democratic ticket before and are now disgusted and indignant over the "Washington mess"—aren't concerned with the fine points of political ideology such as whether "Ike" leans more toward the "right" than the "left," or whether the revised Taft-Hartley Act shall contain one injunction clause more or less. What these true "independents" want to do is to register their protest against irresponsibility, recklessness, corruption, and the entire "mess in Washington"—from the Communist mess to the Korean mess, and from the mink-coat mess to the tax-fix mess.

Governor Stevenson had a piece of political advice given him the other day by President Truman, who said blandly to the newsmen that he didn't know of any "mess in Washington." That's the veteran politician speaking—admit nothing, concede nothing, and ignore everything that's charged.

The Illinois governor, however, must realize that this is effective campaign technique, and, if he takes a few more lessons from Mr. Truman, he will improve his strategy. Thus, for example, the governor has made a serious mistake in saying he will disavow Democratic nominees for Congress with whose views he doesn't agree. That splits the party in the south. Mr. Truman wouldn't try that tack. He and some of his spokesmen have been arguing that there are "only a few dissidents" in the south. He has ignored the split. Governor Stevenson accentuates it.

The governor can't be rescued on this one unless General Eisenhower helps him by going all out for the Fair Employment Practices Commission, or by advocating an end to filibusters in the Senate, or by saying something else which might make the south feel that maybe Stevenson isn't so anti-south after all. One good turn deserves another, and maybe General Eisenhower will oblige the Illinois governor with an assist, too, sometime in the campaign.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Among my souvenirs I have a copy of a letter inviting Miss Jeanette MacDonald, the singer and actress, who showed stout patriotism under pressure from the Communist left, to join the letterhead list of "sponsors" of the pro-Soviet demonstration at Carnegie Hall arranged by one of those ephemeral things called "Artists' Front to Win the War," in October, 1942. I find also a copy of Miss MacDonald's contemptuous reply inviting Charlie Chaplin to do his bit toward the entertainment of American and British soldiers in England and Orson Welles to join the army and fight the Fascists whom he hated with a noisy passion from afar. Chaplin and Welles treated Miss MacDonald's letter with the aloof silence that was characteristic of such vicarious warriors.

The letter to Miss MacDonald was signed by Sam Jaffe, chairman of the Artists' Front to Win the War. Chaplin's name stood at the top of the list, with the title of honorary chairman. Jaffe told Miss MacDonald that this front was organized to "support the President's stand on the urgency of a second front in 1942."

"Charles Chaplin, our honorary chairman, will speak," Jaffe wrote, "along with Representative Elmer J. Holland, Jan Struther, Lillian Hellman, Cary Van Doren, I. F. Stone, and Margo. Orson Welles will preside." The "sponsors" named in the ensuing text included some notorious Communists and the usual tag-along of fading "celebrites" who warmed their old bones in the bleak rays of the Roosevelt smile at some sacrifice of their dignity.

"We beg you to add your name as sponsor," Jaffe wrote. "The cause is great and the moment is critical. I know that Charles Chaplin and Orson Welles join me in making this plea to you."

This letter bore at the bottom, left, the trademark of the United Office and Professional Workers of America, then a CIO Communist-front union, which, by the way, had received substantial encouragement from Marshall Field, the silly political fop who was then flouncing in his Red paper called PM, equally well-known as PU. Incidentally, William Benton, the Connecticut Senator now a candidate for reelection, was another founding father of this thing which died of its own poison after a loathsome career.

Miss MacDonald's reply said: "Don't you think it presumptuous of your group to assume the role of army leaders and war strategists? My husband, Captain Gene Raymond, is at present on duty in the army air force, 97th Bombardment Group, in England. He participated in the brilliant raid over Dieppe and Rouen, and in all probability, in the most recent raids over Lille.

"For Mr. Chaplin's genius as an entertainer I have such profound respect that I have not yet given up hope that he will find it in his heart to go to England or even Russia where he could bring joy and laughter to soldiers returning, half-crazed and exhausted. Oh, what power to save lies within his grasp."

Chaplin, however, did not find this within his heart as Miss MacDonald should have been able to foresee from the vaguest knowledge of the man's nature, which will be scrutinized by an old acquaintance, Rupert Hughes, the author, in a later paragraph.

"As for Mr. Welles," Miss MacDonald continued, "I hope he will find it in his conscience to join our armed forces overseas. There he can actively participate in the great second front which he so patriotically advocates, and may God's blessings go with him."

Mr. Welles was informally reported to have been deferred in the draft for physical reasons, although that, of course, is a private matter. However, there were many opportunities for determined men as ferocious in their hatred of the Fascist beast as Orson Welles appeared to be, to take a hand in the slaughter of the foul

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 26, 1952

ROSARY CRUSADE HERE

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Kingston Municipal Stadium there will be a rally for the purpose of furthering an organized move to get people praying together daily. The campaign is known as the Family Rosary Crusade.

The leader of the crusade is Father Patrick Peyton of Albany, whose purpose is described as that of bringing about a return to the spiritual and moral principles which were the strength of family life in the past. The means he has chosen is the restoration of the practice of daily family prayer. His aim is to bring the power of family worship to bear upon the problems and issues of the world in our tumultuous and perilous time. Basing his faith on the principle of the united household sharing in daily recitation of the rosary, he urges the cooperation of all men, women and children of good will for the common benefit of humanity.

The rally at the Stadium is not restricted to Catholics or even to Christians. The prayers of all who believe in prayer, regardless of doctrinal limitations are limited to the end that righteousness and peace may flourish again. Catholics are being pledged to say the rosary, the traditional family prayer. Protestants and Jews are urged to practice the family prayers according to their creed.

The slogan of the crusade is "The Family That Prays Together, Stays Together."

A practical recognition that the world will be the better for more prayer, we hope that the local crusade achieves every success.

After hearing the things that American politicians say about one another it is surprising that the losers do not lock the winners up after the election is over. Fortunately that cannot happen in America.

MARTYRDOM IN CHINA

When a man of God dies for his beliefs, men of other faiths, as well as those of his own, can join in honoring his memory. Such a man was Bishop Francis Xavier Ford of the Maryknoll Society in Communist China. The relentless persecution by the Communists which led to his death are a grim statement of the war against men's souls waged by those who would enslave men's bodies.

Bishop Ford was never brought to trial by the Communists for his only crime was complete rejection of everything they stood for. He was constantly harassed, humiliated and degraded because of his beliefs. Because he was convicted of no crime he had no legal redress or place of appeal. Finally the Communists managed his death, unwitnessed. An escapee from the Red terror told of seeing his grave stone.

Bishop Ford was a missionary who sought to bring a better life and truth as he saw it to the people of China. He was dedicated to his task and to his priesthood and had too much courage to deny his belief in the face of the worst his enemies could do. It is not necessary to be of Bishop Ford's faith to feel pride in his bravery and steadfastness. His sacrifice will not be in vain for long after his murderers are dead his name will be remembered and his work in the vineyard of the Lord will bear abundant fruit.

Housing officials in a North Carolina town told a 74 year old man he had to install a bathtub in his house. He replied that he and his wife were quite content to go on using a large wash basin instead of a tub. He has no intention of letting his privacy go down the drain, either.

NO MORE GONDOLAS

Venice has lost one of its great charms for travelers. The gondolas that toured the waterways which replace the city's streets have been abolished in favor of prosaic motorboats. The romantic gondolier who poled his craft along and was the hero of the teenagers, now gives way to an everyday mechanic.

Economy is of course the reason for the change. Yet it may be wondered if Venice is not making a mistake, like any city which gives up a time-honored institution that draws tourists. San Francisco wisely did not heed the arguments of moneysavers, and kept her cable cars. Venice may yet regret her change.

'These Days'

THE CASE OF SENATOR JENNER

Few men running for public office this year are being as violently attacked as Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana. He is not being accused of dishonesty or corruption. His crime seems to be that he is an American.

It would appear that the internationalists, most of whom supported General Eisenhower for the nomination, care nothing about his election. They assumed that they had nominated two internationalists for the Presidency and that it did not matter at all which one was elected. They have displayed, since the conventions, a rare objectivity, a lack of concern as to what happens to America. All that they require of a President is that he should blindly follow British colonialism in Asia, that he should protect the remnants of the British Empire, that he should support every effort of the United Nations to interfere in our internal affairs by passing covenants which become the law of our land by default.

Unfortunately for their plans, General Eisenhower, once out of uniform, declines to be anyone's catspaw and so these internationalists are turning to Stevenson. Many of them now hope for the defeat of Eisenhower as they managed to effect the defeat of Taft at the Republican Convention.

This much they are sure they desire, and if you read the internationalist-controlled press, daily, weekly, monthly, you will discover that they desire the defeat of every member of Congress, particularly of Senators, who have fought the Communists and who have questioned the subordination of the United States to the United Nations.

Every man who has fought Communism or Soviet Russia in Congress is being fought for reelection by unconventionally dirty means. Senator Nixon's role in the conviction of Alger Hiss made him the target for a viciously brutal attack on his integrity. A fortune was spent to defeat Senator Joe McCarthy in the Wisconsin primaries. Every Republican member of the House Committee on Un-American Activities is being opposed for re-election because the liberals have joined the Communists against him.

Senator William Jenner conducted a running fight with the State Department on its China and Korean policies. He believed those policies to be disastrously wrong. They have been proved by the course of events to have been disastrously wrong.

Unlike Governor Dewey, Senator Jenner did not believe that public officials should be protected and even promoted for having shown bad judgment; he demanded fixed responsibility, that those who made such mistakes that Americans have to die on the battlefield for them be held responsible for their decisions. Senator Jenner, not as dramatic as Senator Joe McCarthy, in a dignified and scholarly series of speeches on the Senate floor, exposed the fallacious thinking, the abject appeasement of Soviet Russia, by the State Department. He exposed the Marshall-Acheson evil which has cost us more than 120,000 casualties in Korea and that made a present of China to Soviet Russia.

So the Hissites, the internationalists, the Communists, the anti-anti-Communists and all those who put America second either to Soviet Russia or Great Britain and sometimes to both, are after his scalp. They label every pro-American, every nationalist, as an isolationist. They denounce every American who is a patriot and who does not believe that it is shameful to love one's country because old Samuel Johnson wrote, in an idle moment, that patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel. It is because Senator Jenner is a patriot that the internationalists attack him.

No magazine hit at Senator Joe McCarthy more diligently than "Life," an internationalist publication published by Henry Luce. No newspaper hit at Joe McCarthy with less objectivity than the "New York Times," which even excoriated the people of Wisconsin for their dumbness in giving McCarthy such a vote of confidence. But the people of Wisconsin measured the purposes of these publications and repudiated them.

It is to be expected that the people of Indiana will tell these outsiders to mind their own business. Senator Jenner represents Indiana, not New York city. The people of Indiana know that when he opposed the State Department's China and Korea policies, he was fighting for their sons; for the very lives of their sons. They will not be intimidated by Henry Luce or by any internationalists. Hoosiers are Americans and will vote for an American whose only crime seems to be that he loves his country first.

That Body of Yours

SECOND OPERATION FOR LOW BACK PAIN

Despite thee fact that operations for removal of a crushed or herniated disc (the cushion between the bones of the spinal column) have given relief from low back pain and sciatica to thousands of patients, the return of these painful symptoms after months or years is not uncommon.

In the Journal of Neurosurgery (Springfield, Ill.), Drs. J. Greenwood, Jr., T. H. McGuire and F. Kimbell reported that of 632 patients operated upon by them for herniated disc, 58 had second operations. Nine others who had a second operation received their first operation elsewhere. This total of 67 includes patients reoperated on while they were still in hospital and 16 who had the second herniated disc in a different location in the spinal column. Many were operated on after several years of complete relief before pain returned. Thus in only 32 cases can the need for second operation be ascribed to failure of the first operation.

A review of these 67 cases showed that operation for lumbar (low back) disc herniations is not primarily on the disc injury but an operation on the nerve roots involved. Thus, re-operation is a worthwhile procedure if this fact is recognized and will further reduce the number of patients who obtain incomplete relief and need a second operation.

It is emphasized that the opening through which the nerve root must pass should be at least 50 per cent larger than the root itself and there should be no loose pieces of cartilage left behind, above, or below the interspace, attached to the nerve root, or in the opening in the bone through which nerve passes." Nothing should be in the way to obstruct or partially obstruct, or press on the nerve.

Bony prominences should be removed, or better, gently hammered down. Fusion, fastening of the bones together to strengthen the spine in the region, may be necessary to keep wide the opening of the bony canal through which the nerve passes to supply muscles and structures in region of operation and below it to hip and down the leg to large sciatic nerve. "The worst results were obtained in cases in which there were persistent or recurring back pain without sciatic pain."

The thought then is that patients who have undergone operation for ruptured (herniated disc) and after relief from pain for weeks, months or years, have a return of pain, should consult their physician and the surgeon regarding a second operation. The second operation is usually worth-while.

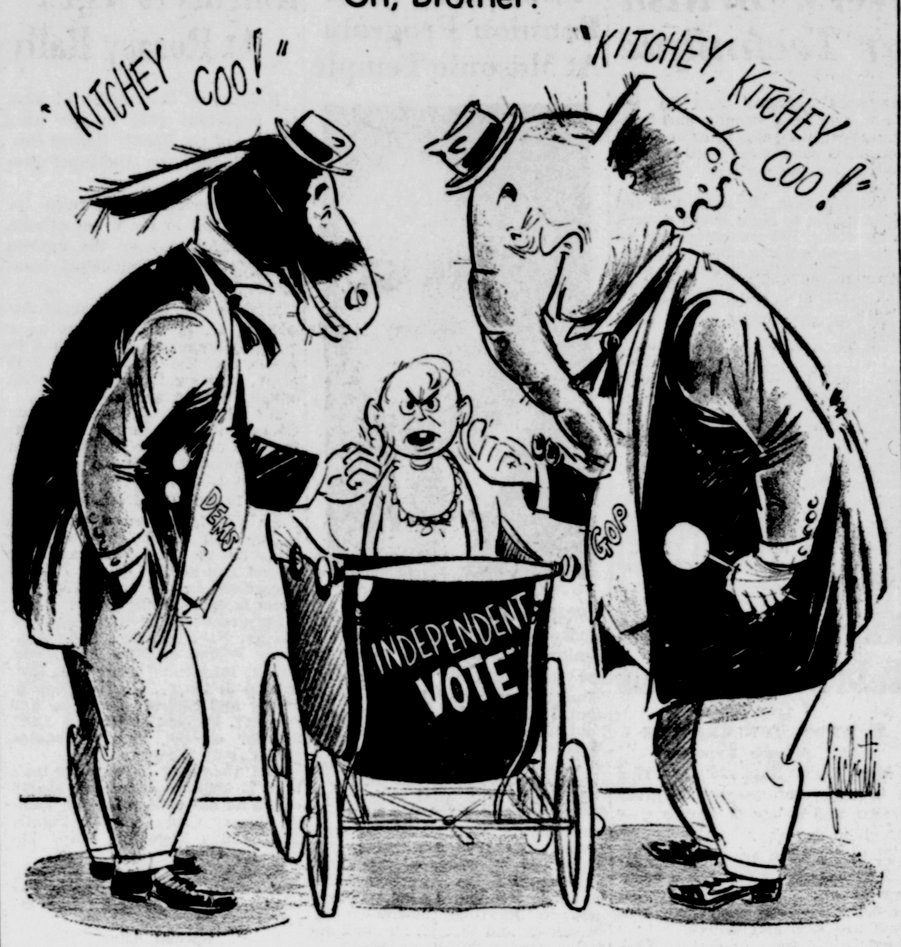
"Oh, Brother!"



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — General Eisenhower's period of indecision regarding his vice-presidential running-mate was due largely to the fact that he was torn between a crossfire of advice from two groups of backers.

One was the professional politicians who accompanied him on the train. These, led by GOP National Chairman Arthur Summerfield, fought hard to keep Nixon on the ticket. With him were Senator Seaton of Nebraska, Congressman Hugh Scott of Philadelphia; while Milton Eisenhower, the general's brother, a non-professional, was emphatically in favor of dropping Nixon and General Wilton Persons, one of Ike's old military friends, was on the fence.

But the enthusiastic amateurs who got on the train during its stops en route urged that Nixon be taken off. These were the leaders who had rounded up the big write-in votes for Eisenhower during the primaries, who sometimes had voted Democratic and who represented the independent bloc which can swing an election.

They felt that the general must give an example to the nation, must show that he meant business right at the start by cleaning out any taint or even suspicion of corruption. They argued that if the Nixon "expense gifts" had been known at Chicago he would not have been nominated, and that if the general put action to words the election would be in the bag.

In the Dark

One factor which hampered Eisenhower's decision was the fact that his advisers kept the Nixon news from him for 18 hours. Though they got the first query on the New York Post story via the United Press on Thursday afternoon, they did not tell the general about it until next morning.

And since the general seldom reads the newspapers carefully, he did not learn the bad news—even though his advisers sat up until 3 a. m. at Omaha trying to decide what to do while the man chiefly concerned slept peacefully in the next car, blissfully ignorant that the worst political storm in fifty years of presidential campaigns was about to break over his head.

Next morning, the general was told what had happened and at first it was suggested that perhaps Senator Nixon should fly to Kansas City or St. Louis to talk things over. Finally it was decided that Senator Seaton of Nebraska would get off the train at the next stop and phone Nixon—which he did.

Nixon, when reached by telephone, had some strong opinions. He asked that no action be taken until he could give a full statement, and he put some of his staff on the phone to tell of the big crowds he'd been getting. They indicated that the people around Eisenhower had buck fever. The thing to do, they urged, was to play down the story and proceed as if nothing had happened.

Kansas City Conference

That night, at the Muehlebach Hotel in Harry Truman's home town, the general called a staff conference in "the little White House," the penthouse used by President Truman when he comes back to Missouri. Truman's picture had been removed, though the piano on which he sometimes plays the "Missouri Waltz" remained.

At the meeting were Chairman Summerfield, Gov. Adams, Milton Eisenhower, president of Penn State College; Jim Hagerty, press secretary; Senator Seaton, Maj. Gen. "Slick" Persons, Brig. Gen. Robert Cutler and Eisenhower himself. They decided to have the general make another statement, then wait for Nixon to explain all. It was also decided that the general himself should meet the press in an off-the-record conference and reiterate his determination for honesty in government. Next day this was done.

In doing so, the general, by pure coincidence, used the same expression used by President Harding in defending some of his associates — "clean as a hound's tooth."

Meanwhile Senator Taft was really sore at the general for not backing Nixon at the start. Taft thought that Eisenhower's tightrope walking was what made the Nixon affair a big headline and a big issue.

Ike's Irk

The general meanwhile was irked not only at his own staff for not telling him of the Nixon "gifts" when the news first broke, but also sore at Nixon himself because he had shot off to the press without clearing with him. The general especially didn't like Nixon's first statement blaming "Communists and crooks" for the newspaper stories.

One voice which kept urging the general to drop Nixon was that of Bert Andrews, ace political writer for the New York Herald Tribune who originally introduced Nixon to Eisenhower. Andrews felt that Nixon's position had materially hurt the ticket and that the general would be sure of election if he showed he was against any suspicion of unethical conduct.

On the other hand, the general was boiling mad at Chairman Summerfield for stating that Nixon would definitely remain on the ticket. Since Summerfield made the statement after Eisenhower had already said he was going to make up his mind only after Nixon told his story, he didn't like Summerfield's word to the contrary.

When word of Summerfield's precipitous statement reached the general, he snapped:

"Summerfield may be Republican national chairman but he doesn't speak for me."

Ike's Security

Security aboard the Eisenhower train could be a lot better.

As a candidate, the general gets no official government protection so there are no secret service or FBI men on board. His bodyguard is a Chicago plain clothesman while Mamie has an ex-cop from Denver. The local cops in each town are chiefly depended upon for security. On several occasions Eisenhower has been separated from his police guard, which has had some of his advisers worried.

Their concern is over fanatics, especially in Ohio where the GOP Old-Guard has been far more bitter than the Democrats. Because of this, the FBI was sufficiently worried in Cincinnati to slip some G-men quietly in the crowd for security purposes, even though officially the FBI is not supposed to guard candidates. This is the work of the secret service—though not until the candidate is elected.

The original white elephant in the world is one made of white painted wood in the Temple of Tuy Phong, Indochina. It was built for a curious purpose in 1886. Old Art Objects Checked

Carbondale, Ill. (AP)—Experts are trying to crack the mystery of weird carvings and paintings on walls and caves and rock shelters in South Illinois. Figures represent mythological characters, the sun, the swastika and animal life. Irvin Peithman, curator of archaeology at Southern Illinois University, says there is no tradition among living Indians to explain Southern Illinois' earliest art works. The explanation may come from digging into prehistoric villages.

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 26—Governor Stevenson may not realize it, but every time he refers to the Taft-Eisenhower alliance, he gives General Eisenhower the strongest assist of the campaign—something nobody else could do as effectively. When the governor declares that the Republican nominee has "surrendered" to Senator Taft, he convinces the pro-Taft men who have been skeptics.

For weeks the Republican campaign sagged. Taft supporters were lukewarm. They distrusted pronouncement in Eisenhower's behalf. They felt embittered at the rough treatment given them by the Dewey crowd at Chicago. The general, they believed, was just "me-too" for Truman's policies. And so the friction developed into dangerous proportions that really threatened the unity of the Republican party and presaged the defeat of Eisenhower in November.

Then everything changed, thanks to the unintended assist from Governor Stevenson, who tells the Taft Republicans that he thinks they really won on principle, after all, and that the Republican nominee now has "surrendered" his convictions.

That's good news for the Taft Republicans everywhere. It is music to their ears. At last they can take off their coats and go to work. For what better proof have they that Eisenhower stands solidly and firmly on good old-fashioned Americanism? Even Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, whose early support of General Eisenhower puzzled many regular Republicans, said he would "take a walk." Those Taft Republicans who couldn't believe Stevenson's verdict of a "surrender" to Taft could certainly be guided by the decision of the Oregon senator to "take a stroll" and not to campaign actively.

Every time some publication of "left wing" proclivity that has been supporting Eisenhower "reverts to type" and withdraws its support from the general, it helps bring Taft men back to the fold.

So everything is rolling now and the prospects of a united Republican party working in this campaign are better than they have been in many years.

But, it will be asked, will not this Taft - Eisenhower affinity alienate "independents" and cause the general to lose more than he can gain—especially when he needs eight million more votes than Dewey got in 1948? There are two kinds of so-called "independents"—those who were for "Ike" before Chicago because they wanted to see Taft beaten for the nomination but who in their hearts have been and always will be Democrats, and those who used to be Democrats in 1948 and 1944 and 1940 and in previous years but who now are fed up with the "mess in Washington."

The true "independents"—and there are millions of them who voted the Democratic ticket before and are now disgusted and indignant over the "Washington mess"—aren't concerned with the fine points of political ideology such as whether "Ike" leans more toward the "right" than the "left," or whether the revised Taft-Hartley Act shall contain one injunction clause more or less. What these true "independents" want to do is to register their protest against irresponsibility, recklessness, corruption, and the entire "mess in Washington"—from the Communist mess to the Korean mess, and from the mink-coat mess to the tax-fix mess.

Governor Stevenson had a piece of political advice given him the other day by President Truman, who said blandly to the newsmen that he didn't know of any "mess in Washington." That's the veteran politician speaking—admit nothing, concede nothing, and ignore everything that's charged.

The Illinois governor, however, must realize that this is effective campaign technique, and, if he takes a few more lessons from Mr. Truman, he will improve his strategy. Thus, for example, the governor has made a serious mistake in saying he will disavow Democratic nominees for Congress with whose views he doesn't agree. That splits the party in the south. Mr. Truman wouldn't try that tack. He and some of his spokesmen have been arguing that there are "only a few dissidents" in the south. He has ignored the split. Governor Stevenson accentuates it.

The governor can't be rescued on this one unless General Eisenhower helps him by going all out for the Fair Employment Practices Commission, or by advocating an end to filibusters in the Senate, or by saying something else which might make the south feel that maybe Stevenson isn't so anti-south after all. One good turn deserves another, and maybe General Eisenhower will oblige the Illinois governor with an assist, too, sometime in the campaign.

"We beg you to add your name as sponsor," Jaffe wrote. "The cause is great and the moment is critical. I know that Charles Chaplin and Orson Welles join me in making this plea to you."

This letter bore at the bottom, left, the trademark of the United Office and Professional Workers of America, then a CIO Communist-front union, which, by the way, had received substantial encouragement from Marshall Field, the silly political fop who was then flouncing in his Red paper called PM, equally well-known as PU. Incidentally, William Benton, the Connecticut Senator now a candidate for reelection, was another founding father of this thing which died of its own poison after a loathsome career.

Miss MacDonald's reply said: "Don't you think it presumptuous of your group to assume the role of army leaders and war strategists? My husband, Captain Gene Raymond, is at present on duty in the army air force, 97th Bombardment Group, in England. He participated in the brilliant raid over Dieppe and Rouen, and in all probability, in the most recent raids over Lille.

"For Mr. Chaplin's genius as an entertainer I have such profound respect that I have not yet given up hope that he will find it in his heart to go to England or even Russia where he could bring joy and laughter to soldiers returning, half-crazed and exhausted. Oh, what power to save lies within his grasp."

Chaplin, however, did not find this within his heart as Miss MacDonald should have been able to foresee from the vaguest knowledge of the man's nature, which will be scrutinized by an old acquaintance, Rupert Hughes, the author, in a later paragraph.

"As for Mr. Welles," Miss MacDonald continued, "I hope he will find it in his conscience to join our armed forces overseas. There he can actively participate in the great second front which he so patriotically advocates, and may God's blessings go with him."

Mr. Welles was informally reported to have been deferred in the draft for physical reasons, although that, of course, is a private matter. However, there were many opportunities for determined men as ferocious in their hatred of the Fascist beast as Orson Welles appeared to be, to take a hand in the slaughter of the foul

Graduation Held For 2 Cub Scouts

The end of the Club Scouting trail was reached Wednesday night at the Comforter Hall as Cub Scouts George Arold, Jr., and Frank M. Rittie graduated from Pack 15, — the latter into Boy Scout Troop 6. Other features of the Pack meeting, attended by over 100 persons including the Cub Scouts, included Den skits on the theme of the Mail Goes Through, advancement awards, a flag ceremony, and attendance awards.

The Pack meeting opened with a large display of handicraft made by the Club Scouts in Den meetings during the month, and was followed by a uniform inspection by the Cubmaster in which Den 2 won first place with Den 5 in second place.

Separate meetings for the Cubs and parents were held with announcements made of various future activities, and then the Grand Assembly was opened with a Lion Cub flag ceremony led by Cub Scout Terry Kalish of Den 2. The other members of the Den were grouped around Cub Kalish as the room was darkened and flash lights were played on the flag, while Cub Scout Phillips Eighmey played the National Anthem as a trumpet solo and the audience repeated the Pledge of Allegiance.

Cubs Get 'Letters'

A surprise feature of the evening was the appearnce of District Commissioner Edward Luedtke, a local letter carrier who arrived in uniform with his mail sack and distributed "letters" to various Cub Scouts, containing their advancement awards for the past month.

Cub Scouts receiving awards were: Den 1: Thomas DeWitt and Henry Field, a silver arrow point each; Den. 2: Terry Kalish, Lion badge; James Connelly, Lion badge and gold arrow point; Phillips Eighmey, silver arrow; John J. Fabiano, Bobcat pin; Den 3. Harold Hart, Bobcat pin; Den 4: Edmund Yeager, denner's stripe; John Ploss, assistant denner's stripe; Roger Nickerson, silver arrow point; Den 5: Robert Gillen, denner's stripe; Ferrell McElrath, assistant denner's stripe, Wolf badge, gold arrow and silver arrow point; Bruce Freer, Wolf badge, gold arrow and silver arrow point.

Den Skits based on the month's theme of the Mail Goes Through were presented by each of the five Dens in Pack 15, with the country post office, various branches of the mail service, and the Indian smoke signal system displayed by the Cub Scouts.

Den 3 in charge of Den Mother Mrs. Frank Rittie won the monthly parent attendance award pennant, with only one family missing from the meeting. Den 5, Mrs. Durwood Freer, den mother, was second in this contest.

During the month the five dens were the guests of Postmaster William R. Kraft for a conducted tour of the main post office facilities, and the New York Central Railroad for a tour through a mail car. It was announced that in October the Cubs would be the guests of Fire Chief Joseph Murphy and the local fire department on a tour of inspection of fire fighting facilities in conjunction with Fire Prevention Week. Tours of local facilities have been a feature of Pack 15's programs for several months., arrangements are being made by the Pack committee meeting in monthly planning sessions prior to the regular monthly Pack meetings.

Projects Planned

Announcements of future projects for Pack 15 included a parent-son toy rehabilitation program for Christmas, a Halloween party for the entire Pack October 29, a booth displaying handicraft at the church fair on November 6, and a party for the benefit of the Pack treasury Wednesday, Oct. 15 at the Comforter Hall. Complete programs for the coming year were distributed to the parents at the meeting, and parent-participation was requested for these programs.

As Pegler Sees It

aggressor in other armies, in the underground and at sea, none of which, however, appealed to the fastidious bellicosity of Mr. Welles.

Mr. Hughes, in his testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, ran on as follows:

"Charlie Chaplin wouldn't go across the street to a USO entertainment during the war when Bob Hope and everyone was flying all over the country—wouldn't cross the street. I have known him since 1922. He was a Communist then and we fought communism."

Parnell Thomas, the chairman of the committee, asked how a rich man who owed all his material success to a capitalist nation could become a Communist.

"Charlie was a very poor boy in the slums of London," Hughes replied. "His father apparently deserted his mother. She lost her mind and when Charlie was rich she came over here and died. He said a very pathetic thing: 'My mother went to the insane asylum fearing that I was dying of starvation. Now I am rich and famous but I can't tell her because she won't understand it.' He had great bitterness. Max Eastman, who is an anti-Stalinist and, I think, anti-Communist now, came out to live with Charlie. Charlie picks up culture through his glands. He hasn't read anything. He though communism was smart. I fought him for years. He thought it was the smart thing and all of them though it was the intellectual thing to do. I said one time: 'Charlie, you are rich. The individual poor man can die of starvation on your doorstep and you would kick him off.'

"He said: 'Yes, I have been poor. I hate the dirty unwashed.' He refused to appear on a program that would have brought from $35,000 to $50,000 for the relief of starvation in eastern Europe. Forty cents would save a child from dying for one week. I said: 'But, Charlie, if you don't come up, we won't get the money.'

"He said: 'Oh, if they would only recognize the Soviet government.'"

Hughes wheedled and Chaplin stood fast because he said personal appearances "embarrassed" him.

Finally, so reads the record, Hughes said: "Charlie, I have known of some pretty rotten people but I consider you the most hardened person I have ever known. You wouldn't walk into a room and talk a few minutes to raise 35 to 50 thousand dollars to save the lives of these starving children."

Hughes testified that he had positive knowledge that Chaplin had been a Communist since 1922.

As Pegler Sees It

aggressor in other armies, in the underground and at sea, none of which, however, appealed to the fastidious bellicosity of Mr. Welles.

Mr. Hughes, in his testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, ran on as follows:

"Charlie Chaplin wouldn't go across the street to a USO entertainment during the war when Bob Hope and everyone was flying all over the country—wouldn't cross the street. I have known him since 1922. He was a Communist then and we fought communism."

Parnell Thomas, the chairman of the committee, asked how a rich man who owed all his material success to a capitalist nation could become a Communist.

"Charlie was a very poor boy in the slums of London," Hughes replied. "His father apparently deserted his mother. She lost her mind and when Charlie was rich she came over here and died. He said a very pathetic thing: 'My mother went to the insane asylum fearing that I was dying of starvation. Now I am rich and famous but I can't tell her because she won't understand it.' He had great bitterness. Max Eastman, who is an anti-Stalinist and, I think, anti-Communist now, came out to live with Charlie. Charlie picks up culture through his glands. He hasn't read anything. He though communism was smart. I fought him for years. He thought it was the smart thing and all of them though it was the intellectual thing to do. I said one time: 'Charlie, you are rich. The individual poor man can die of starvation on your doorstep and you would kick him off.'

"He said: 'Yes, I have been poor. I hate the dirty unwashed.' He refused to appear on a program that would have brought from $35,000 to $50,000 for the relief of starvation in eastern Europe. Forty cents would save a child from dying for one week. I said: 'But, Charlie, if you don't come up, we won't get the money.'

"He said: 'Oh, if they would only recognize the Soviet government.'"

Hughes wheedled and Chaplin stood fast because he said personal appearances "embarrassed" him.

Finally, so reads the record, Hughes said: "Charlie, I have known of some pretty rotten people but I consider you the most hardened person I have ever known. You wouldn't walk into a room and talk a few minutes to raise 35 to 50 thousand dollars to save the lives of these starving children."

Hughes testified that he had positive knowledge that Chaplin had been a Communist since 1922.

MODENA NEWS

Modena, Sept. 26—The Modena and Clintondale Methodist Churches are among those in the Newburgh district cooperating with the Bible Observance ceremonies to be held Tuesday, Sept. 30, at the Trinity Methodist Church in Newburgh. Serving on the planning committee are the following persons from this locality: the Rev. William A. Imler, Modena; Mrs. Emmett Hyatt, Clintondale; Eber Coy, Ardonia. Members of the New Paltz churches are urged to participate in the Newburgh mass meeting.

The members of the Modena Home Bureau unit conducted their first meeting of the fall season Thursday, Sept. 18, at Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Mrs. Egbert Harcourt, newly elected chairman, presided, and Mrs. Joseph Daunt was appointed secretary of the unit, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Roy Jensen. Mrs. Jensen is local leader of the food project, for the program planned during the year. Votes were taken on a sewing machine clinic to be held Thursday, Oct. 16, at 9 a. m. in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Ten members are required to form the classes. Six have enrolled. Interested persons are advised to contact the chairman, Mrs. Harcourt at the earliest possible date. Others attending Thursday's meeting were Mrs. William Almquist, Miss Isadora Livingston, Mrs. Raymond Sharpe, Mrs. Gershom Mount, Mrs. Lillian Harcourt, Mrs. Frank Coy, Mrs. Myron L. Shultis, Mrs. Alvina Matheisen and Mrs. Lillian Courter. A report will be given on the membership campaign at the next regular meeting of the unit Thursday, Oct. 16, at Hasbrouck Memorial Hall following the clinic.

The Rev. William A. Imler, pastor of the Modena-Clintondale Methodist Churches attended the annual conference of the National Religion and Labor Foundation in New York September 24-26, which was held in conjunction with the national convention of the American Federation of Labor. The Religion and Labor Foundation is concerned with bringing the views of religion to bear upon the problems of labor. Highlights of the convention were addresses by Dwight D. Eisenhower, Senator Herbert Lehman and Senator Wayne G. Morse.

Representing the Modena WSCS at the fall meeting of the New York Conference of Woman's Societies of Christian Service in the Newburgh District, and held at the Grace Methodist Church in Newburgh were Mrs. William A. Imler, Mrs. Lillian Courter, Mrs. Floyd B. Wells, Mrs. Gerald DuBois.

Members of the Modena-Clintondale Methodist Youth Fellowship were among those of the Highland-Milton MYF entertained by the New Paltz-Lloyd-Plutarch group at a dance at the Lloyd Methodist Church Hall on Saturday evening. Roger Thorpe and his orchestra of New Paltz furnished music for dancing. Sunday the local Methodist youth attended a sub-district meeting of Fellowship units in the Newburgh districts, at the Gardnertown Methodist Church. Guest speaker was the Rev. E. Brooks, pastor of the All Saints Church, Milton, who spoke on Race Relations. Thirty-five young people attended the meeting, representing the churches mentioned, also those of Walden, Marlborough, Middle Hope, Plattekill-Rossville and Fostertown. Louise Smalley of Clintondale is vice president of Sub-District No. 5 and Patricia Pink of Modena is chairman of the worship committee.

Mr. and Mrs. James Denton of Highland were recent visitors of relatives in town.

Prominent guests of the Rev. and Mrs. William A. Imler at the Methodist parsonage on Tuesday were Bishop and Mrs. Frederick Newell of New York, also the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. G. Roy Bragg of Newburgh. Bishop Newell is the newly-appointed bishop replacing the Rev. G. Bromley Oxnam of New York. Bishop Newell was favorably impressed with the oil painting in the sanctuary placed there as a memorial to the late Joseph Jaycox, Jr., 14-year-old boy of Modena, who lost his life in the Wallkill river, saving a companion, nine-year-old Earl Coy of Modena in May 1938. The brief visit of the church dignitaries was in connection with the get acquainted movement in the Newburgh District.

Mrs. Catherine Denton of Highland visited relatives in town Tuesday.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD S. THIBAUT, Jr.

Annual Halloween Party Is Planned

Woodstock, Sept. 25—At a recent meeting of the adult Girl Scout committee of leaders and troop committee members there was a discussion of the annual Halloween party which the Girl Scouts have given in the past in conjunction with Woodstock Fire Company No. 1. This year's party promises to be entirely different from previous ones but the young people of the village are urged to start making plans for their costumes.

Mrs. Charles Rapp, leader of Troop 12, assisted by Mrs. Charles King, took her troop for a hike and cook-out Wednesday afternoon on the Siegel property near Plochmann Lane. Mrs. Rapp's group, composed of fifth grade girls, nine and 10 years of age, planned the menu and cooked a simple supper. The 14 girls learned to build cooking fires as well as the safety rules pertaining to outdoor fires. During the afternoon the troop also did some nature study on wild flowers and trees. The cook-out lasted from 2:30 p. m. to 5:30.

Mrs. Rapp's troop of Tenderfoot Scouts, are at present working on the second class badge.

Girl Scout Troop 74, under the leadership of Mrs. Theodore Lee, composed of fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grade girls, also went on a hike and cook-out to Ohayo Mountain. She was assisted by Mrs. Malcolm Rose and Mrs. Walter Van Wagenen. This group of older girls participated in a more advanced type of cookery, using cheese, bacon and potatoes wrapped in tin foil roasted over an open fire. The older girls in the group instructed the younger ones in building a fire, and they also tried several new dishes including "dough boys" and banana boats.

At their next meeting the members of Troop 74 will begin a sewing project on skirts and dresses. They will be taught how to work from patterns, how to turn hems, and will participate in a discussion on the most becoming lines for each girl. In this project the girls will work towards either a good-grooming or clothing merit badge.

Legion Auxiliary Installs Officers

Woodstock, Sept. 25—At a special meeting of the Auxiliary of the Woodstock American Legion Post 1026, Wednesday night officers for the coming year were installed. Mrs. Isaac Graham, county chairman of the Ulster County Committee of the Legion Auxiliary was the installing officer. Other guests were Mrs. Joseph Hoffman and Mrs. Altieri, both of Stone Ridge. The acting sergeant-of-arms for the ceremony was Mrs. William Klippel, of this village.

Mrs. George Aplustil, retiring president, introduced Mrs. Graham and the following new officers were installed: Mrs. Alfred Nussbaum, president; Mrs. Clarence Snyder, first vice-president; Mrs. Wesley O'Brien, second vice-president; Mrs. Aaron Hasbrouck, secretary; Miss Florence Peper, treasurer; Mrs. Fennell Franckling, chaplain.

Corsages, made by Mrs. John Wolven were presented to the installing officer, the president and the retiring president. A past president's pin was presented to Mrs. Aplustil by Mrs. Graham. Upon assuming the chair, Mrs. Nussbaum continued with new business.

Discussed in the matter of new business was the purchase of a flag for the Zena school.

The refreshment committee for next month is composed of Mrs. John Wolven and Mrs. George Aplustil. A gift was presented to Mrs. Graham by Mrs. Aaron Hasbrouck.

Streams Are Stocked

Woostock, Sept. 26—It has been announced by Birge Simmons, president of the Woodstock Fish and Game Club, that on Tuesday, 7,500 brown trout, 1,300 brook trout and 1,300 rainbow trout were placed in various streams in the Woodstock Township.

The October meeting of the Woodstock Fish and Game Club will be announced at a later date.

Youngsters 'Gas' Hotdogs

Pittsburgh (AP)—The children in the neighborhood just threw a match on the ground, a foot-high flame spurted up and they roasted their hotdogs and toasted marshmallows with no trouble at all. Then the gas company heard about it and sent a repair crew to fix the leak in the underground gas line that leads to a nearby housing project.

Oddity

The human body contains enough free phosphorus to make 300,000 old-style matches, yet the phosphorus in three matches of this type is sufficient to kill an adult.

Mettacahonts

Mettacahonts, Sept. 26—A hot roast beef supper will be served at the Mettacahonts Hall Thursday, Oct. 23.

The Willing Workers will hold their October meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles D. Osterhoudt and Mrs. Jansen Osterhoudt Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lennon and family of Albany were weekend guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Osterhoudt.

MODENA NEWS

Modena, Sept. 26—The Modena and Clintondale Methodist Churches are among those in the Newburgh district cooperating with the Bible Observance ceremonies to be held Tuesday, Sept. 30, at the Trinity Methodist Church in Newburgh. Serving on the planning committee are the following persons from this locality: the Rev. William A. Imler, Modena; Mrs. Emmett Hyatt, Clintondale; Eber Coy, Ardonia. Members of the New Paltz churches are urged to participate in the Newburgh mass meeting.

The members of the Modena Home Bureau unit conducted their first meeting of the fall season Thursday, Sept. 18, at Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Mrs. Egbert Harcourt, newly elected chairman, presided, and Mrs. Joseph Daunt was appointed secretary of the unit, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Roy Jensen. Mrs. Jensen is local leader of the food project, for the program planned during the year. Votes were taken on a sewing machine clinic to be held Thursday, Oct. 16, at 9 a. m. in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Ten members are required to form the classes. Six have enrolled. Interested persons are advised to contact the chairman, Mrs. Harcourt at the earliest possible date. Others attending Thursday's meeting were Mrs. William Almquist, Miss Isadora Livingston, Mrs. Raymond Sharpe, Mrs. Gershom Mount, Mrs. Lillian Harcourt, Mrs. Frank Coy, Mrs. Myron L. Shultis, Mrs. Alvina Mathelsen and Mrs. Lillian Courter. A report will be given on the membership campaign at the next regular meeting of the unit Thursday, Oct. 16, at Hasbrouck Memorial Hall following the clinic.

The Rev. William A. Imler, pastor of the Modena-Clintondale Methodist Churches attended the annual conference of the National Religion and Labor Foundation in New York September 24-26, which was held in conjunction with the national convention of the American Federation of Labor. The Religion and Labor Foundation is concerned with bringing the views of religion to bear upon the problems of labor. Highlights of the convention were addresses by Dwight D. Eisenhower, Senator Herbert Lehman and Senator Wayne G. Morse.

Representing the Modena WSCS at the fall meeting of the New York Conference of Woman's Societies of Christian Service in the Newburgh District, and held at the Grace Methodist Church in Newburgh were Mrs. William A. Imler, Mrs. Lillian Courter, Mrs. Floyd B. Wells, Mrs. Gerald DuBois.

Members of the Modena-Clintondale Methodist Youth Fellowship were among those of the Highland-Milton MYF entertained by the New Paltz-Lloyd-Plutarch group at a dance at the Lloyd Methodist Church Hall on Saturday evening. Roger Thorpe and his orchestra of New Paltz furnished music for dancing. Sunday the local Methodist youth attended a sub-district meeting of Fellowship units in the Newburgh districts, at the Gardnertown Methodist Church. Guest speaker was the Rev. E. Brooks, pastor of the All Saints Church, Milton, who spoke on Race Relations. Thirty-five young people attended the meeting, representing the churches mentioned, also those of Walden, Marlborough, Middle Hope, Plattekill-Rossville and Fostertown. Louise Smalley of Clintondale is vice president of Sub-District No. 5 and Patricia Pink of Modena is chairman of the worship committee.

Mr. and Mrs. James Denton of Highland were recent visitors of relatives in town.

Prominent guests of the Rev. and Mrs. William A. Imler at the Methodist parsonage on Tuesday were Bishop and Mrs. Frederick Newell of New York, also the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. G. Roy Bragg of Newburgh. Bishop Newell is the newly-appointed bishop replacing the Rev. G. Bromley Oxnam of New York. Bishop Newell was favorably impressed with the oil painting in the sanctuary placed there as a memorial to the late Joseph Jaycox, Jr., 14-year-old boy of Modena, who lost his life in the Wallkill river, saving a companion, nine-year-old Earl Coy of Modena in May 1938. The brief visit of the church dignitaries was in connection with the get acquainted movement in the Newburgh District.

Mrs. Catherine Denton of Highland visited relatives in town Tuesday.

By RICHARD S. THIBAUT, Jr.

Annual Halloween Party Is Planned

Woodstock, Sept. 25—At a recent meeting of the adult Girl Scout committee of leaders and troop committee members there was a discussion of the annual Halloween party which the Girl Scouts have given in the past in conjunction with Woodstock Fire Company No. 1. This year's party promises to be entirely different from previous ones but the young people of the village are urged to start making plans for their costumes.

Mrs. Charles Rapp, leader of Troop 12, assisted by Mrs. Charles King, took her troop for a hike and cook-out Wednesday afternoon on the Siegel property near Plochmann Lane. Mrs. Rapp's group, composed of fifth grade girls, nine and 10 years of age, planned the menu and cooked a simple supper. The 14 girls learned to build cooking fires as well as the safety rules pertaining to outdoor fires. During the afternoon the troop also did some nature study on wild flowers and trees. The cook-out lasted from 2:30 p. m. to 5:30.

Mrs. Rapp's troop of Tenderfoot Scouts, are at present working on the second class badge.

Girl Scout Troop 74, under the leadership of Mrs. Theodore Lee, composed of fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grade girls, also went on a hike and cook-out to Ohayo Mountain. She was assisted by Mrs. Malcolm Rose and Mrs. Walter Van Wagenen. This group of older girls participated in a more advanced type of cookery, using cheese, bacon and potatoes wrapped in tin foil roasted over an open fire. The older girls in the group instructed the younger ones in building a fire, and they also tried several new dishes including "dough boys" and banana boats.

At their next meeting the members of Troop 74 will begin a sewing project on skirts and dresses. They will be taught how to work from patterns, how to turn hems, and will participate in a discussion on the most becoming lines for each girl. In this project the girls will work towards either a good-grooming or clothing merit badge.

Legion Auxiliary Installs Officers

Woodstock, Sept. 25—At a special meeting of the Auxiliary of the Woodstock American Legion Post 1026, Wednesday night officers for the coming year were installed. Mrs. Isaac Graham, county chairman of the Ulster County Committee of the Legion Auxiliary was the installing officer. Other guests were Mrs. Joseph Hoffman and Mrs. Altieri, both of Stone Ridge. The acting sergeant-of-arms for the ceremony was Mrs. William Klippel, of this village.

Mrs. George Aplustil, retiring president, introduced Mrs. Graham and the following new officers were installed: Mrs. Alfred Nussbaum, president; Mrs. Clarence Snyder, first vice-president; Mrs. Wesley O'Brien, second vice-president; Mrs. Aaron Hasbrouck, secretary; Miss Florence Peper, treasurer; Mrs. Fennell Franckling, chaplain.

Corsages, made by Mrs. John Wolven were presented to the installing officer, the president and the retiring president. A past president's pin was presented to Mrs. Aplustil by Mrs. Graham. Upon assuming the chair, Mrs. Nussbaum continued with new business.

Discussed in the matter of new business was the purchase of a flag for the Zena school.

The refreshment committee for next month is composed of Mrs. John Wolven and Mrs. George Aplustil. A gift was presented to Mrs. Graham by Mrs. Aaron Hasbrouck.

Streams Are Stocked

Woostock, Sept. 26—It has been announced by Birge Simmons, president of the Woodstock Fish and Game Club, that on Tuesday, 7,500 brown trout, 1,300 brook trout and 1,300 rainbow trout were placed in various streams in the Woodstock Township.

The October meeting of the Woodstock Fish and Game Club will be announced at a later date.

Youngsters 'Gas' Hotdogs

Pittsburgh (AP)—The children in the neighborhood just threw a match on the ground, a foot-high flame spurted up and they roasted their hotdogs and toasted marshmallows with no trouble at all. Then the gas company heard about it and sent a repair crew to fix the leak in the underground gas line that leads to a nearby housing project.

Oddity

The human body contains enough free phosphorus to make 300,000 old-style matches, yet the phosphorus in three matches of this type is sufficient to kill an adult.

Mettacahonts

Mettacahonts, Sept. 26—A hot roast beef supper will be served at the Mettacahonts Hall Thursday, Oct. 23.

The Willing Workers will hold their October meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles D. Osterhoudt and Mrs. Jansen Osterhoudt Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lennon and family of Albany were weekend guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Osterhoudt.

Mr. and Mrs. Wager of Rhinebeck spent Sunday at the home of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Osterhoudt.

Mr. and Mrs. Abel Quick of New Paltz, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Osterhoudt, are enjoying a trip to Montreal, Canada, and the New England states.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Gates and son entertained relatives Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jansen Osterhoudt and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Osterhoudt entertained guests for the weekend.

Mrs. Stanley Kelder is recovering from a hand injury.

Mrs. Grace Slade of New Jersey has been visiting her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Treadway.

Class in Banking Slated Evenings At Local School

Educational classes for employes of the Savings and Loan Associations and also the local banks will begin Tuesday. The Capitol District Chapter, No. 131, Troy, of the American Savings and Loan Institute is sponsoring this feature.

Through the cooperation of the board of education and Hubert Hoderath, director of adult education in the public schools, these classes will be taught in the new Vocational building. Classes will be held each Tuesday evening from 7 until 9 o'clock, beginning next Tuesday.

The first course will be on teller training, which includes such topics as types of money, counterfeiting, receiving, handling and paying out currency and coin. Included in the course will be instruction to the teller as the institution's customer representative, head teller responsibilities and public relations.

Eyles Is Instructor

Irving Eyles, cashier of the Rondout National Bank, has been selected by the Capitol District Chapter as the teacher for this course of instruction. Eyles is very well qualified to teach this class. He was formerly with the Second National Bank of Red Bank, N. J., for 12 years, and then with the City National Bank of Hackensack, N. J., before coming to Kingston in 1948 as cashier of the Rondout National Bank. He has taken about seven years of study courses with the American Institute of Banking and a special banking course at Rutgers University, majoring in investments and banking.

Students are enrolled from the following institutions: Savings and Loan Association of Kingston; Homeseekers Savings and Loan Association; Ulster County Savings Institution; Kingston Trust Company; Catskill Savings and Loan Association and the Savings and Loan Association of Newburgh.

These courses are given to educate and train personnel in Savings and Loan Associations and financial institutions so that they will better fitted to take care of their customers in all phases of banking work.

Mothers Cause Ulcers

Winnipeg, Canada (AP) — Mother can and often does give her children ulcers—by remote control—although it may take 40 years. Dr. Edwin F. Peters, president of the Des Moines College of Osteopathy and Surgery, said during a recent medical convention here that about 76 per cent of stomach ulcers are the result of emotional disturbances. He said mothers impart more fears to their children than any other agency. They may do this through excessive "dont's" and by leaving the bedroom light on during the night. In later years, this may cause emotional conflicts which result in physical illness.

Wall Paneling Made Easy

New York (AP) — Plywood wall paneling is now placed within the budget of many home owners through development of a portable electronic device that "spot welds" panels in place within a few minutes. The device, called a woodwelder, consists of a portable generator and a three-pound hand applicator or "gun" that transmits radio-frequency energy at 40 million cycles per second.

SICK OF HOT BLASTS AND COLD DRAFTS?

Are you uncomfortable when you sit near a window in the winter? Do you have trouble placing furniture so it won't block heating outlets? Are the floors warm enough so your children can play on them without getting chilled?

You can beat heating troubles like these with the exciting new General Electric Air-Wall System. It's a low-cost warm air system that actually gives both radiant and warm air heat—2 kinds of heat in 1!

The unique G-E Air-Wall Register warms the outside walls so they radiate heat. That makes the room uniformly warm. No drafts—even near picture windows. And since the air is gently diffused—not shot out—you get no hot blasts—and furniture can be placed anywhere you like.

And here's an extra: G-E Air-Wall Systems are ideal for cooling! You can add G-E Summer Cooling at low cost whenever you like.

So if you're planning to buy or build a new home, be sure to ask about G-E Air-Wall Heating. Or if you want new economy and comfort in your present home, let us make a free comfort survey for you. We'll advise you on just what kind of G-E Automatic Heating will serve you best and save you most. Inquiries from builders invited.

KOREAN CASUALTIES TOP POPULATION OF BIG CITIES—Korean casualties, as reported up to Sept. 18, amount to more than the entire population of each of the cities shown on map above. Total casualties of 117,973 included 18,574 killed in action, 86,756 wounded, and 12,643 missing. Population figures, from World Almanac, are based on 1950 census.

MT. TREMPER

Mount Tremper, Sept. 25—The Mount Tremper Grange will hold a turkey supper on Thursday evening, September 25. Supper will be served in the Grange Hall from 6 p. m. on.

The village was saddened by the death of Mrs. Louise Jesuit, who died on September 18. Her funeral Monday was attended by numerous friends and relatives.

The Ladies' Sewing Circle of the Mount Tremper Dutch Reformed Church held elections at its recent meeting. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Maude Hoyt; vice-president, Mrs. Alida Lane; treasurer, Mrs. Ruth Every; secretary, Mrs. Neil Hedges.

Pvt. Robert Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Klein of the Brookside House was home on a weekend pass recently. He is attending Leadership School at Fort Dix.

Mrs. Etta Powell and her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Blee, are vacationing in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Lewis Riseley is a patient at Kingston Hospital where she is reported to be recovering from a recent operation.

Alice Dibbell who is now employed in Poughkeepsie, recently purchased a new car.

Mrs. Mary Chatfield, dental hygienist for the Onteora Central School, is reported to be recuperating from injuries sustained in an automobile accident during the summer.

Mrs. Barney Mellevold has returned from Port Washington, L. I., where she spent two weeks with her daughter and grandchildren.

At the meeting of Mount Tremper Grange No. 1468 Monday evening, Sept. 22, the following officers were elected: Master, Frank Carle; overseer, Carlton Hoyt; lecturer, Marian Umhey; steward, William Spanhake; chaplain, Mrs. M. Barringer; gatekeeper, August May; secretary, Doris May; Flora, Helene Umhey; Pomona, Mrs. William Spanhake; Ceres, Elsie May; assistant steward, Raymond Lane and lady assistant steward, Helen Lane.

Meets Old Bag

San Antonio (AP) — Lawrence LaRose met his old friend again. "That old bag has really been around," he sighed. LaRose is civilian inspector in the clothing sales warehouse at Lackaland Air Force Base here. And the "old bag" was the duffel bag which he carried on an overseas tour with the Air Force in England and Germany between April, 1947, and March, 1950. He and his "old friend" were separated in 1950. Whether "she" had cavorted overseas again with new friends in the interim cannot be said. LaRose's full name and serial number are still visible on the bag.

Issues Own Ticket

Robinson, Ill. (AP) — A back-to-school traffic safety drive was put on with such zeal that the police chief got caught in it. Chief Norman Richards issued a ticket on himself and paid $7 for parking his police cruiser overtime.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 26 — Two years ago almost everyone was worried about World War 3. Newspapers told of the defense plans being made by the government; magazines printed gory descriptions of the probable destruction of American cities; while families were buying small "hide-away" farms or building bomb-proof cellars. Today we hear very little talk along these lines, except by those families who have boys in Korea. General sentiment now is that World War 3 will not come for 10 or 20 years —"so why worry!"

Strange to say, this "City of Brotherly Love" is one of the chief centers for producing war materials. This gives me an opportunity to get some inside information. Experts here tell me that the prospects for World War 3 during the next year or two are greater than ever. They claim that Russia is now putting us to sleep and may jump upon us at any time. It is hard to believe this because it seems to me that Russia would have attacked us during the past six months if she wanted to start World War 3. Experts, however, insist that Russia is waiting only to build up a greater supply of atomic bombs and supersonic airplanes; they are especially disturbed by the Russian-Chinese Conference now being held in Moscow.

Obviously, the present Korean situation cannot last indefinitely; one side or the other must quit. If we should quit, this would certainly result in bringing on more trouble somewhere else; while if the Chinese should quit, it could result in Russia losing all her Asiatic gains. Therefore, the fear is that Russia, through the Chinese, may issue an ultimatum to the United States giving us a certain time limit in which to get out of Korea,—"or else." This could cause a severe break in the stock market and in business. This ultimatum could come directly after elections in November, especially if Eisenhower should be elected.

What World War III Would Mean

Of course, Russia may suddenly adopt the "Pearl Harbor" program by dropping atomic bombs on one or more of our large cities without a prior ultimatum. Although we are building a marvelous radar system, yet experts tell me that some Russian planes could get through during the first 24 hours and kill millions of American people. In either case, Congress would immediately be called into session, and very stringent controls would be applied to all kinds of business. Profits would largely be taken away by 90% taxation; and in 30 days we would be living in a new world.

World War III would result in much further deflation of the dollar, its value perhaps falling to 25 cents. Hence, some people believe that the stock market—after the first big drop—would recover and go to greater heights than ever. So long as our country remains immune from damage, this might be true; but if some of our big cities were bombed and a few million Americans — including women and children—were killed, the stock exchanges would oe closed and panic would rein. Let no reader fool himself that in the next World War he will have an opportunity to "make money."

What Shall We Do?

The above does not mean we should get panicky today. It, nevertheless, does mean that we should not forget the possibility of World War III coming at any time. Even an ultimatum by Russia would give our markets a great scare, even though Russia might try this only as a bluff. If Russia should decide to strike, without notice, as did the Japanese, then World War III will have started in all its fury.

In view of the above, I appeal to readers to take time to figure out what they would be obliged to do and how they would be affected if World War III should soon come—no gasoline, standing lines for foods, and all our boys gone to war. Think back to what happened to you during World War II, and multiply those inconveniences by several times. Nixon Says They'll Keep This Dog

Here's "Checkers," the cocker spaniel given to Sen. Richard Nixon by Mrs. Louis L. Carrol of Belton, Tex., shown with the Nixon youngsters, Julie 4, and Patricia, 6. In his broadcast Sept. 23 Senator Nixon told of receiving this dog as a gift, and said "regardless of what they say about it, we're gonna keep it."

Todays hand was played in the semi-finals of this year's national team championship, held in Cincinnati a few weeks ago. At both tables the South player was a great expert, but only one of them found the right way to make the contract of three no-trump.

At the first table Mrs. Helen Sobel won the opening diamond lead with dummy's king and immediately tried a spade lead to the king. West took the ace of spades and led the nine of diamonds to South's jack.

Mrs. Sobel now tried another spade, losing to East's jack. East returned a diamond, and the defenders could not take three diamonds and three spades. The contract was thus set two tricks, for a penalty of 200 points.

At the other table, Sol Mogal, another well-known New York expert, played the South hand. He likewise won the opening lead with dummy's king of diamonds. But he then ran four rounds of clubs on the theory that this might embarrass the enemy but could not damage his own hand.

The idea was a very good one. Charles Goren, who held the West hand, had to find two discards on the clubs. No discards would have done him any good; he chose to part with the four of spades and then the nine of spades.

Mogal had won the fourth club in dummy and was therefore in position to lead a spade towards the king. This lost to West's ace, and a diamond came back to the jack.

Now, however, a second round of spades cleared the whole suit, and nothing could stop declarer from winning ten tricks.

The difference between making four no-trump and going down two tricks was 830 points. This was the biggest single swing hand in the match, which saw the elimination of the Goren team from the championship contest.

Class in Banking Slated Evenings At Local School

Educational classes for employes of the Savings and Loan Associations and also the local banks will begin Tuesday. The Capitol District Chapter, No. 131, Troy, of the American Savings and Loan Institute is sponsoring this feature.

Through the cooperation of the board of education and Hubert Hoderath, director of adult education in the public schools, these classes will be taught in the new Vocational building. Classes will be held each Tuesday evening from 7 until 9 o'clock, beginning next Tuesday.

The first course will be on teller training, which includes such topics as types of money, counterfeiting, receiving, handling and paying out currency and coin. Included in the course will be instruction to the teller as the institution's customer representative, head teller responsibilities and public relations.

Eyles Is Instructor

Irving Eyles, cashier of the Rondout National Bank, has been selected by the Capitol District Chapter as the teacher for this course of instruction. Eyles is very well qualified to teach this class. He was formerly with the Second National Bank of Red Bank, N. J., for 12 years, and then with the City National Bank of Hackensack, N. J., before coming to Kingston in 1948 as cashier of the Rondout National Bank. He has taken about seven years of study courses with the American Institute of Banking and a special banking course at Rutgers University, majoring in investments and banking.

Students are enrolled from the following institutions: Savings and Loan Association of Kingston; Homeseekers Savings and Loan Association; Ulster County Savings Institution; Kingston Trust Company; Catskill Savings and Loan Association and the Savings and Loan Association of Newburgh.

These courses are given to educate and train personnel in Savings and Loan Associations and financial institutions so that they will better fitted to take care of their customers in all phases of banking work.

Mothers Cause Ulcers

Winnipeg, Canada (AP) — Mother can and often does give her children ulcers—by remote control—although it may take 40 years. Dr. Edwin F. Peters, president of the Des Moines College of Osteopathy and Surgery, said during a recent medical convention here that about 76 per cent of stomach ulcers are the result of emotional disturbances. He said mothers impart more fears to their children than any other agency. They may do this through excessive "dont's" and by leaving the bedroom light on during the night. In later years, this may cause emotional conflicts which result in physical illness.

Wall Paneling Made Easy

New York (AP) — Plywood wall paneling is now placed within the budget of many home owners through development of a portable electronic device that "spot welds" panels in place within a few minutes. The device, called a woodwelder, consists of a portable generator and a three-pound hand applicator or "gun" that transmits radio-frequency energy at 40 million cycles per second.

SICK OF HOT BLASTS AND COLD DRAFTS?

Are you uncomfortable when you sit near a window in the winter? Do you have trouble placing furniture so it won't block heating outlets? Are the floors warm enough so your children can play on them without getting chilled?

You can beat heating troubles like these with the exciting new General Electric Air-Wall System. It's a low-cost warm air system that actually gives both radiant and warm air heat—2 kinds of heat in 1!

The unique G-E Air-Wall Register warms the outside walls so they radiate heat. That makes the room uniformly warm. No drafts—even near picture windows. And since the air is gently diffused—not shot out—you get no hot blasts—and furniture can be placed anywhere you like.

And here's an extra: G-E Air-Wall Systems are ideal for cooling! You can add G-E Summer Cooling at low cost whenever you like.

So if you're planning to buy or build a new home, be sure to ask about G-E Air-Wall Heating. Or if you want new economy and comfort in your present home, let us make a free comfort survey for you. We'll advise you on just what kind of G-E Automatic Heating will serve you best and save you most. Inquiries from builders invited.

KOREAN CASUALTIES TOP POPULATION OF BIG CITIES—Korean casualties, as reported up to Sept. 18, amount to more than the entire population of each of the cities shown on map above. Total casualties of 117,973 included 18,574 killed in action, 86,756 wounded, and 12,643 missing. Population figures, from World Almanac, are based on 1950 census.

MT. TREMPER

Mount Tremper, Sept. 25—The Mount Tremper Grange will hold a turkey supper on Thursday evening, September 25. Supper will be served in the Grange Hall from 6 p. m. on.

The village was saddened by the death of Mrs. Louise Jesuit, who died on September 18. Her funeral Monday was attended by numerous friends and relatives.

The Ladies' Sewing Circle of the Mount Tremper Dutch Reformed Church held elections at its recent meeting. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Maude Hoyt; vice-president, Mrs. Alida Lane; treasurer, Mrs. Ruth Every; secretary, Mrs. Neil Hedges.

Pvt. Robert Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Klein of the Brookside House was home on a weekend pass recently. He is attending Leadership School at Fort Dix.

Mrs. Etta Powell and her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Blee, are vacationing in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Lewis Riseley is a patient at Kingston Hospital where she is reported to be recovering from a recent operation.

Alice Dibbell who is now employed in Poughkeepsie, recently purchased a new car.

Mrs. Mary Chatfield, dental hygienist for the Onteora Central School, is reported to be recuperating from injuries sustained in an automobile accident during the summer.

Mrs. Barney Mellevold has returned from Port Washington, L. I., where she spent two weeks with her daughter and grandchildren.

At the meeting of Mount Tremper Grange No. 1468 Monday evening, Sept. 22, the following officers were elected: Master, Frank Carle; overseer, Carlton Hoyt; lecturer, Marian Umhey; steward, William Spanhake; chaplain, Mrs. M. Barringer; gatekeeper, August May; secretary, Doris May; Flora, Helene Umhey; Pomona, Mrs. William Spanhake; Ceres, Elsie May; assistant steward, Raymond Lane and lady assistant steward, Helen Lane.

Meets Old Bag

San Antonio (AP) — Lawrence LaRose met his old friend again. "That old bag has really been around," he sighed. LaRose is civilian inspector in the clothing sales warehouse at Lackaland Air Force Base here. And the "old bag" was the duffel bag which he carried on an overseas tour with the Air Force in England and Germany between April, 1947, and March, 1950. He and his "old friend" were separated in 1950. Whether "she" had cavorted overseas again with new friends in the interim cannot be said. LaRose's full name and serial number are still visible on the bag.

Issues Own Ticket

Robinson, Ill. (AP) — A back-to-school traffic safety drive was put on with such zeal that the police chief got caught in it. Chief Norman Richards issued a ticket on himself and paid $7 for parking his police cruiser overtime.

BABSON on BUSINESS

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 26 — Two years ago almost everyone was worried about World War 3. Newspapers told of the defense plans being made by the government; magazines printed gory descriptions of the probable destruction of American cities; while families were buying small "hide-away" farms or building bomb-proof cellars. Today we hear very little talk along these lines, except by those families who have boys in Korea. General sentiment now is that World War 3 will not come for 10 or 20 years —"so why worry!"

Strange to say, this "City of Brotherly Love" is one of the chief centers for producing war materials. This gives me an opportunity to get some inside information. Experts here tell me that the prospects for World War 3 during the next year or two are greater than ever. They claim that Russia is now putting us to sleep and may jump upon us at any time. It is hard to believe this because it seems to me that Russia would have attacked us during the past six months if she wanted to start World War 3. Experts, however, insist that Russia is waiting only to build up a greater supply of atomic bombs and supersonic airplanes; they are especially disturbed by the Russian-Chinese Conference now being held in Moscow.

Obviously, the present Korean situation cannot last indefinitely; one side or the other must quit. If we should quit, this would certainly result in bringing on more trouble somewhere else; while if the Chinese should quit, it could result in Russia losing all her Asiatic gains. Therefore, the fear is that Russia, through the Chinese, may issue an ultimatum to the United States giving us a certain time limit in which to get out of Korea,—"or else." This could cause a severe break in the stock market and in business. This ultimatum could come directly after elections in November, especially if Eisenhower should be elected.

What World War III Would Mean

Of course, Russia may suddenly adopt the "Pearl Harbor" program by dropping atomic bombs on one or more of our large cities without a prior ultimatum. Although we are building a marvelous radar system, yet experts tell me that some Russian planes could get through during the first 24 hours and kill millions of American people. In either case, Congress would immediately be called into session, and very stringent controls would be applied to all kinds of business. Profits would largely be taken away by 90% taxation; and in 30 days we would be living in a new world.

World War III would result in much further deflation of the dollar, its value perhaps falling to 25 cents. Hence, some people believe that the stock market—after the first big drop—would recover and go to greater heights than ever. So long as our country remains immune from damage, this might be true; but if some of our big cities were bombed and a few million Americans — including women and children—were killed, the stock exchanges would be closed and panic would rein. Let no reader fool himself that in the next World War he will have an opportunity to "make money."

What Shall We Do?

The above does not mean we should get panicky today. It, nevertheless, does mean that we should not forget the possibility of World War III coming at any time. Even an ultimatum by Russia would give our markets a great scare, even though Russia might try this only as a bluff. If Russia should decide to strike, without notice, as did the Japanese, then World-War III will have started in all its fury.

In view of the above, I appeal to readers to take time to figure out what they would be obliged to do and how they would be affected if World War III should soon come—no gasoline, standing lines for foods, and all our boys gone to war. Think back to what happened to you during World War II, and multiply those inconveniences by several times. If you now live in a large vulnerable city, get a small place in the country before it is too late.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Enrollment Nears All-Time Record At Paltz College

New Paltz, Sept. 25—The second highest enrollment in the history of State University Teachers College at New Paltz was reported Monday by Dr. George W. Angell, acting president.

This year's figure of 907 students lacks only seven of matching the record enrollment of 1950-51, and tops the registration of last year by more than 50 students. These figures do not include students in the extension program which will begin the first week of October.

The increase in enrollment is accounted for to a considerable degree by the large freshman class of 294, Dr. Angell pointed out.

Commenting on the near-record enrollment, he said, "It is indeed gratifying to know that in these times of low high school enrollments and high salaries in industry, larger numbers of excellently qualified young men and women are being attracted into the profession of teaching. This trend is one of the most encouraging signs of our times."

A breakdown of the total enrollment at New Paltz reveals that 41 students have selected the new specialized program in art education which is designed for students wishing to become art teachers or supervisors in the secondary and elementary schools of the state; 133 are studying early childhood education to prepare for teaching in nursery school and the primary grades. As usual the large majority (727) are registered in general elementary education which prepares them to teach any grade level from kindergarten through eighth grade.

Couples to Meet

New Paltz, Sept. 26 — The Couples Club of the Methodist Church will meet Sunday in the church parlor at 8 p. m. Mrs. Park S. Glenn will be in charge of the program including educational slides. Old members are requested to attend and new members are invited.

Area Driving Leaders To Meet on October 2

New Paltz, Sept. 25 — Driver education instructors of four counties—Ulster, Orange, Dutchess, Putnam—will meet at State University Teachers College, New Paltz, Thursday, Oct. 2.

The 7 p. m. dinner, served in the College Union Building, will be followed by short talks given by Anthony Torino, in charge of Driver Education in the State; Dr. John Thatcher, from the Bureau of Adult Education; and Allan Hanstein, Hanstein Insurance Agency, Kingston.

Possibilities of forming an association of Hudson Valley driver education instructors also will be discussed.

Public school administrators and other interested persons, as well as driver education teachers, are welcome to attend the meeting.

Dinner reservations must be made by Sept. 29 with Dr. Loren D. Campbell, director of Driver Education, State University Teachers College, New Paltz, who is in charge of the meeting.

Courses Planned For Extension in Five Area Towns

New Paltz, Sept. 25—College extension courses will be offered this fall by State University Teachers College at New Paltz at five centers in this vicinity including New Paltz, Kingston, Windham, Greenville and Hudson.

Registration will take place at the first meeting of the class. Persons who have not previously received course credit from New Paltz should contact the office of field relations in advance.

The following graduate courses will be given on the college campus in New Paltz and may be taken by advanced under-graduates:

Art Group Will Resume October 7

New Paltz, Sept. 26—The New Paltz Art Association will resume classes Tuesday, Oct. 7, at 7 p. m. in the art room on the main building at the local college.

James Scott of Milton will instruct in still life and landscapes. Arrangements for the portrait class will be discussed. Mr. Van Rennsalaer of Woodstock was instructor last year.

A minimum of 10 must be registered for the portrait class.

Miss Myra Geralds, president of the association, will answer questions for any prospective member. The classes are opened to adults interested in painting.

Home Bureau to Hold Meeting on October 2

New Paltz, Sept. 26—The home of Mrs. Jean P. Jeanneney will be the site of the monthly meeting of the New Paltz Home Bureau unit, Oct. 2 at 10:30 a. m. The first foods lesson will be given in the afternoon in Mrs. Jeanneney's big kitchen by Mrs. Charles Deyo, and in the afternoon, Mrs. Willard Hogan will direct a pre-election program.

Those who need transportation may go to the village library at 10:15 a. m. and those with cars will pick them up. Anyone who is interested in joining the Home Bureau is requested to attend, Mrs. Ralph Johnson, chairman, announced.

Dates will be given for a working meeting in flower arrangement, lessons in glove making and a demonstration of methods of growing and potting African violets. Mrs. Margaret LeFevre, vice-chairman, will receive dues.

Members are reminded to bring their own lunch and beverage, their newsletter containing recipes and two knives they use most in food preparation.

PFO Discusses Plans For Year's Projects

New Paltz, Sept. 26—A meeting of the executive committee of the Parent-Faculty Organization of the Campus elementary school was held last week. Mrs. Charles Langwick, chairman of the PFO, presided.

The first room meetings of the year will be held in early October. Plans for the Book Fair, Clothing Exchange and several all-school meetings were discussed.

Mrs. Robert Pyle, chairman of this year's Book Fair, and Mrs. Eugene Link, publicity chairman, reported on their activities and plans. Mrs. Link said that the first issue of the bulletin would be mailed after the first planning board meeting scheduled for Thursday night, Oct. 23.

Tea for Students

New Paltz, Sept. 26 — College students will be honored at a tea reception Sunday from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. by the WSCS. New students and former scholars are invited.

Rally Day Sunday

New Paltz, Sept. 26 — Sunday will be observed as Rally Day at the Methodist Church. Services will begin at 10:30 a. m., a half hour earlier than usual. The sacrament of baptism will be given.

About 10 million adults in the United States cannot read more than is expected of fourth grade children.

156th Inspection Scheduled Oct. 14

The annual inspection of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, National Guard, by the First Army will be held at the state armory on North Manor avenue October 14, it was announced today by Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkin, commanding officer.

The local commander said that the inspection, to which the public is invited, would include troops, administration, records, service and supply, equipment and maintenance, armory facilities and security. Lt. Col. John R. Shields of the First Army will head the inspector general's team.

Harkin pointed out that since the battalion had been granted federal recognition five years ago membership had increased steadily. There have been 23 re-enlistments in the three local batteries of the battalion and nine new enlistments since summer field training at Camp Drum, he said. The new enlistments are as follows: John F. Herrick, Frank R. Nardi, Leo Landerway, Jr., Charles O. Landi, Jerome B. Cashin, John C. Baker, John F. Decker and Kenneth R. Reynolds, all of Kingston, and Stanley J. Matthews of Hurley.

ROSENDALE

Rosendale, Sept. 26—It was announced at a recent meeting of the Rosendale Sportsmen's Association that future meetings will be held the first Friday of each month at the Tillson firehall, starting at 8 p. m. On Friday, Oct. 3, nomination and election of officers for the coming year will take place at the monthly meeting. Refreshments will be served following the business session. Vincent Steeley of Rosendale, president of the association, will preside.

Thirty members of the Tillson Volunteer Fire Company assembled in a body at the Moylan Funeral Home in Rosendale Tuesday night to pay last respects to Leonard Albert, a member of the fire company for many years, who died Monday. The ritual was read by Fred Palmatier, acting chaplain of the company.

An auction will be held at Conn's Garage in Tillson Saturday, Sept. 27, starting at 12 noon.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of trustees, district No. 2, town of Rosendale, Tillson, was held Tuesday night at the Tillson school. Following the regular business session, members of the board discussed the proposed new construction and addition to the school, and also possible location of temporary quarters for some of the school children during such proposed construction period. A spokesman for the board of trustees said the board had been recently notified by the district superintendent of schools that the over-crowded condition which exists now in the Tillson school must be remedied in the near future.

Mrs. Rudolf Borneman entertained at a luncheon Tuesday noon at her home. Those present included Mrs. Frank Rowe, Mrs. Albert Hoyt, Mrs. Walter Born, Mrs. H. E. Harvey, Mrs. Margaret, Taylor, Mrs. Peter Hoffman, Jr., Mrs. Russell Douglass and Mrs. R. Kilfoyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Deyo entertained at a dinner Monday night. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. George McEvoy, Mr. and Mrs. G. Donald McEvoy, Miss Marguerite McEvoy, Dimick Christiana and Miss Diane Deyo.

Summer Snowball Fight

Elizabeth, N. J. (AP)—Nineteen Boy Scouts are back home from summer camp but still talking about their snowball fight. The boys found the 18-inch-deep snow on a hike from their summer camp at the Philmont Scout Ranch in Cimarron, N. M. The scouts had difficulty in breathing the rarified atmosphere on the 12-mile ascent. Parents of the boys welcomed them home with a confetti shower and a brass band.

Zarubin More Affable

Washington, Sept. 26 (AP)—Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin, new Soviet envoy to the United States, lost no time in joining the Washington social whirl. A few hours after he presented his credentials to President Truman yesterday, Zarubin attended a party at the Norwegian embassy honoring Prime Minister Oscar Torp of Norway. Zarubin impressed other party-goers as a more affable diplomat than his predecessor, Alexander S. Panyushkin.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Enrollment Nears All-Time Record At Paltz College

New Paltz, Sept. 25—The second highest enrollment in the history of State University Teachers College at New Paltz was reported Monday by Dr. George W. Angell, acting president.

This year's figure of 907 students lacks only seven of matching the record enrollment of 1950-51, and tops the registration of last year by more than 50 students. These figures do not include students in the extension program which will begin the first week of October.

The increase in enrollment is accounted for to a considerable degree by the large freshman class of 294, Dr. Angell pointed out.

Commenting on the near-record enrollment, he said, "It is indeed gratifying to know that in these times of low high school enrollments and high salaries in industry, larger numbers of excellently qualified young men and women are being attracted into the profession of teaching. This trend is one of the most encouraging signs of our times."

A breakdown of the total enrollment at New Paltz reveals that 41 students have selected the new specialized program in art education which is designed for students wishing to become art teachers or supervisors in the secondary and elementary schools of the state; 133 are studying early childhood education to prepare for teaching in nursery school and the primary grades. As usual the large majority (727) are registered in general elementary education which prepares them to teach any grade level from kindergarten through eighth grade.

Couples to Meet

New Paltz, Sept. 26 — The Couples Club of the Methodist Church will meet Sunday in the church parlor at 8 p. m. Mrs. Park S. Glenn will be in charge of the program including educational slides. Old members are requested to attend and new members are invited.

Area Driving Leaders To Meet on October 2

New Paltz, Sept. 25 — Driver education instructors of four counties—Ulster, Orange, Dutchess, Putnam—will meet at State University Teachers College, New Paltz, Thursday, Oct. 2.

The 7 p. m. dinner, served in the College Union Building, will be followed by short talks given by Anthony Torino, in charge of Driver Education in the State; Dr. John Thatcher, from the Bureau of Adult Education; and Allan Hanstein, Hanstein Insurance Agency, Kingston.

Possibilities of forming an association of Hudson Valley driver education instructors also will be discussed.

Public school administrators and other interested persons, as well as driver education teachers, are welcome to attend the meeting.

Dinner reservations must be made by Sept. 29 with Dr. Loren D. Campbell, director of Driver Education, State University Teachers College, New Paltz, who is in charge of the meeting.

Courses Planned For Extension in Five Area Towns

New Paltz, Sept. 25—College extension courses will be offered this fall by State University Teachers College at New Paltz at five centers in this vicinity including New Paltz, Kingston, Windham, Greenville and Hudson.

Registration will take place at the first meeting of the class. Persons who have not previously received course credit from New Paltz should contact the office of field relations in advance.

The following graduate courses will be given on the college campus in New Paltz and may be taken by advanced under-graduates:

Art Group Will Resume October 7

New Paltz, Sept. 26—The New Paltz Art Association will resume classes Tuesday, Oct. 7, at 7 p. m. in the art room on the main building at the local college.

James Scott of Milton will instruct in still life and landscapes. Arrangements for the portrait class will be discussed. Mr. Van Rennsalaer of Woodstock was instructor last year.

A minimum of 10 must be registered for the portrait class.

Miss Myra Geralds, president of the association, will answer questions for any prospective member. The classes are opened to adults interested in painting.

Home Bureau to Hold Meeting on October 2

New Paltz, Sept. 26—The home of Mrs. Jean P. Jeanneney will be the site of the monthly meeting of the New Paltz Home Bureau unit, Oct. 2 at 10:30 a. m. The first foods lesson will be given in the afternoon in Mrs. Jeanneney's big kitchen by Mrs. Charles Deyo, and in the afternoon, Mrs. Willard Hogan will direct a pre-election program.

Those who need transportation may go to the village library at 10:15 a. m. and those with cars will pick them up. Anyone who is interested in joining the Home Bureau is requested to attend, Mrs. Ralph Johnson, chairman, announced.

Dates will be given for a working meeting in flower arrangement, lessons in glove making and a demonstration of methods of growing and potting African violets. Mrs. Margaret LeFevre, vice-chairman, will receive dues.

Members are reminded to bring their own lunch and beverage, their newsletter containing recipes and two knives they use most in food preparation.

PFO Discusses Plans For Year's Projects

New Paltz, Sept. 26—A meeting of the executive committee of the Parent-Faculty Organization of the Campus elementary school was held last week. Mrs. Charles Langwick, chairman of the PFO, presided.

The first room meetings of the year will be held in early October. Plans for the Book Fair, Clothing Exchange and several all-school meetings were discussed.

Mrs. Robert Pyle, chairman of this year's Book Fair, and Mrs. Eugene Link, publicity chairman, reported on their activities and plans. Mrs. Link said that the first issue of the bulletin would be mailed after the first planning board meeting scheduled for Thursday night, Oct. 23.

Tea for Students

New Paltz, Sept. 26 — College students will be honored at a tea reception Sunday from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m. by the WSCS. New students and former scholars are invited.

Rally Day Sunday

New Paltz, Sept. 26 — Sunday will be observed as Rally Day at the Methodist Church. Services will begin at 10:30 a. m., a half hour earlier than usual. The sacrament of baptism will be given.

About 10 million adults in the United States cannot read more than is expected of fourth grade children.

156th Inspection Scheduled Oct. 14

The annual inspection of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, National Guard, by the First Army will be held at the state armory on North Manor avenue October 14, it was announced today by Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkin, commanding officer.

The local commander said that the inspection, to which the public is invited, would include troops, administration, records, service and supply, equipment and maintenance, armory facilities and security. Lt. Col. John R. Shields of the First Army will head the inspector general's team.

Harkin pointed out that since the battalion had been granted federal recognition five years ago membership had increased steadily. There have been 23 re-enlistments in the three local batteries of the battalion and nine new enlistments since summer field training at Camp Drum, he said. The new enlistments are as follows: John F. Herrick, Frank R. Nardi, Leo Landerway, Jr., Charles O. Landi, Jerome B. Cashin, John C. Baker, John F. Decker and Kenneth R. Reynolds, all of Kingston, and Stanley J. Matthews of Hurley.

ROSENDALE

Rosendale, Sept. 26—It was announced at a recent meeting of the Rosendale Sportsmen's Association that future meetings will be held the first Friday of each month at the Tillson firehall, starting at 8 p. m. On Friday, Oct. 3, nomination and election of officers for the coming year will take place at the monthly meeting. Refreshments will be served following the business session. Vincent Steeley of Rosendale, president of the association, will preside.

Thirty members of the Tillson Volunteer Fire Company assembled in a body at the Moylan Funeral Home in Rosendale Tuesday night to pay last respects to Leonard Albert, a member of the fire company for many years, who died Monday. The ritual was read by Fred Palmatier, acting chaplain of the company.

An auction will be held at Conn's Garage in Tillson Saturday, Sept. 27, starting at 12 noon.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of trustees, district No. 2, town of Rosendale, Tillson, was held Tuesday night at the Tillson school. Following the regular business session, members of the board discussed the proposed new construction and addition to the school, and also possible location of temporary quarters for some of the school children during such proposed construction period. A spokesman for the board of trustees said the board had been recently notified by the district superintendent of schools that the over-crowded condition which exists now in the Tillson school must be remedied in the near future.

Mrs. Rudolf Borneman entertained at a luncheon Tuesday noon at her home. Those present included Mrs. Frank Rowe, Mrs. Albert Hoyt, Mrs. Walter Born, Mrs. H. E. Harvey, Mrs. Margaret, Taylor, Mrs. Peter Hoffman, Jr., Mrs. Russell Douglass and Mrs. R. Kilfoyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Deyo entertained at a dinner Monday night. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. George McEvoy, Mr. and Mrs. G. Donald McEvoy, Miss Marguerite McEvoy, Dimick Christiana and Miss Diane Deyo.

Ulster Garden Club Names Winners of Anniversary Contest

At a meeting of the Ulster Garden Club Tuesday afternoon in Woodstock at the home of Mrs. Searing Leaycraft, announcement was made of the results of competition for the beautification of gardens sponsored by the club and held during the summer in conjunction with the Tercentennial.

The winners were Mrs. John L. MacKinnon, 181 North Manor avenue, who received the first award of $25; Mrs. Arthur B. Ewig, 261 Pearl street, second award of $15; Mrs. Herman C. Hinck, RD 4, Third award of $10; and Mrs. Jeannette Young, 107 DeWitt street, fourth award of $5.

Entrants in the contest had submitted photographs of their gardens before improvements were made and the judges visited them at their best showing. Judges were Mrs. William Anderson and Herbert H. Cutler.

Flower Arrangements

An exhibition of flower arrangements was had during the meeting, with 11 members competing. Mrs. William Boyd of Woodstock received first prize for a table arrangement of pale pink asters, blue ageratum and white petunias. Adelaide Passante Becomes Bride of Charles Dasher Jr.

The marriage of Miss Adelaide Passante, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Passante, 43 Ponckhockie street, to Charles Dasher, Jr., son of Mrs. Charles Dasher, Sr., 51 Abruyn street, and the late Mr. Dasher, took place Sunday, Sept. 21, at 2 p. m. in St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor, performed the ceremony. A buffet dinner reception for 350 guests was held at the Yacht Club.

Traditional wedding selections were played by Theodore Riccobono, organist, who also accompanied the soloist, Martin Kelly.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin and lace, styled with basque bodice, long pointed sleeves, and a full skirt which terminated in a cathedral train. A band of pearlized orange blossoms secured her finger-tip veil of French illusion and matching lace.

Mrs. Stephen Stec of Poughkeepsie was her cousin's matron-of-honor. She was attired in a strapless gown of honey-colored nylon tulle fashioned with a pleated tulle guimpe, and a bouffant floor length skirt having a pleated godet. A scroll-type headpiece of matching flowers completed her ensemble.

The bridesmaids were the Misses Lorraine Passante, sister of the bride; Joan Dasher, sister of the bridegroom; and Jean Lewis and Roselyn Sisco, cousins of the bride. They wore nylon net gowns made with molded bodices and full floor length skirts, capelets of matching net and picture hats, in colors of blue, orchid, aqua and maize, respectively.

Edward Dasher was his brother's best man. The ushers were Bernard Fowler, the bridegroom's brother-in-law; Eugene Sellie and Stephen Stec, cousins of the bride; and Louis Brooks.

The couple left for a wedding trip. They will reside at 49 Gill street. For traveling, the bride wore a maroon colored suit, navy blue accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Dasher attended Kingston High School. Mr. Dasher also attended Kingston High School and is employed by the Ulster county highway department.

An unusual sandwich filling is made by mixing pimiento cream cheese with finely chopped shrimp and adding a dash of chili sauce and a little lemon juice.

THOUGHTLESS GUEST

A letter this morning explains: "At a luncheon last week the hostess served a very delicious homemade cake with a special frosting (A recipe for which she is noted). One of the women present scraped all the frosting from the top of the cake before eating it. We were horrified at her behavior and thought her very rude. When I related this incident to a friend, she said she saw nothing wrong with this. Will you please give me your opinion of such behavior?"

Since it is quite possible that the rich icing was forbidden by her diet, her not eating it could not be criticized; but her manner of scraping the icing off was perhaps inconsiderate of the feeling of her hostess. She would better have eaten the center of the cake with her fork and left the icing.

Golden Wedding Cake

Dear Mrs. Post: My parents will soon celebrate their golden wedding anniversary and plan on having a fairly large reception. Would it be proper to have a wedding cake at this reception and if so, do my mother and father cut the first slice the same as they did at their wedding reception fifty years ago, and how is the rest of the cake taken care of?

Answer: They do cut the first slice and divide it. The rest of the cake is then cut by someone else into slices and served to the guests.

Addressing the Minister

Dear Mrs. Post: I am expecting a visit from the minister of my church shortly and would like to know the proper term of address to use when speaking to him. I have heard some members call him Mr. Brown and others call him Reverend Brown. Will you please tell me which is correct?

Answer: "Mr. Brown" is more often approved, but "Reverend" is customary in many communities.

Son Gives Her Away

Dear Mrs. Post: After twelve years of widowhood, my sister will be married again sometime next month. We would like to know if it would be proper for her sixteen-year-old son to give her away?

Answer: Yes—entirely so!

Reception Honors Couple Celebrating Golden Wedding Day

The Rev. and Mrs. David C. Weidner of 320 Main street were tendered a reception at the Bloomington Reformed Church Friday night, Sept. 19, in honor of their 50th wedding anniversary.

A program was presented by members of the church, of which the Rev. Mr. Weidner was pastor for more than eight years. The present pastor, the Rev. Joseph E. Carlin, was master of ceremonies.

Following the invocation by the Rev. John B. Steketee, stated clerk of the Classis of Ulster, Mrs. Martin Jordan sang, Happy Anniversary, and two selections were sung by the St. Remy choir. An original poem for the occasion was read by its author, Mrs. Elsie Ingram. The consistory of the church, wearing high hats or derbies, sang, When You and I Were Young, and Silver Threads Among the Gold.

A purse of money was presented the Weidners by Miss Florence N. Relyea, church treasurer; and another presentation was made by Fred Sauer on behalf of the Bloomington Fire Company, of which the Rev. Mr. Weidner was chaplain.

Mrs. Weidner is the former Miss Meta A. Roes of Brooklyn. They were married Sept. 17, 1902, in Brooklyn, and served congregations in Hagaman, Schuylerville, Park Church in Jersey City, Glen Rock, N. J., Rochelle Park, N. J., and New Hyde Park. They came to Ulster county to retire, but Mr. Weidner accepted a call to the Bloomington Reformed Church, where he remained eight and one-half years, also serving the St. Remy parish.

The Weidners were presented with a television set for their anniversary from their children, Mrs. Henry Snyder of Flemington, N. J.; Schuyler Weidner of Hurley; Mrs. Roland Ratitz of Lachine, Canada, and Harold Weidner of New Hyde Park.

Are We Keeping Faith Is Topic for GOP Women's Governor Clinton Meeting, Sept. 29

Chaplain (Brigadier General) Henry Darlington, DD, president of the Military Chaplains Association of the United States will be the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club to be held at 8 p. m., Monday, in the Governor Clinton Hotel. His topic will be Are We Keeping Faith, the Spiritual Challenge to America Today.

The public is invited to hear this distinguished speaker, who for 28 years was rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest in New York city, and who retired in 1950 to care for personal affairs, patriotic and military responsibilities.

Chaplain Darlington was chaplain general of Military Orders of Foreign Wars of the U. S., chaplain of New York Chapter of Military Order of World Wars, of which order General Douglas MacArthur served as commanding general. He is chaplain of Empire Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, and grand chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Masons of New York.

A New Edwardian Look for Men Is Predicted, Males Take Step Timidly, Women Hail Change

AP Women's Editor

The men, bless 'em, are taking a timid step toward a "new look."

It's called the Edwardian look, and it consists of a fitted, high-buttoned coat with cuffs on the sleeves and no cuffs on the trousers. More daring Brummells do it up brown with a brocaded waistcoat.

Bound to Come

This thing, of course, was bound to come, after the so-called casual look reached such proportions right after World War II that you couldn't tell whether a man was wearing a business suit or his pajamas.

Men have been edging cautiously toward a slightly less rumpled mode of dress for the last two years, since tailors started taking some of the padding out of shoulders and modifying lapels so that they didn't look like a flying jib.

In for Rough Going

But any move to change men's habits of dressing is in for rough going before the boys can be persuaded to try something different. Witness a survey just completed by the National Association of Retail Clothers and Furnishers. A poll of the association's more than 2,000 store members revealed that 70 per cent felt that American men would have no truck with the Edwardian look. Others thought the trend would not develop until "sometime in the distant future."

Be that as it may, the Daily News Record reports this week that Edwardian-style men's suits "with narrow lapels, cuffs on the sleeves, collared vest and narrow trousers" are being made in Belfast, Ireland, for export to the United States, and F. Eugene Ackerman, director of the wool bureau, says:

"The high buttoned look seems to be edging toward a national fashion."

Ackerman, a genial gent whose business is to keep two jumps ahead of clothing trends, says you can see Edwardian suits on college campuses from Princeton to Wisconsin this year, and by next year you'll be seeing it generally over the country.

Pop Has to Spruce Up

So it looks as if pop is doing to have to spruce up soon, and stop looking like head man at a hobo convention. It may be a wrench to part with those low-necked shirts with collars reaching to the solar plexus and those ties wired for sound. The drooping slacks and baggy sports coat will have to go back to their rightful place in the country.

The one-and-two-button suits, which have lapels reaching below the belt buckle, must give way to a neater look, though it will be a heavy blow to most male TV stars. The sports shirts which looked like surrealist nightmares will have to go back to scaring crows.

The Edwardian suit has four or five buttons, natural shoulders, narrow sleeves and trousers, narrow, high lapels and generally a spruce, slightly military air.

Started in London

It started in London, where it's already great stuff around Bond street. The American version is called the "natural drape" or the "Ivy League" look, and consists basically of less padding and narrower lines.

Thus far the experts are divided in their predictions of how far the trend will go. Some call it "freakish, foolish and fantastic" and others maintain it has to come, unless American men want to continue looking like unmade beds.

Any Change Better

Women, of course, hail the new style with enthusiasm, working on the theory that any change in the way men dress must be for the better.

A collection of blankets from all parts of the world was owned by Floyd Gibbons.

THOUGHTLESS GUEST

A letter this morning explains: "At a luncheon last week the hostess served a very delicious homemade cake with a special frosting (A recipe for which she is noted). One of the women present scraped all the frosting from the top of the cake before eating it. We were horrified at her behavior and thought her very rude. When I related this incident to a friend, she said she saw nothing wrong with this. Will you please give me your opinion of such behavior?"

Since it is quite possible that the rich icing was forbidden by her diet, her not eating it could not be criticized; but her manner of scraping the icing off was perhaps inconsiderate of the feeling of her hostess. She would better have eaten the center of the cake with her fork and left the icing.

A New Edwardian Look for Men Is Predicted, Males Take Step Timidly, Women Hail Change

AP Women's Editor

The men, bless 'em, are taking a timid step toward a "new look."

It's called the Edwardian look, and it consists of a fitted, high-buttoned coat with cuffs on the sleeves and no cuffs on the trousers. More daring Brummells do it up brown with a brocaded waistcoat.

Bound to Come

This thing, of course, was bound to come, after the so-called casual look reached such proportions right after World War II that you couldn't tell whether a man was wearing a business suit or his pajamas.

Men have been edging cautiously toward a slightly less rumpled mode of dress for the last two years, since tailors started taking some of the padding out of shoulders and modifying lapels so that they didn't look like a flying jib.

In for Rough Going

But any move to change men's habits of dressing is in for rough going before the boys can be persuaded to try something different. Witness a survey just completed by the National Association of Retail Clothers and Furnishers. A poll of the association's more than 2,000 store members revealed that 70 per cent felt that American men would have no truck with the Edwardian look. Others thought the trend would not develop until "sometime in the distant future."

Be that as it may, the Daily News Record reports this week that Edwardian-style men's suits "with narrow lapels, cuffs on the sleeves, collared vest and narrow trousers" are being made in Belfast, Ireland, for export to the United States, and F. Eugene Ackerman, director of the wool bureau, says:

"The high buttoned look seems to be edging toward a national fashion."

Ackerman, a genial gent whose business is to keep two jumps ahead of clothing trends, says you can see Edwardian suits on college campuses from Princeton to Wisconsin this year, and by next year you'll be seeing it generally over the country.

Pop Has to Spruce Up

So it looks as if pop is doing to have to spruce up soon, and stop looking like head man at a hobo convention. It may be a wrench to part with those low-necked shirts with collars reaching to the solar plexus and those ties wired for sound. The drooping slacks and baggy sports coat will have to go back to their rightful place in the country.

The one-and-two-button suits, which have lapels reaching below the belt buckle, must give way to a neater look, though it will be a heavy blow to most male TV stars. The sports shirts which looked like surrealist nightmares will have to go back to scaring crows.

The Edwardian suit has four or five buttons, natural shoulders, narrow sleeves and trousers, narrow, high lapels and generally a spruce, slightly military air.

Started in London

It started in London, where it's already great stuff around Bond street. The American version is called the "natural drape" or the "Ivy League" look, and consists basically of less padding and narrower lines.

Thus far the experts are divided in their predictions of how far the trend will go. Some call it "freakish, foolish and fantastic" and others maintain it has to come, unless American men want to continue looking like unmade beds.

Any Change Better

Women, of course, hail the new style with enthusiasm, working on the theory that any change in the way men dress must be for the better.

A collection of blankets from all parts of the world was owned by Floyd Gibbons.

Farinas, Alex Gerlak, Stuhler and Coughlin in Wiltwyck Pro-Am

Northeastern PGA Stars Due Sunday

Twenty topflight golf professionals, including defending champion Jack Coughlin of Liberty, already have signed for the annual Wiltwyck Golf Club Pro-Am on Sunday, Pro Tom Danaher said today.

Danaher predicted the entry list would exceed the total of 26 for the 1951 meet which Coughlin won with a sparkling 69.

The Wiltwyck meet is the final scheduled event on the Northeastern PGA slate this season.

Three topnotch amateurs—Sig Makofski of Schenectady, Big Hank Kowal of Poughkeepsie and Red Hook's H. Law Weatherwax, former Yale intercollegiate champion, will be in the field.

Gerlak to Play

Big "name" pros include, of course, Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill who will have city champion Alvin Boice and George Hughes as his partners.

The Farina brothers of Schenectady—Jim, the 1952 Northeastern PGA kingpin and Armand, this year's Woodstock Open champion—will post a strong threat to the rest of the field. Armand is a several-time winner at Wiltwyck.

Long-hitting Frank Stuhler of Bennington, Vt., the New England Open champion who was nosed out by Farina in a sensational finish at Woodstock, also will be in the field along with Charlie DeStefano of College Hill and Tom McNamara of Dutchess Country Club.

DeStefano, McNamara and Big John Gaucas, Northeastern PGA secretary, will play their matches on Saturday.

Kay Expected

Danaher said he expected to receive entries from Dick Stennard of Gloversville, Steve Kay of Sharon Springs, one of the longest hitters in area golf and other topnotchers who annually make the trek to Kingston.

Jim Hutchins of the Woodstock Country Club has filed his entry. Others scheduled to see action are Joe Sondey of Red Hook; Larry Ostrander, a newcomer from Bethlehem, N. H.; Mike Grandi, Southern Dutchess at Beacon; Ken MacLeod and Harry Vinall of the IBM Country Club staff; Alex McIntyre of Catskill.

Scotty Robertson makes his perennial bid in the company of Lou Padullo of the Grand Hotel of Highmount; Walter Thiel of the Nevele Country Club, Ellenville; Dick Danaher of Sharon, Conn.; Branny Banulis of Newburgh and Paul Madiri of Berlin, N. J.

Bill Van Aken, Wiltwyck Club champion, will be paired with Ken MacLeod of IBM.

Competition will be in four classes, pro, amateur, pro-amateur and pro-member. The shooting is expected to start around 9 o'clock in the morning.

Tom Danaher has appealed to all youngsters with caddying experience to report to Wiltwyck early Sunday morning.

Immanuel Alleys Open to Public

The re-opening of the Immanuel bowling alleys, located in the Livingston street church, has been announced.

The alleys, first opened in 1925 and for many years scene of the City Bowling League, will be available to the public every night except Wednesday and Sunday. The alleys are reported in top shape for the formal opening on Monday, Sept. 29, at 7 p. m.

Troy-Sandy Bout At St. Nick's Arena

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—A pair of unbeaten middleweights—Willie Troy of Washington and Randy Sandy of New York—meet in the feature bout of 10 rounds tonight at St. Nicholas Arena.

With Madison Square Garden playing host to the rodeo, the International Boxing Club moved its scene of operations to the smaller club where it will get the regular radio and television treatment. The main event is scheduled to start at 9 p. m. (EST). ABC radio and NBC TV will handle it.

Yankees Need Win Tonight for 4th Straight Flag

A BIG WIN FOR THE BIG CHIEF

Allie Reynolds, New York Yankees hefty part-Indian righthander, doesn't mind getting a playful scalping from catcher Yogi Berra after hurling his 20th victory, a 3-2 win over the Boston Red Sox in Boston that gave the Yanks at least a tie for the American League pennant. Reynolds batted in the winning run, too, with a tie-breaking ninth inning single. (AP Wirephoto).

Casey Moans 'We Can Still Lose It' But Nobody Seems to Be Listenin'

Philadelphia, Sept. 26 (AP)—The New York Yankees were within a whisper of winning their fourth successive American League pennant today but Manager Casey Stengel refused to admit his world champions were in.

"We still got to win another game," the cagy, old pilot declared "and the last one might prove to be the toughest of all. No, I won't say we're in until those other guys (Cleveland) are mathematically eliminated."

Reminded the Yankees needed to win only one of their final three games with the Philadelphia Athletics to clinch the flag, Casey retorted.

"We haven't won it yet, have we and don't forget, Jimmy Dykes (Philadelphia manager) is going to shoot the works against us. I hear he's mad at me, too. They tell me he's going to throw that young phenom of his, Harry Byrd, against us tonight and Sunday. Yep, those A's are going to be rough as long as they have a chance to finish third."

Stengel has no faith in the tailend Detroit Tigers, who could assure the Yankees the flag by knocking off the Indians in one of their two remaining games with Cleveland.

"I can't depend on them," he said. "We got to do it ourselves. And I won't feel easy until we win one. I can't afford to let up one bit. I'm going with my best pitchers — Eddie Lopat tonight, Vic Raschi tomorrow night and Allie Reynolds Sunday.

"You know, we can still lose it. All we have to do is drop the next four—three to Philadelphia and one to Cleveland in playoff. It can happen, you know."

Westbury Winner Sets Own Record

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—Royal King, four-year-old bay horse owned by M. E. and D. E. Hall of Harrisburg, Pa., won the feature Peekskill $3,000 mile pace last night at Roosevelt Raceway with a rousing stretch finish. Skillfully driven by Jimmy Jordan, Royal King, last for three-quarters, was clocked in 2:05.2, a new record for the horse.

Royal King came on fast from the outside entering the stretch and beat Moore Volo by a length. Third went to Mollie Direct. Royal King paid $19.90, $8.40 and $4.10.

Reynolds Pitches And Bats Leaders To Win Over Bosox

Singles in Ninth In 3-2 Victory

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

This may be flag day for the New York Yankees.

A victory over the Athletics at Philadelphia tonight will give Casey Stengel's men their fourth straight American League pennant—a feat in major league history accomplished only by Joe McCarthy's 1936-39 Yanks and John McGraw's National League Giants of the roaring twenties.

To wrap up the pennant and earn the right to meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series opening next Wednesday at Ebbets Field, Stengel will send southpaw Eddie Lopat against young Harry Byrd of the A's.

Lopat, back in the groove after suffering back miseries during the summer, has won his last five starts for a 10-5 record. Byrd, beaten 1-0 by the Yanks last Sunday, carries a 15-14 mark into the game.

There is nothing the runner-up Cleveland Indians can do about the situation today. They are idle until tomorrow, when they open a two-game final series in Detroit.

Trailing by 2½ games the Tribe can only hope for a complete collapse by the champions and two triumphs by themselves over the Tigers. Such an outcome would throw the race in a tie and force a one-game playoff in Cleveland Monday.

Allie Wins Own Game

Allie Reynolds, the strong-armed right hander, assured the Yankees of a tie yesterday as he joined with Hal Newhouser, Detroit veteran moundsman, in producing the outstanding performances of the day.

Reynolds' 3-2 conquest of the Boston Red Sox climaxed a great day for Allie, who a year ago this week pitched a no-hitter against the same Red Sox to clinch the Yanks' 1951 championship. His pitching was not of that variety yesterday but he drove in the winning run with a ninth-inning single to rack up his 20th win of the season. He yielded eight hits, walked three and fanned eight to increase his league leading strikeout total to 161.

For Newhouser, in the twilight of his 14-year career, the 3-2 triumph over the St. Louis Browns was No. 200 of his major league career and placed him in a select group with 54 other pitchers.

Reynolds had to achieve his 20th win the hard way for the first time since coming into the majors in 1943. Home runs by Hoot Evers in the second and by Ted Lepcio in the fourth got the Sox off to a 2-0 lead.

After wasting two hits in the second and another in the third, the champions finally broke through for a tally in the fifth on Gil McDougald's 14th round tripper of the season. Mickey Mantle's triple and Joe Collins' Texas League double produced the tying run in the sixth.

Walk Starts It

That was the way it remained until the ninth when Irv Noren drew a walk from Sid Hudson. He moved around to third on McDougald's sacrifice and Billy Martin's fly. Reynolds decided things had gone far enough, slamming a single over shortstop Johnny Lipon's head to send Noren home with the winning tally.

Only 569 fans—smallest crowd in Briggs Stadium's history—saw the 31-year old Newhouser strike out eight, walk only one and pitch out of two bad spots in joining the comparatively small group of pitchers who have won 200 games. Only two other active pitchers—Bob Feller and Bobo Newsom—are in the group.

The only day game in the National League saw the New York Giants clinch second place with a two-run ninth inning rally that brought a 3-2 victory over the Boston Braves.

In a night game the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds 4-3. Billy Johnson's double and Solly Hemus' single in the ninth accounted for the winning tally.

Dudyk-Davenport Cop Two-Ball Play

Mrs. John Dudyk and Maurice Davenport teamed for a net 63 to capture the two-balled mixed foursome play this week at Wiltwyck Golf Club.

Sixteen teams competed in the highly successful affair which was followed by a supper and auction for the benefit of the golf fund.

Mrs. Dudyk and her partner carded a gross 87 for the best actual score and had a 24-handicap pull for their 63. They were out in 43 and back in 44.

Second place went to the tandem of Mrs. J. Watson Bailey and Dr. George Rifenbary with 46-41-87-22-65. Mrs. George Rifenbary and Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr. posted 46-44-90-21-69, while Mrs. James Winters and Bob Cullum fired 46-50-96-25-71.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting: Allie Reynolds, Yankees—his ninth inning single scored Irv Noren with the run that defeated the Red Sox 3-2.

Pitching: Hal Newhouser, Tigers—pitched his 200th major league victory as he scattered six hits for a 3-2 victory over the Browns.

Nuclear Fission and Fusion Spell Eight Upsets to Major Hoople

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
The Big Upset Man

Egad! Mark the date well, Saturday, Sept. 27, as a red letter day de luxe on the Hoople calendar of football prognostications.

On that day, zillions of gentle readers, your correspondent selects for you no fewer than eight of what we call in gridiron jargon "juicy upsets!"

Yes, eight, count them, and here they are: Michigan to beat Michigan State, Minnesota to beat Washington, Yale over Navy, North Carolina over Texas, Kentucky over Mississippi, Tulane and Georgia to tie, Alabama to beat LSU and Washington State to defeat Stanford!

In selecting these amazing results, I have had recourse to two scientific systems, that of nuclear fission and that of nuclear fusion. In one, the nucleus is split—in the other two nuclei are fused. I fear you laymen will not understand this, so I am not going to enlarge upon it.

I am divulging my method only to indicate to my loyal fans (and to a few disgruntled, crabby, poor-sport critics) that I am thoroughly "hep" to the new trends. Also to demonstrate that this is not luck, but science.

Now go ahead with the forecast and if you think it wrong, try to beat it!

The "Walking" Man

But much as Eddie likes to "walk", Eddie loves driving a car. He takes mighty good care of his car, too, and when it comes to wintertime protection, Eddie chooses America's most famous anti-freeze, "Prestone" anti-freeze. "You don't have to worry with it," says Eddie. "Just put it in and you're all set for the cold weather—and even the warm spells in between." No other anti-freeze gives your car the same complete protection. No rust, no freeze, no foam, no failure. And one shot of "Prestone" brand anti-freeze lasts all winter! Get it today!

Pro Doubles Champs

London, Sept. 26 (AP)—Pancho Gonzales and Pancho Segura won the doubles title of the Indoor Professional Tennis tournament yesterday by defeating Jack Kramer and Don Budge, 6-4, 6-1, 2-6, 6-2.

Waterville, Me.—Doc Blanchard, 132, Cambridge, Mass., outpointed Paul Martin, 134, Lewiston, Me. 8.

Casey Moans 'We Can Still Lose It' But Nobody Seems to Be Listenin'

Philadelphia, Sept. 26 (AP)—The New York Yankees were within a whisper of winning their fourth successive American League pennant today but Manager Casey Stengel refused to admit his world champions were in.

"We still got to win another game," the cagy, old pilot declared "and the last one might prove to be the toughest of all. No, I won't say we're in until those other guys (Cleveland) are mathematically eliminated."

Reminded the Yankees needed to win only one of their final three games with the Philadelphia Athletics to clinch the flag, Casey retorted.

"We haven't won it yet, have we and don't forget, Jimmy Dykes (Philadelphia manager) is going to shoot the works against us. I hear he's mad at me, too. They tell me he's going to throw that young phenom of his, Harry Byrd, against us tonight and Sunday. Yep, those A's are going to be rough as long as they have a chance to finish third."

Stengel has no faith in the tail-end Detroit Tigers, who could assure the Yankees the flag by knocking off the Indians in one of their two remaining games with Cleveland.

"I can't depend on them," he said. "We got to do it ourselves. And I won't feel easy until we win one. I can't afford to let up one bit. I'm going with my best pitchers — Eddie Lopat tonight, Vic Raschi tomorrow night and Allie Reynolds Sunday.

"You know, we can still lose it. All we have to do is drop the next four—three to Philadelphia and one to Cleveland in playoff. It can happen, you know."

Westbury Winner Sets Own Record

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—Royal King, four-year-old bay horse owned by M. E. and D. E. Hall of Harrisburg, Pa., won the feature Peekskill $3,000 mile pace last night at Roosevelt Raceway with a rousing stretch finish. Skillfully driven by Jimmy Jordan, Royal King, last for three-quarters, was clocked in 2:05.2, a new record for the horse.

Royal King came on fast from the outside entering the stretch and beat Moore Volo by a length. Third went to Mollie Direct. Royal King paid $19.90, $8.40 and $4.10.

Reynolds Pitches And Bats Leaders To Win Over Bosox

Singles in Ninth In 3-2 Victory

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

This may be flag day for the New York Yankees.

A victory over the Athletics at Philadelphia tonight will give Casey Stengel's men their fourth straight American League pennant—a feat in major league history accomplished only by Joe McCarthy's 1936-39 Yanks and John McGraw's National League Giants of the roaring twenties.

To wrap up the pennant and earn the right to meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in the World Series opening next Wednesday at Ebbets Field, Stengel will send southpaw Eddie Lopat against young Harry Byrd of the A's.

Lopat, back in the groove after suffering back miseries during the summer, has won his last five starts for a 10-5 record. Byrd, beaten 1-0 by the Yanks last Sunday, carries a 15-14 mark into the game.

There is nothing the runner-up Cleveland Indians can do about the situation today. They are idle until tomorrow, when they open a two-game final series in Detroit.

Trailing by 2½ games the Tribe can only hope for a complete collapse by the champions and two triumphs by themselves over the Tigers. Such an outcome would throw the race in a tie and force a one-game playoff in Cleveland Monday.

Allie Wins Own Game

Allie Reynolds, the strong-armed right hander, assured the Yankees of a tie yesterday as he joined with Hal Newhouser, Detroit veteran moundsman, in producing the outstanding performances of the day.

Reynolds' 3-2 conquest of the Boston Red Sox climaxed a great day for Allie, who a year ago this week pitched a no-hitter against the same Red Sox to clinch the Yanks' 1951 championship. His pitching was not of that variety yesterday but he drove in the winning run with a ninth-inning single to rack up his 20th win of the season. He yielded eight hits, walked three and fanned eight to increase his league leading strikeout total to 161.

For Newhouser, in the twilight of his 14-year career, the 3-2 triumph over the St. Louis Browns was No. 200 of his major league career and placed him in a select group with 54 other pitchers.

Reynolds had to achieve his 20th win the hard way for the first time since coming into the majors in 1943. Home runs by Hoot Evers in the second and by Ted Lepcio in the fourth got the Sox off to a 2-0 lead.

After wasting two hits in the second and another in the third, the champions finally broke through for a tally in the fifth on Gil McDougald's 14th round tripper of the season. Mickey Mantle's triple and Joe Collins' Texas League double produced the tying run in the sixth.

Walk Starts It

That was the way it remained until the ninth when Irv Noren drew a walk from Sid Hudson. He moved around to third on McDougald's sacrifice and Billy Martin's fly. Reynolds decided things had gone far enough, slamming a single over shortstop Johnny Lipon's head to send Noren home with the winning tally.

Only 569 fans—smallest crowd in Briggs Stadium's history—saw the 31-year old Newhouser strike out eight, walk only one and pitch out of two bad spots in joining the comparatively small group of pitchers who have won 200 games. Only two other active pitchers—Bob Feller and Bobo Newsom—are in the group.

The only day game in the National League saw the New York Giants clinch second place with a two-run ninth inning rally that brought a 3-2 victory over the Boston Braves.

In a night game the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cincinnati Reds 4-3. Billy Johnson's double and Solly Hemus' single in the ninth accounted for the winning tally.

Dudyk-Davenport Cop Two-Ball Play

Mrs. John Dudyk and Maurice Davenport teamed for a net 63 to capture the two-balled mixed foursome play this week at Wiltwyck Golf Club.

Sixteen teams competed in the highly successful affair which was followed by a supper and auction for the benefit of the golf fund.

Mrs. Dudyk and her partner carded a gross 87 for the best actual score and had a 24-handicap pull for their 63. They were out in 43 and back in 44.

Second place went to the tandem of Mrs. J. Watson Bailey and Dr. George Rifenbary with 46-41-87-22-65. Mrs. George Rifenbary and Dr. Fred Holcomb Jr. posted 46-44-90-21-69, while Mrs. James Winters and Bob Cullum fired 46-50-96-25-71.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting: Allie Reynolds, Yankees—his ninth inning single scored Irv Noren with the run that defeated the Red Sox 3-2.

Pitching: Hal Newhouser, Tigers—pitched his 200th major league victory as he scattered six hits for a 3-2 victory over the Browns.

Nuclear Fission and Fusion Spell Eight Upsets to Major Hoople

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
The Big Upset Man

Egad! Mark the date well, Saturday, Sept. 27, as a red letter day de luxe on the Hoople calendar of football prognostications.

On that day, zillions of gentle readers, your correspondent selects for you no fewer than eight of what we call in gridiron jargon "juicy upsets!"

Yes, eight, count them, and here they are: Michigan to beat Michigan State, Minnesota to beat Washington, Yale over Navy, North Carolina over Texas, Kentucky over Mississippi, Tulane and Georgia to tie, Alabama to beat LSU and Washington State to defeat Stanford!

In selecting these amazing results, I have had recourse to two scientific systems, that of nuclear fission and that of nuclear fusion. In one, the nucleus is split—in the other two nuclei are fused. I fear you laymen will not understand this, so I am not going to enlarge upon it.

I am divulging my method only to indicate to my loyal fans (and to a few disgruntled, crabby, poor-sport critics) that I am thoroughly "hep" to the new trends. Also to demonstrate that this is not luck, but science.

Now go ahead with the forecast and if you think it wrong, try to beat it!

The "Walking" Man

Eddie Stanky has been with five National League clubs — but not with his home town team, Philadelphia. Eddie holds the N. L. record for walks — 148 in 1945.

But much as Eddie likes to "walk", Eddie loves driving a car. He takes mighty good care of his car, too, and when it comes to wintertime protection, Eddie chooses America's most famous anti-freeze, "Prestone" anti-freeze. "You don't have to worry with it," says Eddie. "Just put it in and you're all set for the cold weather —and even the warm spells in between." No other anti-freeze gives your car the same complete protection. No rust, no freeze, no foam, no failure. And one shot of "Prestone" brand anti-freeze lasts all winter! Get it today!

KWBA Will Fete Mrs. Bev Port

The Kingston Woman's Bowling Association will honor Mrs. Beverly Port wth a testimonial dinner at the Hotel Stuyvesant on Thursday, Oct. 2.

The affair, which will have a fiesta theme, is in recognition of Mrs. Port's bowling the second highest single, 288, in New York state during the 1951-52 season. The medal presentation will be attended by Mrs. Iola Lasher, New York State Women's Bowling Association president, and Mrs. Ruth Hunzinger, the state secretary.

Past presidents of the KWBA will be awarded pins in appreciation of their service and contribution to bowling since the inception of the KWBA.

All members of the KWBA are asked to attend. Ticket reservations can be made with Mrs. Reta Frederick, Mrs. Dorothea Flemings, Mrs. Dot Rawding, Elizabeth Schoonmaker, KWBA president; and Mrs. Helen Mollenhauer, secretary. Reservations must be made by Monday, Sept. 29.

Burke Sees Air Filled With Aerials

Kingston High expects to run into an aerial blitz at Highland Saturday, Coach Bill Burke hinted today.

"We're not letting that Highland drubbing at Suffern fool us," said the Maroon mentor on the eve of the annual contest with always rugged and tough Highland.

"Highland has two brilliant ends in Gus Roumelus and Wildrick and they completed the first five passes they tried against Suffern." This fellow Burdash is a topnotch passer."

Burke said the KHS scouting report revealed Highland as a potentially good team that appeared slightly unsettled for its opener.

"You can't hold a team with eight veterans too lightly," he continued. "They looked rough in spots against Suffern but they'll have smoothed a lot of the bumps by the time we get down there Saturday."

Thus the contest probably will resolve into a battle between Kingston's running attack and Highland's overhead attack. The Highlanders also will throw a lot of spread formations at the Maroon and are apt to click on a high percentage of passes. They hit for nearly 50 per cent against Suffern.

Squad in Shape

Burke pronounced the Kingston squad in top shape and said the players came out of the rugged Mont Pleasant opener with just the usual assortment of bumps and bruises.

Lou Kuntz, first string guard missed a couple of workouts this week because of a minor case of blood poisoning in one hand but is expected to be in the starting lineup.

The Maroons have a signal drill scheduled at the stadium this afternoon.

The probable lineups:

Kingston		Highland
E	Kozlowski	Roumelis
T	Engle	S. Crimi
G	Gallo	Williams
C	LeFevre	Murphy
G	Kuntz	Ottaviano
T	Scheffer	Russell
E	Jackson	Wildrick
QB	Billings	Burdash
LH	Massa	Taylor
RH	Giles	Hecht
FB	Manfro	Cacciarile

Tigers Risk Streak

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The end of the trail comes for every star who ever brightened the heavens of sport and the fall of Jersey Joe Walcott is but another confirmation of the inexorable laws of human nature.

Watching Walcott as he fell under the blockbusters of Rocky Marciano in Philadelphia's sprawling municipal stadium you realize that no matter how clever, how fast, how strong you are, the watch on your wrist cuts with each tick the days of your fame and fortune.

If you have read your scriptures there are two things you must remember.

The two things which never last forever are the strength of man and the beauty of women.

You might add—the luck of man as well. Because, if it was not luck and courage that beat Walcott and left him sprawling on the canvas of the red-flecked ring at the stadium, it was the ancient story of age paying tribute to youth.

The heavyweight division has its greatest puncher and most exciting champion since the incomparable Jack Dempsey. Boxing has never known a cruder heavyweight kingpin than the Brockton Blockbuster but seldom has it had a more potent one-punch killer. Joe Louis was a killer in his own fashion, but he needed a succession of punches to annihilate an opponent. Rocky needs only one.

Walcott, defying the laws of nature with a dynamic and incredible performance, made Marciano look like a Golden Glove novice in the 11th and 12th rounds. The Great Black Father of Camden had come within an eyelash of scoring the shortest knockout in heavyweight championship history in the first round. Now he was in the process of having Marciano exposed as an overrated bum.

And then it happened. The triphammer blows that flattened Joe Louis and Harry Matthews found their targets. In one fleeting, tragic second Jersey Joe was no longer the world's heavyweight champion.

There is no plausible reason for a return bout. The results will be the same, only faster. But in the heart of old Jersey Joe Walcott lurks the hope and aspiration that has eluded a long procession of champions before him. It is an eternal passion among dethroned heavyweight champions to try to reclaim the crown. It has never happened in boxing history and it won't happen to Walcott.

Marciano can be hit and made to look bad, awkward, clumsy and futile. But when he connects with either hand it's curtains for his opponents. Ezzard Charles, to name one, might make Marciano look foolish for a few rounds but, after watching Rocky demolish Walcott, what would Charles want to be doing in the same ring with Marciano? Charles always lapsed into extreme shyness in the vicinity of Walcott's left hooks. He'll soon learn that Rocky hits even harder.

The fleeting quality of fame and fortune can be seen so often in the world of sport and in such dramatic and tragic settings that it is a wonder any champion of any sport ever grows big and vain and swollen of importance. They do not last. They cannot last.

Better that Jersey Joe Walcott retire to his beautiful home in Camden, N. J., and take his place among the great champions of heavyweight history. In defeat he proved he was all of that.

Joe came a long way from the dreary days of 1944 when he lived in a house costing $9 a month rent, with broken window panes covered by burlap bags. He got a job in the Camden shipyards making as high as $90 a week. It was then that Felix Bocchiccio knocked on his door.

When Felix, a stranger, made his offer to Joe, the ex-champion was reluctant. He didn't want to take the chance now that things were better. But Felix was a good convincer and the partnership they formed then has been one of the nicest things in boxing.

The rest is boxing history. Walcott today is a moderately wealthy man, has his own home, all paid for and a future in an out of the boxing world. His is the story of a man who never lost faith.

County Trapshoot Set At Lake Katrine Club

Oct. 12 Event Likely To Draw 15 Clubs

New Paltz Rod and Gun Club will defend its Ulster county trapshoot title in the annual Federated Sportsmen's Clubs field day on Sunday, Oct. 12, at the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club grounds.

Howard Mosher of the New Paltz club will defend his individual title, while Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club puts its team handicap title on the line.

At least 15 county clubs are expected to compete in the event which will be held, rain or shine.

The shooting starts at 10 a. m. The Lake Katrine traps will be open for practice shooting on Sunday, Oct. 5, while the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club members have a trap and skeet shoot scheduled this weekend.

Field captain Chet Joy of the host club reports the traps in excellent condition and predicts record-breaking performances in both the team and individual department.

Predict Record Shoot

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who is president of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs, has appointed Frank Hornbeck of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club chairman of the arrangements committee. Other members of the committee are Tony Benoit, Glasco Rod and Gun Club; Frank Van Gonsic, New Paltz; Carleton King, Saugerties and Howard Mosher, New Paltz.

The tournament committee met Monday and completed arrangements for the largest entry in several years. Members of the handicap committee headed by Howard Mosher of New Paltz as chairmen will meet on Monday, Sept. 29, at the Ulster county court house, Kingston, at 8 p. m. Tony Benoit and Fred Thiel of Milton are on the committee with Mosher.

The handicap committee urges all clubs to send a representative to the Sept. 29 meeting at the court house.

Army's Top Back May Miss Opener

West Point—Three quarters of the Army backfield have suffered varying degrees of leg injuries the past week, which has impeded the progress of the squad in its preparation for the opening game with South Carolina on Saturday.

Freddie Meyers, and John Wing, halfbacks; and Dick Boyle, quarterback, will see little, if any, action against the Southern conference foe.

Meyers, the leading runner, passer and receiver on the squad, will be particularly missed. A pulled thigh muscle has kept him out of the practice session for more than a week.

In view of the untimely series of injuries to key backs, the Cadets have been thrown off stride in their preparation, Freddie Attaya and Tom Bell, both of whom played last year, will probably get the starting nod at the halfbacks. Pete Vann, young yearling signal-caller, will replace Boyle.

The remainder of the Cadet line-up appears intact. On offense Lowell Sisson and Bob Mischak, both good receivers, are at the ends; Frank Wilkerson and Bill Doremus, are at tackles; LeRoy Lunn and Dick Ziegler, guards, and Godwin Ordway, center.

On defense John Kroback and Neil Chamberlin are the ends; Ronald Lincoln and John Krause, tackles; Bob Guidera and Lunn guards; Ken Kramer and Gerry Lodge, linebackers; Jerry Hagan and Bell, halfbacks; and Don Fuqua is the safety.

George Hughes and Frank Campochiaro Early Leaders in Twaalfskill Tourney

Former club champion George Hughes and Frank Campochiaro have posted a 36-hole total of 285 to take the early lead in the annual Calcutta tournament at Twaalfskill Golf Club.

The 36-hole competition for two-man teams is scheduled to wind up this weekend. Play is based on full handicap for each player.

Scores have been abnormally high, with most teams running into difficulty on the second 18. The tandems of Ed Remmert-Ed O'Reilly and Alvin Boice-Burt Davis are in a good position to overhaul the leaders on their second 18.

Boice, 1952 Twaalfskill and city champion, fired a 71 and got able assistance from Davis to post their 140. Remmert and O'Reilly also are in a good position to make their move with 142.

Ernie Schirmer and Bob Umpleby completed their 36 holes yesterday but slumped after starting with 142.

Among the early finishers, Harry LeFevre and Louis R. Netter posted 313; John Van Gonsic-Charles E. Vogel, 323; Joseph O'Connor-Walton Fitzgerald, 303; Lou Smith-Fabian Russell, 293, and John Matthews-Clarence Beehler, 319.

The 18-hole threats still to complete their second round were:

Burt Haver-Bob Russell, 147

Robert O'Reilly-William Fuller, 146

Dick Overbagh-Eugene Freer, 149

John Jordan-Leon Yonnetti, 149.

BOWLING

Fire-balling Tom Carlino and Eleanor Dumenigo captured top honors among a batch of outstanding individual performances in last night's bowling.

Carlino achieved the hat trick for 636 with 213-215-208 to pace the Ferraro Major League, while Mrs. Dumenigo's 173-156-196-525 in the Central Rec Women's League gave her distaff honors by one pin over Kiki Smith of the Hercules Women's wheel. She fired 170-182-172-524.

Amy Mauro Hits 515

Amy Mauro's 203-515 was good for runnerup honors in the Central Rec Women's loop, while Jennie Spada cracked 503, Mae MacCaffrey 478, Betty Cadden 461, M. DeWitt 458 and Emma Pratt 451.

Trailing Joe Dulin in the Hercules wheel were E. Smedes 530, R. Kelekian 220-530, G. Bilyou 508 and J. Kennedy 523.

E. Gross Socks 517

The Friendship League reported its activities for the first time and Evelyn Gross was revealed as this week's leader of the Tuesday-Wednesday circuit with a 517 count. She knocked off solos of 183, 216 and 170. Mrs. Miriam Posner took high solo honors with 202 and tripled 509 to tie Ada Markle for the second spot. Mayme Hutton rolled 481, Dot Flemings 477, Virginia Cave 475 and Reta Frederick 470.

Eleanor Werbalowsky knocked down the most pins in the Sisterhood League, while Ruth Garber and Blanche Pekarsky were shining in the high singles department. Millie Goldstein's 450 was good for second place. Blanche Pekarsky shot 206-437, Ruth Garber 207-434, Frances Schechter 433, Freda Lifshin 432 and Betty Monashefsky 400.

Dykes Leads Matinee

Elsie Dykes took over in the Matinee Club with 482 on games of 170, 169 and 143. Margaret McCardle fired 461, Ann Manfro 417 and Dot Bell 410.

The Pioneer Women's League had 17 bowlers in the "400" or better bracket, with Louise Jordan's 457 (165-133-159) leading the 12-team wheel. Peggy Duffy trailed with 444 and Shirley Buckman accounted for 441. Others in the top echelon included Fritzi Davis 433, Dottie La Rocca 432, E. Hornbeck 431, C. Marks 428 and M. Ryan 427.

Larry Jordan's 527 (210-161-516) paced the Y Mercantile National Division keglers, with Sam Hayes and Preston DeWitt tossing 489s. Clarence Hyde, 485, and R. Houghtaling, 487, rounded out the top five.

Fisher and Digastino Mound Choices Sunday

City League Pennant Will Be at Stake

The 1952 City Baseball League reaches its own point of no return Sunday when Jones Dairy meets Wiltwyck Motors in a sudden death playoff for the league championship.

The "Yankees" of the twilight league for many years, Jones Dairy remains a slight favorite to keep the city baseball crown in Kingston.

They will call on veteran Tommy Fisher, a seasoned performer who seldom disappoints in the clutch.

Wiltwyck Motors, composed largely of Highland players, has a choice of three pitchers for the "big one." Joe Digastino, Bud Finn and Ernie McCormick comprise a formidable trio, anyone of whom could prove troublesome for the Dairymen.

Digastino is the workhorse of the crew and was responsible for the Wiltwycks' playoff victory in the second round against Jones Dairy. A strong-armed right hander who has had plenty of rest, he figures to get the nod.

Finn is a cutie, with sidearm stuff and curves and has dropped a couple of heartbreakers to Jones Dairy. McCormick has made only infrequent appearances at the Athletic Field this season.

Game time is 2:05 p. m. and a full nine inning contest is scheduled. Regular season City League contests are over the seven-inning route, but since the championship will be decided by one game instead of the traditional three it was agreed to play a complete regulation contest.

Sanok First Amateur To Capture Met Open

Mamaroneck, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—The "impossible" happened yesterday in the Metropolitan Open golf tournament.

The event had been going on 47 years during which the 37 champions were crowned and an amateur never had taken it. But Chet Sanok of Upper Montclair, N. J., was not impressed with the figures.

He's the new champion, having taken the crown with a four-round, 72-hole, total of 289 at the Winged Foot Golf Club.

Sanok finished two strokes in front of pros Jim Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., the PGA champion, and Dick Mayer of Greenwick, Conn. The pair divided $1,750.

Pete Cooper of White Plains was fourth with 295 and amateur Jim McHale of Mamaroneck, N. Y., came in fifth with 297.

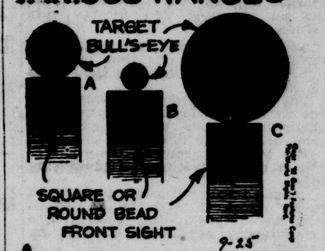
HOW TO ESTIMATE VARIOUS RANGES



AIM YOUR GUN AT A KNOWN SIZED TARGET FROM DIFFERENT MEASURED DISTANCES. IF THE SIGHT EQUALS THE SIZE OF A TARGET'S BULL'S-EYE AS IN DIAGRAM "A", IT IS YOUR KEY. THUS, IF THE SIGHT'S BEAD MATCHES A 6 INCH BULL'S-EYE FROM 100 YARDS (AS IN "A"), THE SAME BULL'S-EYE IS ONE HALF THE SIGHT'S SIZE WHEN SEEN FROM 200 YDS. ("B") OR TWICE THE SIGHT'S SIZE WHEN SIGHTED FROM 50 YDS. ("C").

AN ANIMAL'S 3 IN. HEAD WOULD COMPARE WITH "B" AT 100 YDS., "A" AT 50 YDS. OR "C" AT 25 YDS.

Highland's Passing Threat to Maroon

KWBA Will Fete Mrs. Bev Port

The Kingston Woman's Bowling Association will honor Mrs. Beverly Port wth a testimonial dinner at the Hotel Stuyvesant on Thursday, Oct. 2.

The affair, which will have a fiesta theme, is in recognition of Mrs. Port's bowling the second highest single, 288, in New York state during the 1951-52 season. The medal presentation will be attended by Mrs. Iola Lasher, New York State Women's Bowling Association president, and Mrs. Ruth Hunzinger, the state secretary.

Past presidents of the KWBA will be awarded pins in appreciation of their service and contribution to bowling since the inception of the KWBA.

All members of the KWBA are asked to attend. Ticket reservations can be made with Mrs. Reta Frederick, Mrs. Dorothea Flemings, Mrs. Dot Rawding, Elizabeth Schoonmaker, KWBA president; and Mrs. Helen Mollenhauer, secretary. Reservations must be made by Monday, Sept. 29.

Burke Sees Air Filled With Aerials

Kingston High expects to run into an aerial blitz at Highland Saturday, Coach Bill Burke hinted today.

"We're not letting that Highland drubbing at Suffern fool us," said the Maroon mentor on the eve of the annual contest with always rugged and tough Highland.

"Highland has two brilliant ends in Gus Roumelus and Wildrick and they completed the first five passes they tried against Suffern." This fellow Burdash is a topnotch passer."

Burke said the KHS scouting report revealed Highland as a potentially good team that appeared slightly unsettled for its opener.

"You can't hold a team with eight veterans too lightly," he continued. "They looked rough in spots against Suffern but they'll have smoothed a lot of the bumps by the time we get down there Saturday."

Thus the contest probably will resolve into a battle between Kingston's running attack and Highland's overhead attack. The Highlanders also will throw a lot of spread formations at the Maroon and are apt to click on a high percentage of passes. They hit for nearly 50 per cent against Suffern.

Squad in Shape

Burke pronounced the Kingston squad in top shape and said the players came out of the rugged Mont Pleasant opener with just the usual assortment of bumps and bruises.

Lou Kuntz, first string guard missed a couple of workouts this week because of a minor case of blood poisoning in one hand but is expected to be in the starting lineup.

The Maroons have a signal drill scheduled at the stadium this afternoon.

The probable lineups:

Kingston	Highland
E—Kozlowski	Roumelis
T—Engle	S. Crimi
G—Gallo	Williams
C—LeFevre	Murphy
G—Kuntz	Ottaviano
T—Scheffer	Russell
E—Jackson	Wildrick
QB—Billings	Burdash
LH—Massa	Taylor
RH—Giles	Hecht
FB—Manfro	Cacciarile

Tigers Risk Streak

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

The end of the trail comes for every star who ever brightened the heavens of sport and the fall of Jersey Joe Walcott is but another confirmation of the inexorable laws of human nature.

Watching Walcott as he fell under the blockbusters of Rocky Marciano in Philadelphia's sprawling municipal stadium you realize that no matter how clever, how fast, how strong you are, the watch on your wrist cuts with each tick the days of your fame and fortune.

If you have read your scriptures there are two things you must remember.

The two things which never last forever are the strength of man and the beauty of women.

You might add—the luck of man as well. Because, if it was not luck and courage that beat Walcott and left him sprawling on the canvas of the red-flecked ring at the stadium, it was the ancient story of age paying tribute to youth.

The heavyweight division has its greatest puncher and most exciting champion since the incomparable Jack Dempsey. Boxing has never known a cruder heavyweight kingpin than the Brockton Blockbuster but seldom has it had a more potent one-punch killer. Joe Louis was a killer in his own fashion, but he needed a succession of punches to annihilate an opponent. Rocky needs only one.

Walcott, defying the laws of nature with a dynamic and incredible performance, made Marciano look like a Golden Glove novice in the 11th and 12th rounds. The Great Black Father of Camden had come within an eyelash of scoring the shortest knockout in heavyweight championship history in the first round. Now he was in the process of having Marciano exposed as an overrated bum.

And then it happened. The triphammer blows that flattened Joe Louis and Harry Matthews found their targets. In one fleeting, tragic second Jersey Joe was no longer the world's heavyweight champion.

There is no plausible reason for a return bout. The results will be the same, only faster. But in the heart of old Jersey Joe Walcott lurks the hope and aspiration that has eluded a long procession of champions before him. It is an eternal passion among dethroned heavyweight champions to try to reclaim the crown. It has never happened in boxing history and it won't happen to Walcott.

Marciano can be hit and made to look bad, awkward, clumsy and futile. But when he connects with either hand it's curtains for his opponents. Ezzard Charles, to name one, might make Marciano look foolish for a few rounds but, after watching Rocky demolish Walcott, what would Charles want to be doing in the same ring with Marciano? Charles always lapsed into extreme shyness in the vicinity of Walcott's left hooks. He'll soon learn that Rocky hits even harder.

The fleeting quality of fame and fortune can be seen so often in the world of sport and in such dramatic and tragic settings that it is a wonder any champion of any sport ever grows big and vain and swollen of importance. They do not last. They cannot last.

Better that Jersey Joe Walcott retire to his beautiful home in Camden, N. J., and take his place among the great champions of heavyweight history. In defeat he proved he was all of that.

Joe came a long way from the dreary days of 1944 when he lived in a house costing $9 a month rent, with broken window panes covered by burlap bags. He got a job in the Camden shipyards making as high as $90 a week. It was then that Felix Bocchiccio knocked on his door.

When Felix, a stranger, made his offer to Joe, the ex-champion was reluctant. He didn't want to take the chance now that things were better. But Felix was a good convincer and the partnership they formed then has been one of the nicest things in boxing.

The rest is boxing history. Walcott today is a moderately wealthy man, has his own home, all paid for and a future in an out of the boxing world. His is the story of a man who never lost faith.

BOWLING

Fire-balling Tom Carlino and Eleanor Dumenigo captured top honors among a batch of outstanding individual performances in last night's bowling.

Carlino achieved the hat trick for 636 with 213-215-208 to pace the Ferraro Major League, while Mrs. Dumenigo's 173-156-196-525 in the Central Rec Women's League gave her distaff honors by one pin over Kiki Smith of the Hercules Women's wheel. She fired 170-182-172-524.

Joe Dulin was in front in the Hercules League with a 622 blast on solos of 176, 234 and 212.

A 256 finisher enabled Johnny Ferraro to creep within a stick of Carlino in the Major with 635. He opened with 180 and 199.

Other topflight bowling saw George Flemings sandwich a 187 with a pair of 214s for 615 and Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer reel off 235-218-614 and Joe Maurer 221-211-613.

Amy Mauro Hits 515

Amy Mauro's 203-515 was good for runnerup honors in the Central Rec Women's loop, while Jennie Spada cracked 503, Mae MacCaffrey 478, Betty Cadden 461, M. DeWitt 458 and Emma Pratt 451.

Trailing Joe Dulin in the Hercules wheel were E. Smedes 530, R. Kelekian 220-530, G. Bilyou 508 and J. Kennedy 523.

E. Gross Socks 517

The Friendship League reported its activities for the first time and Evelyn Gross was revealed as this week's leader of the Tuesday-Wednesday circuit with a 517 count. She knocked off solos of 183, 216 and 170. Mrs. Miriam Posner took high solo honors with 202 and tripled 509 to tie Ada Markle for the second spot. Mayme Hutton rolled 481, Dot Flemings 477, Virginia Cave 475 and Reta Frederick 470.

Eleanor Werbalowsky knocked down the most pins in the Sisterhood League, while Ruth Garber and Blanche Pekarsky were shining in the high singles department. Millie Goldstein's 450 was good for second place. Blanche Pekarsky shot 206-437, Ruth Garber 207-434, Frances Schechter 433, Freda Lifshin 432 and Betty Monashefsky 400.

Dykes Leads Matinee

Elsie Dykes took over in the Matinee Club with 482 on games of 170, 169 and 143. Margaret McCardle fired 461, Ann Manfro 417 and Dot Bell 410.

The Pioneer Women's League had 17 bowlers in the "400" or better bracket, with Louise Jordan's 457 (165-133-159) leading the 12-team wheel. Peggy Duffy trailed with 444 and Shirley Buckman accounted for 441. Others in the top echelon included Fritzi Davis 433, Dottie La Rocca 432, E. Hornbeck 431, C. Marks 428 and M. Ryan 427.

Larry Jordan's 527 (210-161-516) paced the Y Mercantile National Division keglers, with Sam Hayes and Preston DeWitt tossing 489s. Clarence Hyde, 485, and R. Houghtaling, 487, rounded out the top five.

Fisher and Digastino Mound Choices Sunday

City League Pennant Will Be at Stake

The 1952 City Baseball League reaches its own point of no return Sunday when Jones Dairy meets Wiltwyck Motors in a sudden death playoff for the league championship.

The "Yankees" of the twilight league for many years, Jones Dairy remains a slight favorite to keep the city baseball crown in Kingston.

They will call on veteran Tommy Fisher, a seasoned performer who seldom disappoints in the clutch.

Wiltwyck Motors, composed largely of Highland players, has a choice of three pitchers for the "big one." Joe Digastino, Bud Finn and Ernie McCormick comprise a formidable trio, anyone of whom could prove troublesome for the Dairymen.

Digastino is the workhorse of the crew and was responsible for the Wiltwycks' playoff victory in the second round against Jones Dairy. A strong-armed right hander who has had plenty of rest, he figures to get the nod.

Finn is a cutie, with sidearm stuff and curves and has dropped a couple of heartbreakers to Jones Dairy. McCormick has made only infrequent appearances at the Athletic Field this season.

Game time is 2:05 p. m. and a full nine inning contest is scheduled. Regular season City League contests are over the seven-inning route, but since the championship will be decided by one game instead of the traditional three it was agreed to play a complete regulation contest.

Sanok First Amateur To Capture Met Open

Mamaroneck, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP)—The "impossible" happened yesterday in the Metropolitan Open golf tournament.

The event had been going on 47 years during which the 37 champions were crowned and an amateur never had taken it. But Chet Sanok of Upper Montclair, N. J., was not impressed with the figures.

He's the new champion, having taken the crown with a four-round, 72-hole, total of 289 at the Winged Foot Golf Club.

Sanok finished two strokes in front of pros Jim Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., the PGA champion, and Dick Mayer of Greenwick, Conn. The pair divided $1,750.

Pete Cooper of White Plains was fourth with 295 and amateur Jim McHale of Mamaroneck, N. Y., came in fifth with 297.

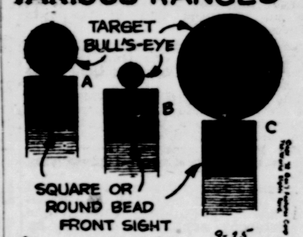
HOW TO ESTIMATE VARIOUS RANGES



AIM YOUR GUN AT A KNOWN SIZED TARGET FROM DIFFERENT MEASURED DISTANCES. IF THE SIGHT EQUALS THE SIZE OF A TARGET'S BULL'S-EYE AS IN DIAGRAM "A", IT IS YOUR KEY. THUS, IF THE SIGHT'S BEAD MATCHES A 6 INCH BULL'S-EYE FROM 100 YARDS (AS IN "A"), THE SAME BULL'S-EYE IS ONE HALF THE SIGHT'S SIZE WHEN SEEN FROM 200 YDS. ("B") OR TWICE THE SIGHT'S SIZE WHEN SIGHTED FROM 50 YDS. ("C").

AN ANIMAL'S 3 IN. HEAD WOULD COMPARE WITH "B" AT 100 YDS., "A" AT 50 YDS. OR "C" AT 25 YDS.

County Trapshoot Set At Lake Katrine Club

Oct. 12 Event Likely To Draw 15 Clubs

New Paltz Rod and Gun Club will defend its Ulster county trapshoot title in the annual Federated Sportsmen's Clubs field day on Sunday, Oct. 12, at the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club grounds.

Howard Mosher of the New Paltz club will defend his individual title, while Wittenberg Sportsmen's Club puts its team handicap title on the line.

At least 15 county clubs are expected to compete in the event which will be held, rain or shine.

The shooting starts at 10 a. m. The Lake Katrine traps will be open for practice shooting on Sunday, Oct. 5, while the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club members have a trap and skeet shoot scheduled this weekend.

Field captain Chet Joy of the host club reports the traps in excellent condition and predicts record-breaking performances in both the team and individual department.

Predict Record Shoot

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who is president of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs, has appointed Frank Hornbeck of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club chairman of the arrangements committee. Other members of the committee are Tony Benoit, Glasco Rod and Gun Club; Frank Van Gonsic, New Paltz; Carleton King, Saugerties and Howard Mosher, New Paltz.

The tournament committee met Monday and completed arrangements for the largest entry in several years. Members of the handicap committee headed by Howard Mosher of New Paltz as chairmen will meet on Monday, Sept. 29, at the Ulster county court house, Kingston, at 8 p. m. Tony Benoit and Fred Thiel of Miltop are on the committee with Mosher.

Carleton King, the Federation secretary, heads the prize committee with Frank Hornbeck.

The handicap committee urges all clubs to send a representative to the Sept. 29 meeting at the court house.

Army's Top Back May Miss Opener

West Point—Three quarters of the Army backfield have suffered varying degrees of leg injuries the past week, which has impeded the progress of the squad in its preparation for the opening game with South Carolina on Saturday.

Freddie Meyers, and John Wing, halfbacks; and Dick Boyle, quarterback, will see little, if any, action against the Southern conference foe.

Meyers, the leading runner, passer and receiver on the squad, will be particularly missed. A pulled thigh muscle has kept him out of the practice session for more than a week.

In view of the untimely series of injuries to key backs, the Cadets have been thrown off stride in their preparation, Freddie Attaya and Tom Bell, both of whom played last year, will probably get the starting nod at the halfbacks. Pete Vann, young yearling signal-caller, will replace Boyle.

The remainder of the Cadet line-up appears intact. On offense Lowell Sisson and Bob Mischak, both good receivers, are at the ends; Frank Wilkerson and Bill Doremus, are at tackles; LeRoy Lunn and Dick Ziegler, guards, and Godwin Ordway, center.

On defense John Kroback and Neil Chamberlin are the ends; Ronald Lincoln and John Krause, tackles; Bob Guidera and Lunn guards; Ken Kramer and Gerry Lodge, linebackers; Jerry Hagan and Bell, halfbacks; and Don Fuqua is the safety.

George Hughes and Frank Campochiaro Early Leaders in Twaalfskill Tourney

Former club champion George Hughes and Frank Campochiaro have posted a 36-hole total of 285 to take the early lead in the annual Calcutta tournament at Twaalfskill Golf Club.

The 36-hole competition for two-man teams is scheduled to wind up this weekend. Play is based on full handicap for each player.

Scores have been abnormally high, with most teams running into difficulty on the second 18. The tandems of Ed Remmert-Ed O'Reilly and Alvin Boice-Burt Davis are in a good position to overhaul the leaders on their second 18.

Boice, 1952 Twaalfskill and city champion, fired a 71 and got able assistance from Davis to post their 140. Remmert and O'Reilly also are in a good position to make their move with 142.

Ernie Schirmer and Bob Umpleby completed their 36 holes yesterday but slumped after starting with 142.

Among the early finishers, Harry LeFevre and Louis R. Netter posted 313; John Van Gonsic-Charles E. Vogel, 323; Joseph O'Connor-Walton Fitzgerald, 303; Lou Smith-Fabian Russell, 293, and John Matthews-Clarence Beehler, 319.

The 18-hole threats still to complete their second round were:

Burt Haver-Bob Russell, 147

Robert O'Reilly-William Fuller, 146

Dick Overbagh-Eugene Freer, 149

John Jordan-Leon Yonnetti, 149.

Arrest Warrant Out for Buyer

Mexico City, Sept. 26 (AP)—Police said an arrest warrant was out today for a person, identity undisclosed, who recently took out a large insurance policy on a Mexican passenger aboard the Mexican airliner nearly wrecked Wednesday by a mysterious explosion.

Investigators said they believed the explosion, in which several of the 17 passengers were injured, was caused by a bomb placed in the baggage compartment by the purchaser of the insurance policy. They refused to disclose the identity.

The case recalled the time-bombing of a Canadian airliner three years ago in which 23 persons were killed. Two persons have been hanged for their part in that explosion and a third is awaiting execution.

One passenger on the Mexican plane said he had seen a man in Mexico City put two suitcases aboard the plane, then cancel his passage at the last minute.

The blast blew out the side of the twin-engine DC-3 plane after it took off from here for Oaxaca. The pilot brought the plane down safely at the nearby Santa Lucia military air base but several passengers, including Dr. Henry Mankin and his wife, of Berkeley, Calif., were injured by flying metal.

Reports That Borrowing Is Becoming Real Task

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 26 (AP)—State Treasurer Joseph A. Adorno places Connecticut's outstanding debt at $237,000,000 as of June 30.

He told Gov. John Lodge in his annual report, yesterday that the work of borrowing money was becoming such a task that he needed a second, $10,000 a year deputy to handle such matters.

The treasurer also envisaged increased borrowing in the next few months through issuance of remaining portions of bond issues authorized by the 1951 legislature and likely future borrowings.

Some $15,000,000 of the outstanding debt, the treasurer said, is in short term notes to which the state has to resort to pay its ordinary operating costs because of failure of tax receipts to keep pace with spending.

Such short term borrowing, he said, might be reduced somewhat if the state tax laws are changed, to provide for more frequent payments by corporations and others.

Must Keep Talking Peace

Amherst, Mass., Sept. 26 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt says "continued peace talks are necessary as our only hope of avoiding a permanently divided world and a third world war." "Peace won't drop from heaven," she told a convocation as the University of Massachusetts opened its 89th year yesterday. "I for one," the president's widow said, "do not regret the 77 cents per person it is costing the United States to do its international work through the United Nations to keep peace.

Kiwanis Is Told Humorous Side of Managing Speakers

Humorous happenings during the years he managed many famous persons on lecture tours were recounted for members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club on Thursday by James Pond, head of Programs, Inc.

Pond, a Fellow, Royal Geographical Society, and past president of the Adventurers Club, based his remarks on some of his troubles in scheduling speaking engagements for outstanding persons in the fields of art, theatre and exploration. Many of the troubles concerned the forgetfullness of many of the greats in keeping appointments. Some persons in that category were Irving Bacheller, author and novelist and Cornelia Otis Skinner, the actress.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd had recurring trouble in making train connections, Pond said, and Capt. Edward Rickenbacher so trembled with fear on his lecture debut on an April Fool's Day that he completely forgot the speech that several friends helped him prepare. Gen. "Billy" Mitchel, who went on a lecture tour to stir the American public from its apathy concerning air power, did very poorly on his first several lectures until he finally threw away his manuscript and spoke extemporaneously, Pond recalled.

Back Vote Campaign

Also at Thursday's meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel, Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke briefly of the concerted effort being made by many local groups to "get out the vote" this coming election. He noted that the Kiwanis Club, through Chairman G. Herbert DeKay of the public relations committee, had pledged support of the club in the county-wide effort. Posters were distributed to be displayed in the members' places of business. President Raymond Garraghan reported on the state Kiwanis convention which he and Harold Keator attended. N. Jansen Fowler, vice president, announced the first meeting of the Kiwanis Kapers Committee will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday at 8:30 p. m.

George G. McCarthy, inter-club committee chairman, thanked all members who attended recent inter-club meetings. It was reported in the club's Weekly Bulletin that Kiwanis members traveled a total of 12,170 man-miles within an eight-day period to attend meetings in Castleton, Delmar, Suffern and Newburgh.

Men can live within a range of 200 degrees of temperature variation, but their body temperatures cannot vary 20 degrees.

YMCA Secretaries Confer at Mohonk

The general secretaries of the YMCA state of New York will meet this weekend at Lake Mohonk. This is the first time they have met in Ulster county, Syracuse being the usual conference center. During this centennial year the physical directors and the Boys' Work secretaries of the State of New York have likewise met at Mohonk.

The conference is set up on a workshop basis with a maximum amount of time given to professional concerns of general secretaries such as youth, adult, physical work, finances, housekeeping, boards, and committees, in service training of staffs and problems of professional and non-professional staffs.

Richard Kinney will speak on Wise Men Clubs. Peter Cantline, Jr., will speak on Laymen Looks at the YMCA. Ernest W. Ford will give the key note conference talk at the opening meeting today at 4 p. m.

The meeting will run through Saturday and close Sunday noon. Burt Tandy of the local Y is president of the group and will preside at the conference. Assisting him is Bill Learch of Mt. Vernon Y and Ed Norton of the Hunnington Association.

Thomas Street Opens

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk announced today that Thomas street, which was rebuilt as part of the Broadway underpass project, is now open to traffic. The street will be one-way from Broadway to the new access street, but no left turns will be allowed into Thomas street from Broadway.

Arrest Warrant Out for Buyer

Mexico City, Sept. 26 (AP)—Police said an arrest warrant was out today for a person, identity undisclosed, who recently took out a large insurance policy on a Mexican passenger aboard the Mexican airliner nearly wrecked Wednesday by a mysterious explosion.

Investigators said they believed the explosion, in which several of the 17 passengers were injured, was caused by a bomb placed in the baggage compartment by the purchaser of the insurance policy. They refused to disclose the identity.

The case recalled the time-bombing of a Canadian airliner three years ago in which 23 persons were killed. Two persons have been hanged for their part in that explosion and a third is awaiting execution.

One passenger on the Mexican plane said he had seen a man in Mexico City put two suitcases aboard the plane, then cancel his passage at the last minute.

The blast blew out the side of the twin-engine DC-3 plane after it took off from here for Oaxaca. The pilot brought the plane down safely at the nearby Santa Lucia military air base but several passengers, including Dr. Henry Mankin and his wife, of Berkeley, Calif., were injured by flying metal.

Reports That Borrowing Is Becoming Real Task

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 26 (AP)—State Treasurer Joseph A. Adorno places Connecticut's outstanding debt at $237,000,000 as of June 30.

He told Gov. John Lodge in his annual report, yesterday that the work of borrowing money was becoming such a task that he needed a second, $10,000 a year deputy to handle such matters.

The treasurer also envisaged increased borrowing in the next few months through issuance of remaining portions of bond issues authorized by the 1951 legislature and likely future borrowings.

Some $15,000,000 of the outstanding debt, the treasurer said, is in short term notes to which the state has to resort to pay its ordinary operating costs because of failure of tax receipts to keep pace with spending.

Such short term borrowing, he said, might be reduced somewhat if the state tax laws are changed, to provide for more frequent payments by corporations and others.

Must Keep Talking Peace

Amherst, Mass., Sept. 26 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt says "continued peace talks are necessary as our only hope of avoiding a permanently divided world and a third world war." "Peace won't drop from heaven," she told a convocation as the University of Massachusetts opened its 89th year yesterday. "I for one," the president's widow said, "do not regret the 77 cents per person it is costing the United States to do its international work through the United Nations to keep peace.

Kiwanis Is Told Humorous Side of Managing Speakers

Humorous happenings during the years he managed many famous persons on lecture tours were recounted for members of the Kingston Kiwanis Club on Thursday by James Pond, head of Programs, Inc.

Pond, a Fellow, Royal Geographical Society, and past president of the Adventurers Club, based his remarks on some of his troubles in scheduling speaking engagements for outstanding persons in the fields of art, theatre and exploration. Many of the troubles concerned the forgetfullness of many of the greats in keeping appointments. Some persons in that category were Irving Bacheller, author and novelist and Cornelia Otis Skinner, the actress.

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd had recurring trouble in making train connections, Pond said, and Capt. Edward Rickenbacher so trembled with fear on his lecture debut on an April Fool's Day that he completely forgot the speech that several friends helped him prepare. Gen. "Billy" Mitchel, who went on a lecture tour to stir the American public from its apathy concerning air power, did very poorly on his first several lectures until he finally threw away his manuscript and spoke extemporaneously, Pond recalled.

Back Vote Campaign

Also at Thursday's meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel, Albert Kurdt, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, spoke briefly of the concerted effort being made by many local groups to "get out the vote" this coming election. He noted that the Kiwanis Club, through Chairman G. Herbert DeKay of the public relations committee, had pledged support of the club in the county-wide effort. Posters were distributed to be displayed in the members' places of business. President Raymond Garraghan reported on the state Kiwanis convention which he and Harold Keator attended. N. Jansen Fowler, vice president, announced the first meeting of the Kiwanis Kapers Committee will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday at 8:30 p. m.

George G. McCarthy, inter-club committee chairman, thanked all members who attended recent inter-club meetings. It was reported in the club's Weekly Bulletin that Kiwanis members traveled a total of 12,170 man-miles within an eight-day period to attend meetings in Castleton, Delmar, Suffern and Newburgh.

Island Dock Barges Leave for South Carolina

Two 120-feet steel deck barges, built by Island Dock, Inc., leave Rondout creek for Charleston, S. C. The two barges are part of a total of 21 barges that the local shipyard has built since January 1 for the U. S. Army. The barges above are shown under tow of the tugboat Thomas Cornell of the Cornell Steamboat Co. The Cornell towed the vessels to New York where they were turned over to the Moran Towing and Transportation Co. for the trip down the Atlantic coast to Charleston for delivery to the U. S. Army.

Finds Gas in Own Yard

Kansas City, Sept. 26 (AP)—Dr. Graham Asher will be getting heat for his house right out of his yard this winter. He hired a drilling company to dig a water well in the yard to supply an air conditioning system in his home. The drillers ran into a natural gas pocket. Today a crew is preparing to pipe the gas into the house for heating purposes. "We figure the investment on the gas well will pay for itself in three or four years," said Asher.

Morrisions Have Problem

Upton, Mass., Sept. 26 (AP)—The Arthur W. Morrisons have a problem. A knot fell out of a board in their kitchen annex during the summer, a queen bee entered the hole, thousands of worker bees followed, and now the walls are full of honey. The Morrisons want to know how to get rid of the bees and salvage the honey without tearing down the annex.

Tour Is Extended

Seoul, Korea, Sept. 26 (AP)—Songstress Frances Langford and her husband, movie actor John Hall, today extended their USO show tour of Korea for three more days. They have played before nearly 100,000 servicemen in 10 days.

Loomis Indicted By Columbia Jury

Hudson, Sept. 26 (AP)—Francis Loomis, a 31-year-old mill worker, faces trial on a first-degree murder charge in the stabbing of Harriet Pulver Carroll, 26, with whom he had been living.

The Columbia county grand jury indicted Loomis yesterday in connection with the slaying last July 26 in the couple's apartment. He had been charged with first-degree manslaughter.

Loomis told authorities a "black cloud" came over him during an argument in which, he said, the woman threatened to leave him.

Joseph E. Gordon, 32, of Philmont, was indicted on a first-degree manslaughter charge in the death of Jacob Wasylingyn, 56-year-old Hudson tavern owner.

Wasylingyn was injured fatally July 4 in a fist fight with Gordon at the tavern, police said.

Movie at Flatbush

A color film The Light of the North will be shown at a special service Sunday at the Flatbush Reformed Church at 7:30 p. m. This is an absorbing story of the work of the church in Alaska. Missionary Bishop William James Gordon, Jr., flies his own plane ministering to people of different races and cultures in an area more than twice the size of the state of Texas. Various scenes show visitations to American servicemen and to Eskimos at Point Hope. The film is a beautiful and inspiring story showing the importance of the ministry of the church to people in lonely places. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Reports Jewels Stolen

New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—Police received a report last night that $18,000 worth of jewelry was taken from the Park avenue apartment of socialite Brenda Frazier Kelly on Wednesday. It was not explained why the report was delayed.

Junior Chambers To Meet Here Oct. 5

Kingston will be host for a regional meeting of Junior Chambers of Commerce on Sunday, Oct. 5, it was announced following a meeting of the local Jaycee group at the court house Wednesday night.

The Oct. 5 meeting will bring together representatives of junior chambers in Region 4, which extends from Hudson to Long Island.

New members were introduced at Wednesday night's meeting of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, and two films from the state Chamber of Commerce were shown.

Weather, clear.

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 54 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 70 degrees.

Weather Forecast

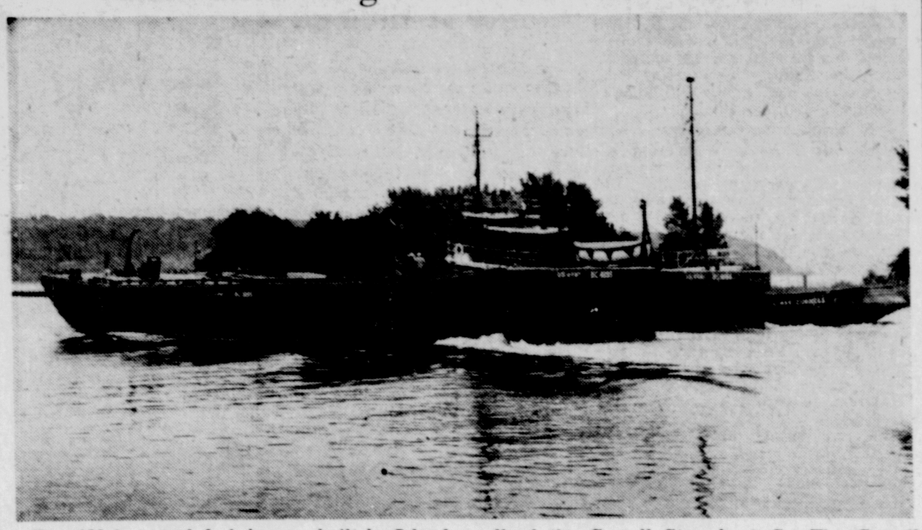
evening with chance of a few showers around midnight, low in mid 50's in the city to mid 40's in northern suburbs. Saturday mostly fair and a little cooler, high in the 60's.

Eastern New York — Partly cloudy; lowest near 35 in extreme north to near 45 in extreme south tonight. Saturday fair; highest 55 to 65.

The city engineer's weather records today showed a temperature of 65 degrees at 10 a. m., a barometric pressure of 29.6 inches, a humidity of 91 per cent, and a wind velocity of 11 miles an hour. The high temperature yesterday was 71 at 4 p. m., and the low 48 at 4 a. m. The mean temperature was 59.5 and the normal is 60. The humidity was 99 at 4 a. m., and 59 at noon. The barometric pressure was 29.95 at 9 a. m., and 29.80 at 11 p. m. The top velocity of a variable wind was five miles an hour.

Island Dock Barges Leave for South Carolina



Two 120-feet steel deck barges, built by Island Dock, Inc., leave Rondout creek for Charleston, S. C. The two barges are part of a total of 21 barges that the local shipyard has built since January 1 for the U. S. Army. The barges above are shown under tow of the tugboat Thomas Cornell of the Cornell Steamboat Co. The Cornell towed the vessels to New York where they were turned over to the Moran Towing and Transportation Co. for the trip down the Atlantic coast to Charleston for delivery to the U. S. Army.

Finds Gas in Own Yard

Kansas City, Sept. 26 (AP)—Dr. Graham Asher will be getting heat for his house right out of his yard this winter. He hired a drilling company to dig a water well in the yard to supply an air conditioning system in his home. The drillers ran into a natural gas pocket. Today a crew is preparing to pipe the gas into the house for heating purposes. "We figure the investment on the gas well will pay for itself in three or four years," said Asher.

Morrisions Have Problem

Upton, Mass., Sept. 26 (AP)—The Arthur W. Morrisons have a problem. A knot fell out of a board in their kitchen annex during the summer, a queen bee entered the hole, thousands of worker bees followed, and now the walls are full of honey. The Morrisons want to know how to get rid of the bees and salvage the honey without tearing down the annex.

Tour Is Extended

Seoul, Korea, Sept. 26 (AP)—Songstress Frances Langford and her husband, movie actor John Hall, today extended their USO show tour of Korea for three more days. They have played before nearly 100,000 servicemen in 10 days.

Loomis Indicted By Columbia Jury

Hudson, Sept. 26 (AP)—Francis Loomis, a 31-year-old mill worker, faces trial on a first-degree murder charge in the stabbing of Harriet Pulver Carroll, 26, with whom he had been living.

The Columbia county grand jury indicted Loomis yesterday in connection with the slaying last July 26 in the couple's apartment. He had been charged with first-degree manslaughter.

Loomis told authorities a "black cloud" came over him during an argument in which, he said, the woman threatened to leave him.

Joseph E. Gordon, 32, of Philmont, was indicted on a first-degree manslaughter charge in the death of Jacob Wasylingyn, 56-year-old Hudson tavern owner.

Wasylingyn was injured fatally July 4 in a fist fight with Gordon at the tavern, police said.

Movie at Flatbush

A color film The Light of the North will be shown at a special service Sunday at the Flatbush Reformed Church at 7:30 p. m. This is an absorbing story of the work of the church in Alaska. Missionary Bishop William James Gordon, Jr., flies his own plane ministering to people of different races and cultures in an area more than twice the size of the state of Texas. Various scenes show visitations to American servicemen and to Eskimos at Point Hope. The film is a beautiful and inspiring story showing the importance of the ministry of the church to people in lonely places. The public is cordially invited to attend.
